RUML WOULD END U. S. INCOME TAX ON CORPORATIONS

He and Banker Suggest Government Rely on Individual Levies for Chief Revenue.

FRANCHISE CHARGE ONLY ON BUSINESS

Authors Say Their Plan Is Aimed at 140 Billion Income and 55 Million Jobs.

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—Abolition of Federal income taxes on corporations and reliance on individual income levies for the chief source of Government revenues was proposed yesterday by Beardsley Ruml, sponsor of the pay-as-you-go tax plan, and a merchant banker, H. Christian Sonne.

Ruml, who is treasurer of the department store, R. H. Macy & Co., and Sonne, president of the firm of Amsinck, Sonne & Co., made their suggestion in a study prepared for the National Planning Association, a private organization of business, labor and Government representatives, with William L. Batt of the War Production Board as chairman.

Principal reasons given for abolishing the corporate income tax and levying instead on such businesses only a 5 per cent franchise tax were:

1. It tends to raise the cost of goods and services, to keep wages lower than they otherwise might be, and to limit the yield on risk-bearing investment.

2. Business judgment currently is distorted by tax considerations as they affect expenditures, pricing and capital.

3. The corporate income tax imposes double taxation on dividend income without regard to progressive rates.

Aimed at 55 Million Jobs.

The Ruml-Sonne recommendations on fiscal and monetary policy are aimed, the authors said, at employment of 55 million people for 40 hours a week, and a national income of 140 billion dollars.

In the flexibility of tax and budget policies proposed, views of another NPA member, Economist Alvin Hansen of the Federal Reserve Board, were evident. Hansen previously had suggested using Government spending and other fiscal operations to supplement private business employment.

Specifically outlined in the tax discussion was a personal income tax at 16 per cent on all incomes plus surtaxes ranging from 1 per cent on $2000-$3000 a year to 50 per cent on $500,000 or more a year.

"Tax revenues should balance expenditures at some agreed level of high employment and high production," the authors summarized, "and should provide for the amortization of the national debt when employment and production exceed these levels, but not before.

"The operations of the system of production and distribution should be, in general, Federal income tax free."

3 NEW YORK NIGHT CLUBS FACE FORCED SALE OVER TAXES

LaGuardia Says Stork, Copacabana, La Vie Parisienne Owe $231,000.

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—The Stork Club, Copacabana and La Vie Parisienne, three of New York's swankiest night spots, face possible forced sale of their assets unless they pay a total of $231,018 which Mayor F. H. LaGuardia says they owe the city in back sales and business taxes.

LaGuardia, who said he planned to take similar action against other night spots, announced yesterday that city tax liens for $180,674 were filed against the Stork Club, $37,370 against Copacabana and $12,974 against La Vie Parisienne.

Managers of the three clubs denied they owed the city any money and Sherman Billingsley of the Stork Club said he had obtained a Supreme Court order for removal of a custodian posted on the club premises by the city.

STRIKE STOPS BUILDING OF NAVY TUGS HERE

Company Charges Striking Welders Blocked Workers at Plants.

Construction of Navy tugs and lighters was stopped at both yards of the St. Louis Shipbuilding & Steel Co. today when, a company officer charged, striking welders "blocked and intimidated" other workers from entering the yards this morning. Approximately 350 welders and cutters have been on strike since last Thursday over a jurisdictional dispute.

Spokesmen for the United Brotherhood of Weldors, Cutters and Helpers of America, an unaffiliated union, denied company charges of intimidation. The union voted against returning to work at a meeting Saturday night attended by 93 of the striking welders.

Company and Navy officials are in conference today at the shipyard in an effort to settle the dispute. A. A. Ahner, company labor relations consultant, said the strikers had refused to submit to arbitration pending a hearing on the question slated with the War Labor Board for August 28. The union had demanded that the company "cease and desist" from assigning fitters to do "burning," a task which the strikers said should be the work of welders. The shipyards employ 1700 workers.

HITLER ORDERS GERMAN ARMY TO USE NAZI PARTY SALUTE

Upraised, Extended Arm Signal Replaces Gesture of Bringing Right Hand to Headgear.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, moving swiftly to Nazify the German army, ordered the party salute substituted today for the army salute.

An official German news agency broadcast said the change was made at the request of "all parts of the armed forces as a sign of unbreakable loyalty and the closest attachment between the army and party."

"The salute by lifting the right hand to the headgear is replaced by the German salute," the announcement from the Fuehrer's headquarters said. The "German" salute consists of raising the right hand in a Fascist manner to halfway between the shoulder and head, standing to attention at the same time, and—if the occasion calls for words—uttering "Heil Hitler."

ORGANIZED LABOR MADE IMPRESSIVE START IN POLITICS

LOST ON WALLACE, GAINED TRUMAN

Shares Victory With Bosses and South—In Position of Power if Democrats Win.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Organized labor, previously a silent partner in the Roosevelt administration, demonstrated at the Chicago Democratic national convention last week that from now on it will insist on having an affirmative voice in the conduct of the business.

Although Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and Sidney Hillman, chairman of its political action committee, were unable, with the support of the New Deal "liberals," to renominate Vice President Henry A. Wallace of Iowa, they did force War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes of South Carolina to withdraw from the contest and helped nominate Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri, their own compromise candidate. They are so pleased with the result that they will try to raise three million dollars to spend on the Roosevelt-Truman and local campaigns.

But the city bosses—the professional, practical fellows—and the so-called liberals and the Southern "conservatives" also are pleased with Truman's victory on the second ballot. The city bosses, such as Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Hague of Jersey and Mayor Kelly of Chicago, were not displeased by the withdrawal of Byrnes, who, they thought, would be unacceptable to their Catholic voters (Byrnes left the Catholic Church as a young man); their Negro constituents, who would oppose any Southerner and the labor groups which found fault with Byrnes' record as a Representative, Senator, Supreme Court Justice and as the War Mobilization Director. The Southerners were so happy over the prospective defeat of Wallace that they welcomed Truman's nomination.

Analysis of Roll Call.

The elimination of Byrnes cannot be called wholly a CIO victory, even though the "practical politicians" had indicated they would have gone along for him had the President so demanded, and the defeat of Wallace cannot be called a defeat for the CIO, because Truman was announced as labor's second choice before Byrnes withdrew, "in deference to the wishes of the President."

Were organized labor and its supporters in the convention responsible for Truman's nomination? Not necessarily so. President Roosevelt might have been able to put over the nomination of his friend Byrnes, if he had been willing to risk the displeasure of labor and Catholic and Negro voters in the election. No one has yet figured out labor's actual strength among the convention delegates. Analysis of the first roll call does not give the desired information because some of the states, like Connecticut, where the CIO is strong, were voting under the unit rule, and other states, like Georgia, were following the public lead from the White House for Wallace.

Analysis of the final roll call also is misleading for, although Wallace's 105-vote tally represented some labor last-ditchers, such as the eight from Michigan, it

MASS EXECUTIONS OF ARMY OFFICERS OF ALL GRADES IN PURGE REPORTED

Hundreds Put to Death in Germany and at Front, Swiss Dispatch Says—Nazi Chief in France Hurt by 'Terrorists.'

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—The German-controlled Paris radio said tonight that "terrorists" had seriously injured Gen. Otto von Stuelpnagel, military administrator for occupied France. The attack was said to have occurred July 21 during a tour of Eastern France.

BERN, Switzerland, July 24 (AP).—Journal de Geneve in a dispatch from Germany said today "there have been mass executions of officers of all grades" to quell the rebellion against Hitler. Firing squads worked overtime in interior Germany and also at the front, the dispatch said, with hundreds of officers put to death on three days ended July 21.

"At Langericht and Grause Haus," (two notorious Vienna prisons), the article asserted, "executions of military persons for the past four weeks occurred regularly, twice a week. At Grause Haus two cells were devoted to this bloody and regular work."

NAZI GUNMEN AT 'LAST-DITCH' POSTS

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

MADRID, July 24 (AP).—The revolt of German generals, reports direct from Berlin say, has given Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler the opportunity to snatch what power German Army leaders still held within the Reich. It also has enabled them to impose the last word in police terror rule on Germany.

With the reopening of telephone communications between Berlin and Madrid it was learned that the SS Elite Guard, the Gestapo, Hitler Youth and the whole Nazi homeguard of gunmen now stand in the last-ditch position planned long ago against the day when the German military machine showed signs of a crackup.

Hitler and the Nazis, in short, have won the latest dog-eat-dog battle of German militarists, who apparently know defeat is near.

Sanchez Maspons, Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Informaciones, always well-informed on the German official version of any story, said the Nazis have "just overcome the last obstacles to the supreme concentration of political (police) power, which was clearly necessary since the defeat at Stalingrad and inevitable since the moment when the Bolshevik armies took the front to the very frontiers of Prussia."

Maspons said the Germans in Berlin saw little signs of revolt except the complete SS military occupation of the official heart of Berlin.

What he did not report—and what no correspondent could report—was that scores of German Army reserve battalions were confined to barracks without knowing why until Hitler spoke and then it was too late.

The Germans who received these reports from Germany today led friends to suppose that hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of regular Army officers of the old Prussian school fell before SS firing squads throughout Germany even before they could be reached by the orders of the generals they would have followed.

TWO GENERALS HURT IN EXPLOSION DIE

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo strong-arm squads were reported today to be carrying out one of the biggest purges in Hitlerite Germany's blood-stained history, seeking to hold down internal upheaval which Prime Minister Churchill called a revolution.

Berlin announced that Col. Guenther Korten, chief of the German air force general staff, had died of injuries suffered in last Thurs-

AMERICANS GIVE UP SALIENT OVER RIVER IN FRANCE

Suffer Minor Setback as British Make Small Gains in Local Fighting Around Caen.

By GLADWIN HILL

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 24 (AP).—Huge concentrations of Allied and German man power and fire power, maneuvering for position in improving weather, prepared today for a major battle on the Normandy front after the British had registered small gains and the Americans received a minor setback.

The salient which Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's forces drove across the Little Seves River toward the German stronghold of Periers last Saturday was shoved back to the north bank by a German counterattack yesterday, and the village of Seves was lost. Supreme headquarters announced, however, that American defensive positions were intact. Before the German counterattack the Americans had pushed to within two miles of Periers.

Fighting at Troarn.

Associated Press Correspondent Roger D. Greene reported from the British front that British troops in an engagement today had seized the western section of Troarn, seven miles east of Caen, only to be driven back by the Germans. The British, however, retained the Troarn railway station, a half mile outside the town.

South and slightly west of Caen, British troops in sharp local engagements took important ground west of the newly retrieved town

GERMANS BURN VILLAGE ON FRENCH-SWISS BORDER

350 Civilians Flee; Several Shot In Retaliation for Maquis Raid.

BERN, July 24 (AP).—The French section of the village of St. Gingolph straddling the border with Switzerland was burned to the ground yesterday by Nazis, in swift retaliation for a raid by French Maquis. About 350 elderly men, women and children fled across the border to Swiss soil.

Several civilians were summarily shot. A number of persons were arrested. The Nazis turned flame-throwers on the homes and nearby farms.

The Office of War Information said information from Switzerland was that "women and children threw themselves into the mountain stream separating the Swiss village from the French, in order to gain Swiss soil," and several fugitives were fired on and seriously wounded by the Nazis.

OPPOSITION LIGHT SO FAR IN NEW MARIANAS ACTION

1958 U. S. Casualties in First 3 Days on Guam —Japanese on Orote Peninsula Isolated.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, July 24 (AP).—The day-old invasion of Tinian Island, proceeded smoothly from firm beachheads today while other American forces isolated key objectives on Guam, 130 miles southward.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique last night said landings, begun at dawn Sunday by assault units of the Second and Fourth Marine Divisions, were being "continued against light opposition" on Hinian, three miles south of conquered Saipan. The landings were made under protection of carrier and land-based planes, warship guns and land-based artillery.

American forces on Guam, which suffered 1958 casualties in the first three days' fighting, have isolated the island's best airdrome and finest harbor in closing their grip on Port Apra.

Nimitz listed 348 Americans killed, 1500 wounded and 110 missing on Guam through July 22. Although figures were not available for the comparable period on Saipan, first American conquest in the Marianas, the Guam losses are believed to be considerably smaller, largely because of the far greater and more concentrated preliminary aerial and naval bombardment.

The Pacific war spread also to

DESK MINE BLEW PANTS OFF HITLER, SAYS NEW REPORT

Aides Studying Map With Him Also Lost Trousers, Swedes Hear.

STOCKHOLM, July 24 (AP).—The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter said yesterday "very concrete rumors" in Berlin were that a German "teller mine" placed under a map desk in Adolf Hitler's headquarters caused the explosion that slightly injured the Fuehrer Thursday.

Another Swedish correspondent telephoned that the explosion blew off Hitler's trousers as well as those of the whole party of 14 standing around the map table. Hitler, said the correspondent, changed his uniform, and when Benito Mussolini arrived a short time later for a conference he held up the ragged pants to show the former Duce what had happened.

Hitler was said to have been wounded in the right shoulder and back and had his hair singed.

"It doesn't matter," he was quoted, "because my barber always fails to cut my hair short enough."

He was described as "the calmest man in the group."

Ball Ignites Matches in Pocket.

Clarence Brown Jr., a schoolboy, of 2220A South Ninth street, had some matches in his hip pocket as he played ball yesterday in Pontiac Park, Ninth street and Shenandoah avenue. The ball struck the pocket and the matches flared up, burning his thigh. He was treated at City Hospital and released.

GERMANS GIVE UP TOWN OF SIEDLCE, 50 MILES FROM POLISH CAPITAL

20-Mile Soviet Advance; Enemy Also Abandons Jaroslaw — Russian Troops Battling Inside Lwow.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Premier Stalin announced tonight the capture of the rail center of Lublin in Southeastern Poland.

The announcement came several hours after the German radio had acknowledged a Russian penetration within 50 miles of Warsaw, with German troops abandoning Siedlce and Jaroslaw.

The German high command acknowledged that Russian troops were battling inside Lwow.

In a special order of the day addressed to Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, Stalin said "troops of the First White Russian Front, as the result of a vigorous offensive by tank detachments, cavalry and infantry, captured the city and large railway junction of Lublin." He ordered a victory salute of 20 salvos from 224 Moscow guns.

Three-Way Drive on Warsaw.

The city, important German stronghold guarding the route to Warsaw from the southeast, is 95 miles fro mthe Polish capital. It lies 25 miles from the Wisla (Vistula) River, which flows through Warsaw and is the last great natural barrier on the road to Germany. It had a peacetime population of 117,000.

Siedlce, the center prong of a three-way drive on Warsaw, is 50 miles due east of the Polish capital. It lies 365 airline miles from Berlin, by far the closest Allied approach to that bomb-ridden capital of Nazidom. Jaroslaw is about 60 miles northeast of Lwow and 90 miles south of Lublin.

The reported Russian smash to Siedlice marked a 20-mile advance since midnight. The city is about midway between Warsaw and Brest Litovsk and lies on the main trunk line from Moscow to Warsaw to Berlin.

The third prong of the drive on Warsaw was being driven from Bialystok to the northeast.

Bombers Collide, Fall in Flames Before War Show Crowd of 100,000

SPOKANE, Wash., July 24 (AP).—A crowd of 100,000, too stunned for outcry, watched two attack bombers collide yesterday and fall in flames, killing four men.

The ships, the Army counterpart of the Navy's Helldivers, were part of the Spokane air service command "Stay-on-the-Job" war show.

An announcer had just told the bowl crowd the ships were capable of 400 miles an hour, when three of them peeled off in formation to dive on the bowl. They veered in one direction, then banked away from the crowd toward the center of a natural amphitheater.

Stacked up in turning, one of the ships slid into another. Wreckage showered out from them and they fell the few hundred feet to the bottom of the bowl in flames.

Maj. Arthur F. Spaeth, public relations officer, estimated the ships were only 200 feet higher than the crowd lining the bowl, about 2000 feet from the grandstand and 400 feet off the floor of the bowl when they collided.

Police had no reports of people fainting or becoming hysterical. The great crowd rose, but obeyed warnings to stay at the seats and viewed the tragedy in virtual silence.

The show went on after a delay.

Those killed were Capt. Ford K. Sayre, 34 years old, Hanover, N. H.; Second Lt. George Chrep, 23, Hibbling, Minn.; Second Lt. William R. Scott, 26, Winnetka, Ill., and Sgt. Joseph Michael Revinska, 34, Brooklyn, N. Y., a passenger. Chrep and Scott were the pilots.

Captain Orders Fire on Own Post To Halt Enemy, Killed, Gets D.S.C.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—An officer who ordered artillery to shell his own position to stop an enemy attack in Italy, and was killed when the order was carried out, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

Capt. Ralph C. Fisher of Hyattsville, Md., commanded a company of armored infantry assaulting Mount Portchia during the drive on Cassino. The outfit had been in action two days, suffering heavy losses—Fisher had only about 25 men left.

But he reached the highest peak of the objective, the Army reported today, setting up an observation post there at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of Jan. 6. An hour later, he radioed his battalion commander for artillery fire to break up an enemy counterattack on his position.

This officer, Lt. Col. Lyle J. Deffenbaugh of Omaha, Neb., tells the rest of the story in a report to his superiors:

"It soon became apparent that the trajectory was too flat to cover the reverse slope near the crest. I called Capt. Fisher and warned him. He replied that the fire was effective farther down the slope. . . .

"A few minutes later he called me, saying that the enemy was closing in with a force too great for him and his men to handle and that he wanted the artillery fire shortened another 200 yards.

"The fire data were computed by an artillery officer and myself and it was found that the requested concentration would fall upon Capt. Fisher's position. Fisher was told that the concentration could not be fired. He then said that without the artillery he could not hold his position. . . .

"He again insisted . . . that he would take the chance of being hit rather than give up the position. The concentration was fired and many shells were seen to explode on the crest of the mountain. I was unable to contact Capt. Fisher by radio after that."

REICH CRUMBLING, CHURCHILL SAYS; 'GREAT TURMOIL' INSIDE GERMANY

War May End 'Earlier Than We Have Right to Say,' He Tells R. A. F. Men on 3-Day Visit to France.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—In the first official Allied word on the crisis in Germany, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said on a visit to Normandy there were "grave signs of weakness" in the Reich and predicted the war "might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say."

The Germans "are in a great turmoil inside and none can measure the extent," Churchill told about 500 men who surrounded him after his plane landed at an R. A. F. flying field. He summed up Germany's internal crisis in these words:

"Opposite you is an enemy whose central power is crumbling."

Declaring the Germans were not happy on the fighting fronts, Churchill remarked:

"And now, suddenly boiling up in their stomachs, has come a deadly quarrel at home. It is not a nice thing for a man to hear of a revolution going on in his own country when he is being attacked."

His three-day visit to the Normandy front was announced after he returned to London yesterday. While in Normandy he inspected Cherbourg and looked over one of the German flying bomb installations which had been captured by the Americans.

Role of Air Power.

At the R. A. F. field, where he made one of his several stops, he spoke of the great and unprecedented part the air forces played in the invasion and since then in "an extraordinary plan, the like of which never has been seen before and the extent of which the enemy doesn't even dream now."

Speaking of the recent attempt on Hitler's life, Churchill said with an acid grin:

"They missed the old bounder (a rough approximation of the word Churchill used)—but there's time yet.

"There is a very great disturbance in the German machine. Think how you would feel if there was a revolution at home (in England) and they were shooting at Cabinet Ministers."

Churchill went on to declare—to men who cheered him loudly all through his short speech—that the Germans are being "smitten" from the air, that the Russians are rolling up on them from the east and that Gen. Alexander's "very large" armies are moving up in Italy.

"We may hope the war will be won soon," he said, then added with a broadly humorous tone and gesture, "within two or three years. I never promised anything."

"Britain Stands High."

In proud voice and looking paternally into the faces of the young airmen before him, Churchill told them "Britain stands today as high as she ever stood in a thousand years. She is respected in every part of the world and loved by many."

After again saluting the R. A. F. for playing "a noble part first in the salvation of the country in 1940 and ever since in gaining fresh honor" he concluded:

"Victory is certain. . . . I cannot tell when. Carry on the good work and God's blessing on you and the best of good luck."

Churchill told a group of men at a Canadian air field where he stopped briefly, "I think hopes of victory are sure, but whether it is coming soon or late I cannot tell."

"We Desire No Oil Fields."

"It is no sterile victory to be won for lust or conquest or greed of one nation against another," he said. "We have fought for honor and we seek no reward. We seek no territory, we desire no oil fields, we seek nothing that is not our own. But what is our own in the commonwealth, that we don't want any other people to express an opinion about. That we will firmly retain."

He conferred with Gen. Montgomery, and visited Caen with him Saturday.

Churchill saw much of the British-held zone, including scenes of the most recent fighting, and also inspected Cherbourg in company with Lt. Gen. John Lee of the United States Army.

Reds Take Lublin in Warsaw Drive

eral retreat along a 150-mile front across the center of Poland.

The Russians reached the San River across from Jaroslaw yesterday. Between this point and Lublin to the south they drove hard for the lower Wisla, arriving at Tarobin, 37 miles to the east.

The enemy apparently was being swept along with no signs of letup by swift Red forces that left Lwow and Brest Litovsk bypassed more than 60 miles behind advanced Russian columns. The Germans appeared to have doomed the garrisons to miniature Stalingrads.

Soviet Gains in Other Areas.

Elsewhere along the 350-mile front, the swift-moving Russian offensive was reported by Moscow to be within these distances of major objectives:

Riga, 74 miles southeast.

Bialystok, 10 miles.

Stanislawow, in the Carpathian foothill approaches to Czechoslovakia and Hungary, 15 miles.

Krakow, 115 miles.

German Silesia, 150 miles.

In the drive on East Prussia the Reds were standing cautiously on the fringe of the Masurian Lakes, strong natural defense positions in which Von Hindenburg defeated a Russian invasion in 1914. German broadcasts have reported the Soviet troops within eight miles of prewar East Prussia borders and on the very edge of the Suwalki triangle, annexed in 1939 from Poland.

Jaroslaw lies 150 miles south of Siedlce on a main line railroad leading from Bucharest to Lwow to Warsaw to Berlin. It is 120 miles east of Krakow. A lateral railroad from East Prussia to Krakow passes through Siedlce.

The abandonment of Siedlce and Jaroslaw and the fighting inside Lublin straightened the Eastern front appreciably, erasing deep German salients.

1400 Localities Taken in Day.

Moscow dispatches said the Germans were fleeing in disorder through central Poland. There was no indication that the Nazi high command had been able to halt, or even slow down, the rapid progress of the Russians, who announced advances from west of liberated Pskov, at the Estonian border, to Galicia in the south. Fall of Pskov was announced by Premier Stalin yesterday in a special order of the day.

The greatest gain toward Warsaw Sunday was southeast of the city, where the Red Army captured Parczew, 87 miles from the Polish capital. Official Soviet announcements said that altogether in the last 24 hours more than 1400 towns and villages were captured and gains of 30 miles and more registered. In 31 days the Reds have rolled up a maximum advance of 320 miles.

Moving into the outskirts of Brest - Litovsk from captured Cherne, three miles away, the Russians started a push for the city, and its fall appeared imminent.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Open arrows indicate Russian threats to Warsaw, heightened today by the capture of the rail center of Lublin and the Nazi admission that their troops had abandoned Siedlce. Berlin also said that the Reds were fighting in Lwow and announced that German forces had withdrawn from Jaroslaw, to the west.

It appeared that any front the Germans held in the Soviet Baltic republics was lost after yesterday's great advances, and today the Nazis were reported hurrying for seaports in order to escape capture or death.

Red Army units edged to within 18 miles of the Latvian city of Daugavpils (Dvinsk) on the northeast, seizing Izvalia, while other forward forces severed the Daugavpils-Rezekne railway leading northeastward.

In the newest disaster inflicted on the Germans, the Russians said they had captured 15,000 Nazis and counted 30,000 dead in the encirclement at Brody, northeast of Lwow. Maj. Gen. Beutler of the 340th Nazi infantry division was reported killed, and Maj. Gen. Lindemann of the 361st infantry division was taken prisoner.

The German high command announced today the death of two more generals in fighting between Brest Litovsk and Kaunas. It gave their names as Lt. Gen. Scheller and Maj. Gen. von Treschov.

In Moscow there was tense excitement. Muscovites clung to their radios, following successive announcements of German defeats, and the feeling was prevalent that if the Germans fail to make a stand along the Wisla, great events may rapidly come to pass. The paucity of authoritative comment on the situation in itself was viewed as significant.

The Russians here were not recklessly optimistic, fully realizing that the Germans might create some order behind their broken ranks for an all-out stand. Nobody was saying the war was about over, but it was apparent the Red Army was handing the German army staggering blows, so costly in men and material and position that the best defense the enemy may be able to put forward may not be able to stem the tide.

One Moscow dispatch said that the Russians were praying that American and British armies in Normandy will go all out from this moment on, because that might spell the final doom of Nazidom.

R. A. F. HAMMERS KIEL WITH 2800 TONS OF BOMBS

500 U. S. Heavy Bombers From Italy Hit Targets in South—Bad Weather Over Normandy.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—A great fleet of R. A. F. bombers unloaded more than 2800 tons of high explosives on the German naval base of Kiel last night as Allied warplanes pounded Europe from the Baltic to Bucharest.

About 500 American heavy bombers flew from Italian bases today with fighter escort, attacking airfields in southern France, the harbor of Genoa and other targets in north Italy, and German troop concentrations in Yugoslavia. Bad weather virtually grounded Allied planes in Normandy and Britain, the only daylight operation from England being an attack on flying bomb bases in France by British bombers.

Five separate bomber forces were sent out from Britain last night by the R. A. F., the largest raining destruction on Kiel at the rate of 150 tons of bombs a minute. Other heavy bombers raided two large oil storage depots at Donges, near St. Nazaire, and another force hit German flying bomb sites in Northern France.

At the same time squadrons of R. A. F. Mosquitoes attacked Berlin for the thirteenth time since D-day and formations of these speedy, all-purpose planes also pounded enemy troop movements in the Rouen and Amiens districts and bombed an undisclosed objective in the Ruhr. The total loss in these night operations, which also included laying mines in enemy waters, was eight planes. Two of these were lost in support operations over the Normandy battle area.

Mediterranean-based American Liberators struck an oil refinery at Berat in Albania by daylight yesterday, and last night R. A. F. Halifaxes and Liberators blasted military targets at Bucharest.

Kiel, the best harbor in the Baltic, is strictly a naval town, with a large naval dockyard for the maintenance of the fleet, and armament and fuel stores.

Robot attacks on Britain continued for the fortieth day, and military experts today expressed belief that the Germans were using a number of new flying bomb bases, including some in Belgium.

All-Fighter Shuttle Raid From Italy to Russia.

A UNITED STATES AIR BASE IN RUSSIA, July 24 (AP).—United States air bases in Russia have now served in a new type of shuttle operation, with fighter planes arriving here alone from Italy after shooting up enemy air fields in Rumania.

The first all-fighter expedition to these bases destroyed 41 enemy aircraft aground and damaged at least 11 others. They also accounted for six locomotives and their rolling stock. Five Lightnings were lost.

YANKS HOLD EDGE OF PISA, DRIVE ON TOWARD NAZI LINE

Enemy Positions on Bank of Arno Wiped Out — Other Columns 12 Miles From Florence.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—Americans of the Fifth Army held the southern district of historic Pisa today while other forces wiped out enemy positions on the southern bank of the Arno River from the sea to near Empoli, and still other columns pushed north from Poggibonsi to within 12 miles of Florence.

The Fifth Army thus was firmly established along the water barrier before the Nazi Gothic line to a point less than 20 miles from Florence. Some elements crossed the Arno Canal and occupied Cascina, 10 miles east of Pisa.

The Americans who held the southern part of Pisa occupied a number of towns and cleared the entire wooded area of Tenuta del Tombolo on the west coast. Reconnaissance units entered Marina di Pisa, at the mouth of the Arno, but found the town unoccupied and withdrew.

East of Pisa, where the river forms an inverted U, some enemy strongpoints remained. The Germans made a determined counterattack about two miles south of San Miniato and there were numerous encounters along the south banks of the Arno in the Fifth Army cleanup.

The Germans continued to drop shells on Livorno and bombarded Pontedera, four miles east of Cascina.

Forces from the Poggibonsi area made progress along Highway 2, occupying Tavernelle and nearby Mount Morocco and reaching the village of Strada, 12 miles from Florence.

In the upper Arno Valley, the Eighth Army made new gains north of the river, reaching a point almost as far as Mount Marciano. Advances were slight in the Arezzo sector, but the British advanced three miles in the upper Tiber Valley.

The enemy still was holding out in the mountain fastness east of the Tiber Valley where the German commander has threatened to turn the monastery of Saint Ubaldo near Gubbio into another Cassino. The monastery contains a German garrison and 300 women and children.

Correspondent Sid Feder reported that the Americans broke into Pisa before daylight yesterday under cover of a haze that blinded the enemy gunners on Mount Pisano to the north of the city, then held on and brought up reinforcements through intense mortar and artillery fire.

Feder said the southern limits of Pisa, from which the famous leaning tower is visible, already had been flattened by Allied air attack.

"Across the Arno River flatlands, which offer scant protection from the enemy's view from the northern hills," Feder wrote, "the patrol inched its way in single file, subsisting on five chocolate bars, their only rations for the entire patrol for 24 hours. When they came within less than two miles of the city, three of them left the rest of the party and crept the remaining way to the city and several blocks inside it, in broad daylight.

"They returned and then made another trip to question the natives. They learned that the city was heavily mined and booby-trapped and was suffering from much demolition. When this information was gathered, the entire 22-man patrol started back.

"In the entire march, the only time they ran into any sizable group of Germans was when they suddenly came upon eight of them, stripped to their waists and shaving, a couple of them swimming just across a stream from the patrol."

Reconnaissance disclosed that Pisa is not badly damaged and that the Germans are fortifying all avenues of approach along the north bank of the Arno. Pisa is world famed for its leaning tower, but it also is a storehouse for other architectural treasures.

Fighting now is going on in the modern section of the city on the south bank of the Arno.

An Allied spokesman said the Nazi command had resorted to summary executions and other harsh repressive measures in an effort to spur a will to fight among officers and men.

RUSSIAN-BACKED GOVERNING GROUP SET UP IN POLAND

'People's Council' Given Temporary Executive Power for Civil Rule Over Freed Areas.

MOSCOW, July 24 (AP). — The Polish Council of Liberation announced today a "People's National Council" has been given temporary executive power for "safeguarding the independence and re-establishing the Polish state." The council's decree, dated Warsaw, July 21, was released to foreign correspondents here.

Organization of the Polish Council, first announced yesterday by Moscow in a broadcast which was recorded in London, drew fire from the Polish Government-in-Exile in London, which is recognized by the United States and Great Britain. Moscow more than a year ago broke diplomatic relations with the Polish exile government.

The first announcement called the new group a "Committee of National Liberation under the Polish National Council" and said it would take over civil administration in Russian-liberated areas.

Moscow said the committee would be headed by Edward Osuska-Morawski as chairman and director for foreign affairs. Among the vice chairmen is Wanda Wasilewska, novelist and president of the Union of Polish Patriots in Moscow, which has challenged the authority of the exile government in London.

The Moscow broadcast said the Polish National Council would take over the union of patriots and "also organization, cultural and welfare activities in the Polish colonies in the Soviet Union."

Another decree broadcast provided that the "Polish army and the national army of liberation would be united" but it specified this would not interfere with the operational subordination of Polish formations fighting on the Eastern front to the Red Army.

Gen. Rola-Zelinski was named commander in chief of this united Polish army, with Lt. Gen. Zigmunt Berling and Maj. Gen. Alexander Zawadski as deputies.

Rola-Zelinski was named Director of National Defense and Berling becomes deputy director.

Jewish Thanksgiving in Rome.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—Four thousand Jews and many ranking military authorities took part today in the first Jewish thanksgiving service in captured Rome. The service was in the Grand Synagogue on the banks of the Tiber.

EDEN SAYS GERMAN GENERALS 'HAVE SEEN WRITING ON WALL'

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Events inside Germany "seem to show that experienced German Generals have seen the writing on the wall," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared today.

He cautioned against relaxation and called for a united effort to crush forever the German "lust for power."

"No punishment, however hard; no retribution, however thorough; and indeed no surrender, even unconditional, will completely eliminate the dangers of future aggression by those two hawks of death, Germany and Japan," Eden told the Anglo-Netherlands Society.

ALLIES RAID AEGEAN ISLAND, WIPE OUT NAZIS, WITHDRAW

CAIRO, July 24 (AP).—Tough young British and Greek shock troops intent on disrupting shaky supply lines in the Germans' hungry "iron ring" of Aegean Islands, wiped out the entire garrison of Simi Island near Rhodes in a raid, it was disclosed today.

RUML WOULD END U. S. INCOME TAX ON CORPORATIONS

eral income taxes from corporations, and using the graduated personal income tax, Ruml and Sonne would:

Bar any general sales tax.

Retain excises only on tobacco and alcohol "and perhaps, on gasoline."

End the building of reserves for Social Security at times of underemployment.

The report suggested co-ordination of Federal, state and local taxation and spending, an end to the tax exemption privileges on income from certain bonds, retention of the capital gains tax (this was contrary to many business proposals) and "every effort" to keep the tax machine on a stable, understandable basis.

Ruml and Sonne suggested the Government should put a lid on any postwar inflation, change the Securities Act to facilitate stock issues and, in this connection, encourage formation of regulated finance corporations to guide savings into investment.

The business committee of the NPA said it agreed in principle with the Ruml-Sonne statement "without approving it in detail." The agriculture and labor groups expressed interest in and commendation for the report, respectively, but added they were planning their own analyses.

COOGAN TELLS CURTISS-WRIGHT WORKERS OF BURMA GLIDERS

Flight Officer Jackie Coogan, Army Air Forces glider pilot who flew the first glider to land behind Japanese lines in Burma last March, told employes of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation plant at Lambert-St. Louis Field today how American and British soldiers built an airport in six hours in the wilderness.

Coogan, a child motion picture star in the days of silent films, stopped here on his nationwide tour in behalf of the Fifth War Loan Drive. Of his flight "over the hump" from India to Burma, Coogan said his glider group landed enough men to build the airport for heavy transport planes to bring in supplies for cutting off the Japanese. The natives looked on him as a god, he said, when he drove a jeep from a glider.

After an inspection tour of the Lambert-St. Louis Field plant, Coogan ate lunch with the employes and left for a quick tour of the corporation's plant at 3809 Union boulevard. He praised the gliders American troops used in the Burma flight, pointing out that some of them were made in St. Louis. He left by plane this afternoon for engagements at war plants in Kansas City, Mo., tomorrow.

NAZI LOSSES IN WEST 156,000 SINCE D-DAY; 50,549 SEIZED BY YANKS

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 24 (AP).

THE Germans have lost an estimated 156,000 soldiers in Normandy since D-day, American and British staff officers in the field said last night.

The Allied bag of prisoners was placed at 60,958, of which 50,549 were taken by the Americans. This indicated Marshal Erwin Rommel's overall losses were equivalent to 10 to 15 full divisions.

The British announced they had inflicted more than 53,000 casualties, including 10,409 captured. Americans said that in addition to the prisoners taken they had buried 8094 Germans. On the basis of five wounded to every man killed, German wounded on the American front were estimated at 45,000.

Ex-Wife of Manville Wed.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., July 24 (AP).—Marie (Sunny) Ainsworth, former showgirl and former wife of Tommy Manville, the asbestos heir, and Lt. Erwin D. (Buddy) Arvey were married here Saturday afternoon by a justice of the peace. She said it was her fourth marriage. She was Manville's wife No. 7.

AMERTORP PLANT TO BECOME CAN FACTORY AFTER WAR

Plans to convert the Amertorp torpedo plant at 3200 South Kingshighway into a can manufacturing unit after the war were announced today by the American Can Co., which operates the plant for the Navy.

The plant is expected to employ 600 to 750 workers in postwar production. About 4000 workers are currently employed in manufacture of torpedoes.

The plant, originally intended for can manufacture, was completed shortly after Pearl Harbor, but was taken over in March, 1942, by the Navy, which purchased the plant for $2,617,500, with the provision the American Can Co. could regain title after the war. An older American Can Co. plant at 41 Branch street, where can manufacture has been continued on a curtailed basis, is to be abandoned after the war, its personnel and production to be absorbed by the Kingshighway plant, the announcement said.

WOMEN PREVIEW CANDIDATES OF G.O.P., DEMOCRATS

Most of Those for Senator Heard at Luncheon, Other Offices in Afternoon.

Most of the candidates for nomination for United States Senator, both Republican and Democratic, addressed a crowded "political preview" luncheon arranged by the League of Women Voters at Hotel Jefferson today, while candidates for Governor waited to speak at a late afternoon session.

The program also included two sessions of voters from the local congressional districts during the afternoon, for the purpose of hearing candidates for Congressmen, for Mayor and other local and state offices.

About 900 persons were present, with Mrs. George Gellhorn, president of the league, presiding at the senatorial luncheon. Senatorial candidates on the luncheon program were: Bennett C. Clark, incumbent, and Attorney General Roy McKittrick, Democrats; Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, Howard V. Stephens, Charles Rendlen, Charles A. Shaw and Charles P. Noell, Republicans.

Some Boos for Clark.

"I stand on every plank and every item of the platform I helped adopt last week," Clark declared. "Since I have been in the Senate, I have never knowingly departed from any plank of the preceding platform, or personal pledges I made to the people of Missouri."

This evoked some boos from the audience, and the chairman had to rap for order.

Clark said he had pledged himself in 1932 to do everything he could to prevent war, and had supported the 1940 platform. He said there was a difference of opinion as to the best means of preventing war, and he had opposed some measures because he thought they would have the effect of hastening rather than preventing American engulfment in hostilities.

"When war came without the volition of the United States," he continued, "every loyal American dismissed from his mind the question of how to stay out and devoted all his energies to winning the war."

He advocated an international organization for prevention of future wars which should operate with "the full co-operation and leadership of the United States," but added, "I do not believe it is possible at this time, in view of the international situation, to draw a blueprint of the form that organization should take."

Clark spoke of the problems to be solved in reconverting industry to peacetime production and providing employment for returning soldiers, and praised the Baruch report on reconversion.

McKittrick Stresses Treaty.

McKittrick asserted that the most important problem facing the nation is a peace treaty which will have for its primary objective the prevention of future wars.

"We cannot trace the past with satisfaction," he said. "Our last victory was scrapped, which action, to many minds, led us into this war. Our gallant armed forces will save us in the present crisis, but we should be careful not to plunge into other dangers by following the America First organization and others which have and are opposing the President's foreign policy."

McKittrick said that the greatest problem on domestic economy would be to maintain a high level of employment which could be effected only through a genuine spirit of co-operation between government and private enterprise. He said he was a firm believer in the justice and practical wisdom of collective bargaining, but added, "I am unalterably opposed to any form of group or individual racketeering, whether it be on the part of labor or employer."

Donnell Lists Problems.

Gov. Donnell said postwar employment, financing the rehabilitation of war veterans and winning the peace constituted the three principal problems which would confront the Senate.

In providing employment, he asserted, private enterprise should play the dominant role and Congress should provide "supplementary" means. He emphasized that he did not advocate creation of "useless work."

It may not be possible to abolish war forever, but every effort should be made to secure as long and lasting a peace as possible, he said, adding that this entails "some type of international co-operation between sovereign nations" which will embody treaties.

Gov. Donnell pointed out that he had opposed entrance of this country in the League of Nations, but had served as chairman of the St. Louis World Committee some two decades ago, appearing before a Senate committee to advocate adherence to the World Court plan.

Shaw Warns of Sucker Role.

Shaw, commenting on the position that the United States must take in international affairs in the postwar period, said that this country "must assume and maintain a median position, ever eager to assume such leadership for advancement as the other nations are willing whole-heartedly to follow, but steering clear of the naive policies which have for years won for us the reputation of being the great international sucker."

Stephens, St. Louis shoe manufacturer, said the real problem of the nation was: "How can we eliminate mass unemployment and still have a lasting and just peace?"

"Much of industry's postwar planning is largely in the conversational stage," he went on. "The reason for that is due to the fact that industry cannot do any postwar engineering until Government opens the way, so that industry may have some idea, in practical terms of labor and materials to be available, and the degree of limitations to be imposed upon it. If we had clear thinking, business-like leadership in our Government, which would co-operate and work with industry and give these necessary assurances, then postwar planning could be effectively speeded up."

He said returning soldiers had a right to expect that Government would show leadership in postwar planning, "so that industry would have some assurance that unnecessary rules and regulations would be eliminated." Congress must show an entirely different attitude toward business than Congress has shown under the New Deal, he said. Stephens also said he was anxious to abolish those features of the New Deal which are economically unsound.

Rendlen Raps Fourth Term Cry.

Rendlen, saying that winning the war was the thing of first importance, declared: "Politicians who seek to gain or remain in office by claiming credit for the valor, effort and blood of our sons are and will be rebuked and discredited by the people who pay the bills, endure the privations and furnish the boys who fight the battles and win the war. The farther we keep politics out of the war and the war out of politics, the sooner it will be won."

He said the fourth-term cry for President Roosevelt, against changing horses in the middle of the stream, was "invented to distract the people and keep them from remembering the miserable failures, the broken pledges and promises of the New Deal — its waste and alphabetical confusion, its centralization of power at Washington, the overreaching of the executive branch of our Government into the legislative branch, its seeking to control the Supreme Court, extravagant spending of the people's money, bureaucratic control of the people, its ruling by men and not by law, its disregard of constitutional processes, its seizing upon the distress of people to control their votes, the use of public funds for political purposes, the intrusion of Government into business, its socialistic and communistic trends."

Noell Charges Vote Buying.

Noell, pointing out that he has stayed aloof from the usual Republican organization forces, asserted he was in the race only out of a desire to "protect the military and political victory that two members of my family are now fighting to win." He also attacked "New Deal bureaucracy."

He declared himself in favor of strong American participation in world affairs to help prevent future wars, for aid for returning veterans, for protection of the legitimate economic gains of working persons, expansion of social security, better opportunity for mercantile enterprise and an end of harassment of farmers.

Candidates for Governor who were to speak later, it was announced, were: Jean Paul Bradshaw, Charles Ferguson and Dr. James Stewart, Republicans, and Phil M. Donnelly, Edgar Shook and Floyd P. Lee, Democrats. Mayoral candidates on the program were Patrick J. Burke and Joseph M. Darst, Democrats.

M'KITTRICK CALLS FOR PRO-F.D.R. CONGRESS

Tells Political Action Committee Isolationism Won't Do the Job.

To forestall isolationism and obstructionism, the United States needs "a Congress which will support the leadership of President Roosevelt and Vice President Truman," Attorney General Roy McKittrick, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, asserted last night in a campaign address to the Greater St. Louis Political Action Committee of the CIO.

"Our main objectives," he said, "are to win the war, tomorrow if possible, and in winning it to establish a lasting peace through international collaboration and assure jobs for all Americans. Isolationism and obstructionism won't do this job."

John B. Sullivan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Eleventh District, pledged his efforts to extend the protections secured for organized labor and to provide equal opportunity for all, regardless of race, creed or color.

Canvassers who will contact CIO members in an intensive campaign to get out the vote for the Aug. 1 primary received instructions at the meeting, which was held at the Amalgamated Center, 1722 Washington avenue. A meeting of ward captains will be held at the center at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

DEATH OF JENNINGS MAN FOUND ON SIDEWALK INVESTIGATED

An investigation of the death of Clifton Brantley McDaniel, 36 years old, of 7212 Calvin avenue, Jennings, who died yesterday at St. Louis County Hospital, was started today by the St. Louis County Sheriff's office after an autopsy disclosed he had died of a fractured skull. McDaniel was found unconscious on the street at Irving and Easton avenues yesterday.

Dr. Herbert S. Breyfogle, pathologist of the St. Louis County Health Department, said the skull injury could have been caused by a blow to the head or a fall. He said it appeared to be an old injury, at least two or three days old.

Deputy sheriffs said they were attempting to verify reports that McDaniel had had a fight with a fellow employe at the Fulton Iron Works a week ago and also the report that there had been a minor street fight at the intersection where he was found unconscious and suffering from exposure. An inquest will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m.

ROBBERS BIND LOAN FIRM EMPLOYE, ESCAPE WITH $250

Two robbers held up the Midway Loan Co., 1204 Niedringhaus avenue, Granite City, shortly before noon today and escaped with about $250 in cash after tying a secretary, Miss Elva Schuerger, with rope, E. E. Spillers, operator of the company, reported to police.

Miss Schuerger was alone in the office when the men entered. One stood guard at the door while the other thrust a pistol through the window grill and ordered her to be quiet. The man with the pistol then came behind the counter, took some rope from his pocket and bound her hands and feet, leaving her trussed on the floor.

The robber ransacked the company safe, which was open, jerked Miss Schuerger's watch from her wrist and took $4 from her purse. After he departed, Miss Schuerger knocked a telephone receiver off its hook and called the Chamber of Commerce office two doors away. She was released by Miss Bonnie Bergfield, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

MOTORBOAT CRASH INJURIES FATAL TO ARTHUR L. HALLER

Arthur L. Haller, 50 years old, owner of the Haller Appliance Sales Co., 415 West Point Court, University City, died today at St. Joseph's Hospital at St. Charles, of injuries suffered yesterday in a collision of two motorboats on Dardenne Creek, near Kampsville, in St. Charles County.

John Brier of 2515 Bremerton road, Brentwood, told deputy Sheriffs he was operating his motorboat upstream in the creek. Haller was operating his motorboat downstream, Brier said. As Haller rounded a curve, his boat swung across into the path of Brier's craft, which hit Haller's boat amidships, pinning Haller to the floor.

Brier said he extricated Haller from the wreckage and took him to the hospital. Physicians said he suffered a punctured lung and several fractured ribs. Haller lived at the same address from which he conducted his business.

PRESLEY STRAUB ANHEUSER REPORTS FOR INDUCTION

Presley Straub Anheuser, a member of the St. Louis brewing family who entered a plea of no contest to draft evasion charges in United States District Court last April, reported at Jefferson Barracks today for induction into the armed forces, an official of Draft Board No. 6 at Clayton said.

Anheuser, 32 years old, was indicted by a grand jury on a charge of evading the Selective Service Act by making a false affidavit which resulted in his classification as a farmer. Following his plea, Judge Richard M. Duncan suspended sentence and criticised the Government's charges as "flimsy." Anheuser is the son of W. Fred Anheuser, a vice president of Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. He is married and has two children.

Man Dies of Injuries From Fall.

Harry Stoll, 38 years old, died yesterday at Josephine Heitkamp Hospital of a skull fracture suffered Saturday afternoon when he fell in a tavern at 4101 South Grand boulevard and struck his head on the floor. He was a roofer and lived at 4103A South Grand boulevard.

TRUMAN PREDICTS VICTORY FOR TICKET

Nominee Says He Is Quitting Committee for More Important Job.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24 (AP).—"I'm quitting a tremendously important job to do another even more important," said Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, when he returned today to his Kansas City office to greet a long line of well wishers.

"My job now is to help bring the war to a close as quickly as possible by keeping the Democratic party in power," Truman declared, and added:

"We are going to win overwhelmingly in the November election."

Truman said he had decided to resign his chairmanship of the Senate committee investigating war production "just as soon as we have our next meeting" and that he would "pitch into" the campaign whenever and wherever President Roosevelt told him to.

"He's the commander in chief," said Truman, "and I'll do whatever he says."

That was as far as he would go in setting his plans for the campaign. He had only a round of receptions, luncheon and personal engagements so far.

Truman reached his home in nearby Independence last night weary from the excitement of the national convention and the long automobile trip from Chicago.

"I'm certainly glad to be back home again," he said.

In a slightly husky voice, he discussed plans for the public reception to be held at 8 p. m. today on the lawn of the family home. The Senator said he would not make a speech; he and his family plan only to renew acquaintances with home-town folks.

Truman was up at 6 a. m. today and the first thing he did was to drive to Grandview to call on his 91-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, and other members of the family.

Later he drove back to Independence to visit his lifelong friend, Col. William Southern, editor and publisher of the Independence Examiner. Truman arrived here later and went to his office in the Federal Courthouse Building.

Electrical Workers Send Congratulations to Truman.

Congratulations to Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic candidate for Vice President, have been sent "on behalf of the 30,000 members of our union in Missouri" by William Sentner, general vice president of District Council 8, CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

"Missourians may well be proud that our outstanding Senator was selected to be the running mate of our Commander in Chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt," Sentner wrote.

M'KITTRICK RAPS 'SMEAR' ON RECORD IN THE FIRST WAR

Says He Volunteered but Was Rejected — Circulates Editorial Assailing Clark.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 24.—Attorney General Roy McKittrick, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, had two comebacks today for attacks made on his war record by supporters of Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

The Clark forces had circulated an editorial from the Chariton Courier, published in McKittrick's home county, Chariton, criticising McKittrick for failure to serve in World War I.

McKittrick issued a statement today, setting out that he attempted to enlist in that war, but was rejected because of defective vision. He also began circulation of an editorial from the Bowling Green Times, published in Bowling Green, Pike County, where Clark was born and reared and from which his father, Champ Clark, ran for Congress many times.

The Times repudiated Clark and announced that it could not support him because of his record of opposition to President Roosevelt "and the Democratic party."

"Dastardly Attack."

Referring to the attack on his war record as "infamous and dastardly, struck in desperation at the eleventh hour," McKittrick said:

"This is the first time in my career as a public officer that anyone, Democrat or Republican, has ever attempted to attack my patriotism. The facts are these:

"I registered in my native county, Chariton. Before I was called, I appeared before the board and volunteered for active service. I was examined and I was rejected because of defective vision.

"During the war, and in 1918, Chariton County elected me as its Prosecuting Attorney. Had there been any question as to my patriotism, would these voters have done that? I served three terms as Prosecutor.

"I have served as a State Senator. I have served three terms as Attorney General. Never in any previous campaign have I ever faced this sort of smear attack.

"The voters of Missouri, who have demonstrated at the polls before that they do not approve of infamous and dastardly attacks struck in desperation at the eleventh hour, will not swallow such an obvious canard."

McKittrick said that the publisher of the Chariton Courier is a postmaster and an appointee of Senator Clark.

Can't Support Clark Longer.

Bonham E. Freeman, editor of the Bowling Green Times in an editorial headed: "Cannot Support Clark Longer" asserted that that newspaper has supported the Clark family for 52 years "in every campaign in which they have engaged," and that his uncle, the editor in 1892 when Champ Clark first ran for Congress, assisted in financing his campaign.

"The people of Pike County cannot forget how he (Senator Clark) sat in the Democratic convention in Chicago, when President Roosevelt was renominated, and when other state flags joined in the procession around the auditorium, Senator Clark kept his seat and clung to the Missouri standard while other delegates attempted to wrest it from his grasp and join the parade. (This was a reference to the 1940 convention.)

Turning His Picture to Wall.

"Perhaps, we the people of his home county, could overlook this and the 12 years he has opposed practically everything President Roosevelt and the Democratic party have advocated. Perhaps we could grant him the right to this opposition if we could bring ourselves to believe Bennett was sincere in this opposition. But what are we to believe when he opposed the President 12 years and then comes home in this campaign year to ride to renomination on the coat tails of the President he has opposed so vigorously.

"To us it is a sorry and disgusting spectacle to see one of our candidates thus degrade himself by this complete reversal of his record of twelve years to gain the nomination."

Freeman concluded his editorial with a statement that the people of Pike County in the coming primary would turn Senator Clark's picture, which hangs in the court house "permanently to the wall."

St. Louisan Aids Correspondent In Need of Untorn Pants in France

Another Acts as Guide to Show Off Nazis' Plush Railroad Coach, Now Cleaned Up for Eisenhower.

By VIRGINIA IRWIN
A War Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SOMEWHERE IN NORMANDY, July 19 (Delayed).—Tired and dirty, and with a tent-flap size tear in the seat of my only khaki pants, I put into an enormous Quartermaster depot here in Normandy yesterday for repairs. A sympathetic sergeant listened to the tale of my losing battle with a barbed wire fence and said:

"Sis, you've come to the right place. We got pants here that will fit anyone from a midget to Man Mountain Dean." Then he disappeared, to return a few minutes later with a pair of G. I. pants that fit me along the lines of Betty Grable's bathing suit, and we sat down for a chat.

"Boy," said the sergeant, "what I wouldn't give for a bottle of good, old Falstaff beer!" And right there in the middle of that Normandy cow pasture, Tech. Sgt. Warren Matthews, once purchasing agent for Falstaff Brewing Corporation, and I sat down and talked home for a solid hour. Sgt. Matthews, whose wife, Mrs. Josephine Matthews, lives at 1060 South Kingshighway, is now supply sergeant with this Quartermaster depot that feeds supplies of clothing, food, gasoline, oil and just about everything you can think of from lard to louse powder, to great supply lines running to our troops at the front.

At home the weather is the usual wedge used to break the conversational ice. Over here no wedge is needed, for immediately you move into an area everyone greets everyone else with choruses of "Where you from, chum?"

You hear it yelled from jeeps as they pass each other on narrow French highways. You hear it at bars in these little French towns where our boys gather for their glasses of "vin ordinaire." The French have heard it so often that some of the French kids now yell it in their quaint English as convoys of American troops move through shelled towns.

In Cherbourg last Monday I visited an American railway operating battalion in a great roundhouse where American, French and captured German locomotives are being repaired. Directing the repair work was Lt. Col. Sidney Acker of Nashville, Tenn., who was reared in Kansas City, went to war in 1917 with the old 35th Missouri Division in the 129th Field Artillery, and was engineer of tests for the Frisco at Springfield, Mo., for 13 years. He is now superintendent of motor power for this railway operating battalion in Cherbourg.

Col. Acker pointed out American locomotives that were now also seeing their second World War, and he remarked that for the second time in 27 years they will be hauling ammunition to our boys at the front. We walked around surveying iron horses that had withstood the American bombing of Cherbourg and shelling by both Americans and Germans in Cherbourg.

I was taken aboard a plush-job private coach once used to haul German military master minds from Cherbourg to Paris. My guide was Pfc. Howard Borsenberger, a dispatcher with this railway battalion, who formerly worked for Jordan-Scheid Co. in St. Louis and lived with his sister, Mrs. W. L. Marpel, 6336 Henner avenue.

"We cleaned her up," Pfc. Borsenberger boasted, "and now we got her saved for Eisenhower and other big shots who want to take a ride on our little scenic railroad."

At chow with the railway battalion on Monday I also met Tech. Sgt. William C. Bledsoe, whose wife lives at 1040 Shenandoah avenue. Bledsoe was a signalman with the Missouri Pacific Lines, and is now an electrician with this battalion. It was delicious chow, my first hot meal in almost a week of K rations, and I had my second helping of spaghetti served by Tech. Sgt. Keith R. Oettle, whose wife, Gertrude, lives at 811 Chouteau avenue, Alton. Oettle was a switchman on the Illinois Terminal Railroad, and is now working as a carpenter on the bridges of Cherbourg in the nearby little town of Valognes, where American bulldozers had to clear away rubble from the streets before vehicles could move through the bomb damage.

This morning I ran across eight crews of Red Cross Clubmobile girls attached to the First Army. Of 24 girls in the group, five are from Missouri. They are Miss Mary Metcalfe, daughter of Mrs. David Douglas Metcalfe, 5537 Waterman boulevard; Miss Mary Pitcairn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Pitcairn, 6333 Ellenwood avenue; Miss Marie Philips, Kirkwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Philips, 608 East Monroe avenue, Kirkwood; Miss Helen Huff of Kansas City and Miss Sally Craighill of St. Joseph.

Tired and scummy after being held in a marshaling area in England for more than 10 days and a rugged ride across the Channel, at last the Red Cross girls were on their way to First Army headquarters to report for duty.

SOLDIER OVERSEAS DEFEATS KLEBERG IN TEXAS PRIMARY

Member of King Ranch Family Loses — Rayburn and Sumners Renominated.

DALLAS, Tex., July 24 (AP).—Two Army Captains overseas are furnishing most of the excitement in the Texas Democratic primary elections in which Negroes voted in conformity with a ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

One of the captains has defeated Representative Richard Kleberg, and the other is running Representative Lindley Beckworth a close race.

In other races, 10 Texas Congressmen were renominated in Saturday's voting and at least two runoffs for congressional seats were indicated in latest returns.

Capt. John Lyle, a mobile anti-aircraft officer in Italy, whose friends placed his name on the congressional ticket, evidently was winner over Kleberg, member of the King Ranch family. When the Texas Election Bureau stopped tabulating votes in the Fourteenth District contest early yesterday afternoon, Capt. Lyle's count was 19,121 as against 11,836 for Kleberg. Lyle's wife was active in his campaign.

Capt. D. S. Meredith Jr., with the Army's Judge Advocate General's department in the South Pacific, was pushing Beckworth in the Third District.

Meredith was backed by 10 East Texas political leaders and attorneys who stumped the district in his behalf under the direction of Mrs. Meredith. Latest returns gave Beckworth 20,892 votes, Meredith 17,436 and E. A. Martin, Longview, third man in the race, 2718.

In the Sixth District Representative Luther Johnson of Corsicana continued to hold his lead over Chester North of Waxahachie, while other returns showed these incumbents as apparent victors: Speaker Sam Rayburn and Representative Hatton Sumners, both of whom first were elected to Congress in 1912, and Representatives Wright Patman, Lyndon Johnson, Bob Poage, Fritz Lanham, Eugene Worley, George Mahon and Albert Thomas.

Reich Gripped by Gestapo Terror

day's explosion at Adolf Hitler's headquarters.

Korten was appointed chief of staff of the German air force last August, succeeding the late Col. Gen. Hans Jesschonnek. He apparently was close to Hitler, whom he accompanied on a tour of the Atlantic Wall defenses last April.

A broadcast said Maj. Gen. Heinz Brandt, first officer in the operative section of the army general staff, also had succumbed. This brought the announced deaths to three, Berlin having announced earlier the death of "the Fuehrer's collaborator" and double, whose name was carried last week by Berlin as "Berger," but was announced today as Heinrich Bergner.

While German army morale appeared badly shaken, there was no concrete evidence yet of any disaffection in the front lines. The Nazis clearly were still in firm control both of the army and of Germany itself.

Reports from France pictured Hitler's purge of rebellious army officers as having spread to the fighting fronts in the east, in France and possibly Italy. These reports said eight eastern front commanders had been arrested or ousted and that Gestapo agents had arrested and possibly executed German divisional leaders in France and seized Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, the German commander in Italy. Other divisional officers in France were said to be in hiding.

One report said Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, of the Bordeaux sector in France, had ordered his troops on Monday to prepare for emergencies, but that he later canceled the order on learning the attempt on Hitler's life had failed. Blaskowitz since has been absent from his headquarters, it was said.

Berlin was silent on the counter measures taken against the German officers who Hitler said had planned to kill him. German uneasiness was underscored in these things which were left unsaid:

1. Not a single general on the eastern front, where the German armies have been reeling back toward their own borders, has come forward personally to pledge loyalty to the Fuehrer, though the Nazis claimed a blanket pledge.

2. With the exception of Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, former German general staff chief, the names of the plotters—the "mad generals" described by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering—still have not been announced.

3. Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, the most effective and probably the shrewdest of all Nazi orators, has not appeared once on the radio, nor has he been reported at any meetings with Hitler.

Berlin itself was reported quiet, though one Ankara report said the capital was under a curfew.

The reports from France said minor fights had occurred at Bordeaux, Limoges, Nimes and Nantes between the Elite SS and army men. So far the SS has held the upper hand and most of the fights were fisticuffs, it was said.

One officer attached to the staff of Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge, directing operations in Normandy, was quoted as saying "this is only the beginning" when the Hitler attempt was announced. He has disappeared.

Missing Generals Listed.

"Heinrich Himmler has sent new liaison officers to headquarters of all Wehrmacht divisions and regiments in France, and presumably also to the Eastern front. Arrests continue on the slightest suspicions," the report from France said. It listed Kesselring, Field Marshal Fritz Erich von Mannstein, Gen. Baron Alexander von Falkenhausen, and Gen. von Fromm among Germans said to have been arrested and possibly executed.

Field Marshal Gen. Hugo Sperrle, Field Marshal Erhard Milch, general inspector of the Air Force, Field Marshal Siegmund Wilhelm List, and Field Marshal Maximilian von Weichs were listed among those whose fate is not definitely known.

Two Berlin bankers were reported among those purged.

Bordeaux reports said two German military couriers were caught by SS men en route to Spain, presumably on a contact mission for the anti-Hitler clique.

"Blue-Blooded Swine."

A Stockholm newspaper said an attack by Dr. Robert Ley on "blue-blooded swine" attracted great attention in the German capital. This statement by Hitler's trade union commissioner appeared to be a blanket denunciation of the Junkers, who are the core of the German nobility and constitute an officer caste within the German Army.

Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, newly appointed by Hitler as chief of the army general staff, directed a new plea to German soldiers yesterday to stand firm in fidelity to the Fuehrer.

Asserting in a broadcast to troops that the army "has purged itself and freed itself from unclean elements," Guderian even called on the memory of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, termed the leaders of the revolt "cowards and weaklings" and disclosed that some had been in active service when they attempted the coup culminating in the attempt on Hitler's life.

Repeats Hitler's Order.

He repeated Hitler's Saturday order of the day before making his own statement. Continued emphasis on appeals to the troops to maintain loyalty indicated that the revolt—even if it were completely quelled—was serious enough to require the greatest reassurances to men at the front. It might also be indirect evidence that the danger still was solid and real.

Guderian declared:

"After having read the Fuehrer's order of the day to his army, I wish on behalf of the German Army to add:

"A few officers, a part of whom were no more in active service, had lost courage. Cowards and weaklings, they preferred the way of shame to the way of duty and honor, which course alone is possible for all decent soldiers.

"The army has purged itself and freed itself from unclean elements.

"On all fighting fronts and at home Germans are feverishly working for victory regardless of sacrifices.

"The people and army are standing closely united behind the Fuehrer.

"The enemy has made the mistake of believing that he can turn to his favor a split between generals of the German army.

"I guarantee to the Fuehrer and the German people the unanimity of the generals, officers and men of the German army, bent on a single aim of winning victory under the slogan so often impressed on us by venerable Field Marshal von Hindenburg, 'faithfulness is the essence of honor.'

"Long live Germany and our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

"And now: People to arms!"

Von Hindenburg was a personification of the Junkers officer caste, but it was Junkers generals who apparently led the attempt to seize power from Hitler—perhaps planning to make a compromise peace before the Wehrmacht was completely smashed.

The German radio declared that fresh reinforcements from inside the Reich would be rushed to all fronts under a program of redoubling the war effort under Hitler and Himmler.

"We stand on the threshold of Germany's greatest war effort," the broadcast said. "Fresh divisions which have been stationed inside the Reich will arrive at the fronts. Watch the bearing of the German troops at the front."

A broadcast by DNB, German news agency, dated from Milan, said "Italian prisoners of war from Badoglio's army, who had been brought to Germany after the Italian armistice, now will participate in Germany's war effort."

Warnings to Home Front.

The German home press and radio gave ominous warnings of Himmler's determination to crush all opposition and of the strength of his forces. DNB said German newspapers printed pictures of the room in which the bomb aimed at Hitler exploded.

Volkischer Beobachter, Nazi party organ, said: "The German people will win because they know they must win. The German nation now follows the call—'people to arms.'"

The German home force's radio broadcast an appeal to "mobilize to the last strength."

"Whoever fails to do his duty is no longer one of us," said the broadcast. "No one has the right to live, not even breathe, who

MAJ. HUSTON M. BETTY

By RICHARD L. STOKES

Of the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, now representing this newspaper on the Western Front as an accredited war correspondent.

NORMANDY, July 24.—(By Wireless).—Maj. Huston M. Betty, of Kirkwood, former Missouri University football center and later on the coaching staff, and his brother, Pvt. Charles W. Betty, former employe of the Post-Dispatch circulation department, have been in active service in the Normandy campaign since D-day.

Maj. Betty, 28 years old, whose wife and 2-year-old son live at 419 East Argonne drive, is a divisional special service officer. In the assault on an upper American beachhead June 6, Maj. Betty landed within an hour and a half after H-hour, and took on the duty of beachmaster for the division, directing troop vehicles inland as they came ashore.

Division Unit First in Cherbourg.

The beach was under shellfire for 12 hours, and three men on the landing craft on which Maj. Betty was landed were killed by mortar fire when still on board. Maj. Betty accompanied his division to a junction with an airborne division at St. Mere Eglise. The airborne troops proceeded west, while Maj. Betty's division turned north, captured Montebourg and Valognes, and formed the right flank of the assault on Cherbourg. One of its units was the first regiment to enter the city.

The late Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, who was attached to the same division, acted as Governor of Cherbourg for 48 hours, and was thus the first American officer to administer a French seaport in the present war.

Maj. Betty and his older brother, Pvt. Betty, who is in another unit now in France, are sons of Mrs. C. W. Betty, 215 East Washington street, Kirkwood. Pvt. Betty's wife lives at 7212 Kenrick road, Webster Groves.

Big Six All-Star.

Huston Betty formerly attended Kirkwood High School, and while on the Missouri University eleven was named for two years on the all-star team of the Big Six Conference. After graduation, he served on the coaching staff from 1939 to 1941, when he entered the Army with the rank of Second Lieutenant.

Gen. Omar Bradley, native Missourian, visited the division while it was training in England. He complained to the division commander that he had not met a Missouri officer, and the commander called Betty, then a Captain. Gen. Bradley and the young officer talked for several minutes, chiefly about hunting and fishing in the Ozarks.

REICH GRIPPED BY GESTAPO TERROR, MADRID INDICATES

does not carry arms or forge them."

On the Russian front, where the German radio last night said commanders had exacted a pledge of loyalty to Hitler from all units, a Moscow dispatch said the outbreak at home apparently had produced an immediate reaction among German soldiers. There were no reports of mass surrenders or collapse, although the Germans were falling back with startling speed along hundreds of miles of front. The Berlin broadcast did not identify the generals who allegedly had their men affirm their steadfastness to Hitler.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, said a clandestine German radio had again carried an appeal on behalf of "the commander of the army of group resistance," to officers and soldiers to rise against the Nazi leaders.

The European observer for Tass said the conspiracy against Hitler continues and predicted "a new revolt will arise with still greater force."

Despite the "official propaganda of Hitler, the conspirators are far from being suppressed," said the observer article appearing in all major Soviet newspapers.

Leaders Reported Untouched.

On the German frontier, the Associated Press learned from reliable but secret channels that the purge has barely touched the real leaders and organizers of resistance to Hitler. The leadership of the opposition, except for a few gaps created by the purge, has remained intact, the frontier account said, adding that Himmler "doesn't even know who the members of the high committee opposition are." These sources said the attempt on Hitler's life was designed not to overthrow the Nazis, but to show that it is possible to act against Hitler despite the SS and Gestapo."

Beck Was Ringleader.

A London report said reporters in Berlin had been told that about 50 German generals, some stationed outside the country, were involved in the anti-Hitler plot and that "General (Ludwig) Beck, now dead, was their ringleader."

The Moscow radio said Himmler had ordered a "mass purge" of officers in Norway, especially among the naval commands.

A Stockholm report said the Germans acknowledged that recruiting and supply for the war fronts had bogged down and they blamed the "bureaucracy in the staff of the German home army," which Himmler took over last week.

The Berlin correspondent of Tidningen quoted the Voelkischer Beobachter as saying that "revolting generals had been lodged for a long time in the home army, hindering and sabotaging recruiting and supply of arms and ammunition for the fronts."

The newspaper asserted that the appointment of Himmler as chief of the home army would remedy the situation so that troops no longer would "shake with fury."

To add fuel to the discontent within Germany, the British Broadcasting Corp. had German war prisoners broadcast appeals to the German army and people to overthrow Hitler and the Nazis so that the war might be finished quickly.

Reports of a clash in Belgrade between army and SS men said a number of senior officers refused to obey the orders of Gen. von Weichs, Balkan commander who sent a declaration of allegiance to Hitler, and that SS troops surrounded the army headquarters and then shot 46 officers.

Hitler Virtually Himmler's Prisoner, Turkish Paper Says.

ANKARA, July 22 (Delayed) (AP).—Falih Rifki Atay, editor of Ulus, in a lead article today said reports reaching Turkey indicated Adolf Hitler was the virtual prisoner of Heinrich Himmler.

The article said reports received 10 days before the attempt on Hitler's life said the Fuehrer had indicated a willingness to become president of the Reich and commander in chief while at the same time giving up all political and executive power to Himmler.

German generals feared this decision would mean loss of their influence, it was said, and they were joined in their opposition by the leaders of German industry, who thought Himmler's advent to power would spell extreme socialism.

WLB Approves Employe Bonuses.

The National War Labor Board has approved the application of the Berry Motor Car Co., 2201 Locust street, to pay bonuses ranging from $50 to $200 to five employes, it was announced today. The decision reversed an earlier ruling of the regional board at Kansas City. The national board granted the appeal because the company had paid such bonuses in previous years.

MAN IN AUTO CRASH STRUCK AGAIN ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Theodore Zeiter, of 4091 Blow street, was taken to City Hospital in critical condition, suffering from a skull fracture, after his automobile collided yesterday with a Humane Society ambulance and the patrol wagon in which he was being taken to the hospital was involved in another collision.

The first accident was at Delor and January avenue, when Zeiter's car collided with the Humane Society vehicle, driven by Wilburn F. Tetley, 2200A Miami street. Tetley and Zeiter were placed in the patrol wagon, driven by Police Chauffeur Toney Wright, to be taken to the hospital. At Jefferson and Lafayette avenues it collided with an automobile driven by Ira C. Smiddy, a toolmaker, 3742 South Jefferson.

In addition to Zeiter, the injured were Patlonman Raymond Dooley and Prison Guard Jacob Gausling, who were members of the patrol wagon crew. Dooley and Gausling suffered minor injuries.

Organized Labor Makes Strong Start in Politics

Labor's Second Choice.

If the President had been concerned only with convention delegates and not the election, he probably could have "dictated" the renomination of Wallace, or the nomination of Byrnes, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky or Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois. Truman is primarily indebted to the President for naming him in the messages to National Chairman Hannegan. Had the President said the same thing about anyone of the others, that one would today be the Democratic vice-presidential nominee. Truman, however, is beholden to Murray and Hillman for their compromise indorsement, which they would not publicly admit before the balloting started. The insiders knew he was their second choice.

Some political observers at Chicago believed Murray and Hillman were not able to put Wallace over because they overplayed their hand. Skilled as they are in tough labor union politics, they were amateurs competing with professionals at the professionals' own game.

The overlapping of individual and group interests makes it impossible to draw black and white distinctions in practical politics but there were five operating general groups at the Chicago Municipal Stadium and in the secret hotel rooms. They were, in addition to the organized labor bloc and the professional politicians, who were running the mechanics of the convention through Chairman Hannegan, the "conservative" and "white supremacy" Southerners; the ardent New Dealers, and the Senatorial clique, which helped manipulate the "favorite son" delegations to stampede at the proper time to Truman.

Overlapping of Groups.

These groups overlapped so much that often the participating individual did not know what group he was representing. Truman, the passive candidate, typified the split personality of politicians. His labor record in the Senate, his connections with Hannegan and the Pendergast machine, his support of the President, his own favorite-son candidacy and his membership in the Senate made him the ideal compromise candidate. And because Missouri is a border state, with something of a Southern tradition, he was not opposed by the "conservative" and "white supremacy" delegations. If a vice-presidential candidate has any attracting power, Truman will go well throughout all sections of the country. Wallace would have been unacceptable to the South and Byrnes might have cost Roosevelt votes in the large cities where the Irish Catholics and the Negroes are a major part of the Democratic political machines.

In large, it was the organized labor bloc against the four other groups. Hannegan, Flynn, Kelly, Hague and the National Committee insiders, who run the convention machinery, had their representatives in all four groups, against having the CIO political action committee brand on the Democratic donkey.

Packed Galleries an Error.

The CIO overplayed its hand by packing the galleries for Wallace with thousands of enthusiasts who apparently did not know it is bad politics to boo an opponent. Mayor Kelly, in his own city, was unable to complete his nominating speech for his favorite son, Senator Lucas. He said he was used to such conduct—that it was democratic—but he appeared greatly irritated. He couldn't go for Wallace after that.

The Wallace demonstrations, going out over the radio, convinced the politicians that Wallace's nomination would be interpreted as a CIO-PAC victory, which it would have been. The city politicians and Southerners redoubled their efforts for Truman, to show that they still ran the Democratic party.

They succeeded through the favorite son strategy. They knew that some of the Wallace strength would not last beyond two ballots. The Truman people thought the Missourian's nomination would be on the third roll call. The first count gave Senator Bankhead of Alabama 98 votes. These were supposed to come to Truman. Senator Barkley had 69½; Senator Lucas, 61; Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, 27; Gov. Broughton of North Carolina, 43; Gov. Cooper of Tennessee, 26; Gov. Kerr of Oklahoma, 23; Gov. O'Connor of Maryland, 18. There were also votes for Senators Thomas of Utah and Pepper of Florida. All but the Tennessee delegation went to Truman. Senator McKellar, chairman of the delegation, followed to the letter his instructions from Boss Crump of Memphis to stick to Cooper.

Tydings and the Stampede.

The Truman stampede was started by Gov. O'Conor of Maryland, who told the Post-Dispatch his delegation had been waiting for just the proper time to switch. Senator Millard Tydings, a power in Maryland politics, has long been a friend of Truman and other recent Missouri Senators.

The rest is political history. The professionals had taught the amateurs a lesson, which will not be lost on organized labor leaders who are "practical" enough to profit by their mistakes.

Months ago this correspondent stated that "something new has been added" to American politics by the creation of the CIO political action committee. The Murray-Hillman combination has promised support of the Roosevelt-Truman ticket. That support will be needed in the November elections, as the President knew when he asked his friend Byrnes not to oppose Henry Wallace. If the Roosevelt-Truman ticket wins, organized labor will become a real—perhaps a decisive—power in the practical politics of national conventions. It made an impressive start at Chicago.

GRANITE CITY CAR DERAILED, SEVEN TREATED FOR INJURIES

Seven persons were treated last night at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, East St. Louis, for minor injuries, after a Granite City car of the Illinois Terminal System left the rails while rounding a curve at Madison avenue and Nineteenth street, Granite City.

Eleven other passengers were taken to the hospital, but were found to be uninjured. The motorman, George T. Jose, 1114A Newhouse avenue, told police the emergency brakes on the car failed. After leaving the tracks, the car rolled 20 feet and stopped with the front end resting on a sidewalk, two feet from a store front. Traffic over the line was rerouted after a short delay.

WOMAN HURT WHEN CAR ROLLS FORWARD AS SHE OPENS GATE

Mrs. Joyce Smith, a shoe worker of 8506 Clifton avenue, Jennings, was injured seriously by her automobile yesterday when it rolled against her as she was opening a farm gate near Troy, Mo.

Two daughters of Mrs. Smith and a woman friend, who had been walking behind, extricated her. An ambulance took her from Troy to DePaul Hospital here. She had injuries to her pelvis and wrists, and suffered from shock, police reported. The group was on a fishing trip to Lead Creek.

World's Greatest Customer!

G. I. Joe

EVERY HOME FRONT SHORTAGE stems from the needs of our Armed Forces . . . now in action or ready to fight in 65 different countries or islands around the world.

Symbol of our millions under arms, G. I. Joe is the world's greatest, most-deserving, high-priority customer.

As evidence of his tremendous consuming capacity, consider the fact that every day, 60,000,000 gallons of petroleum products go to our Armed Forces.

Let the figures sink in: 60,000,000 gallons a day! No wonder there is concern not only about current supply, but also about the nation's petroleum reserves.

With the same initiative and energy, which prompted its long peacetime research for new and better things from petroleum gases as well as from petroleum, Phillips is now actively engaged in speeding up production and discovering new sources of crude supply.

At every well, in every refinery, in every production unit, the spirit is: "Leave nothing undone which might contribute to an earlier victory." Twenty-four hours a day, Phillips best efforts are devoted to the production of petroleum products for the war effort: gasoline, lubricants, fuel oils, 100-octane, butadiene, and other synthetic chemicals.

That is why we say, every time you see the Phillips 66 Shield, let it remind you that Phillips great refineries are gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

Americans Invade Tinian, Make New Gains on Guam

Philippine waters. Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that his bombers sank a 100-foot Japanese vessel Saturday 70 miles off Mindanao. He disclosed that this area had been under patrol for some time, and made the first mention of the Philippines in a communique since Corregidor's fall May 6, 1942.

The Tinian assault, the third invasion in the Marianas, was launched four days after the Guam landings. The Tinian invaders were protected by planes based on Isley Field on Saipan, only four miles from the northern tip of Tinian.

The majority of defense installations around Tinian's beachheads had been neutralized by bombing and artillery fire across the channel separating the island from Saipan. The Tinian airfield also was decommissioned in the constant attack on the island since the Marianas campaign began June 10.

Fighting was expected to be stiffer as the invaders proceeded inland. Tinian is not as rugged and mountainous as Guam and Saipan, but it has several tablelands which should afford the Japanese excellent defense positions.

Adm. Nimitz announced the landings on Tinian Island only six and one-half hours after the marines began rushing ashore.

Gen. Holland Smith Promoted.

Nimitz announced that Lt. Gen. Holland F. Smith, United States Marine Corps, has been promoted from commander of the Fifth Amphibious Corps to commanding general, Fleet Marine Forces of the Pacific, a new position. Presumably this was a reward for his role in directing Saipan's conquest and an indication of imminent other operations.

Gen. Smith, one of the ranking authorities on amphibious warfare, developed many of the tactics now used by American landing forces during peacetime maneuvers. He was "borrowed" by the Army for a time to train two Army divisions for the invasion of North Africa.

His successor in command of the Fifth Amphibious Corps, Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, is commanding the expeditionary troops on Tinian. He was promoted from commander of the Fourth Marine Division.

Rear Adm. Harry W. Hill of Oakland, Calif., has returned to action as commander of the overall amphibious operation. He previously directed the expeditionary forces which captured Tarawa and Eniwetok.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates of Chester Hill, Pa., was named the new commander of the Fourth Marines. Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Watson, veteran of three Pacific landings, remains commanding general of the Second Marine Division.

Arrow indicates where landings were made.

The American landings on west central Guam north and south of of Port Apra, best anchorage in the Marianas, have isolated the harbor and the airfield on Orote peninsula, the harbor's southern arm.

The Third Marine Division quickly took five miles of coastline north of the harbor and occupied Cabras Island, a two-mile sand spit which is the harbor's northern arm.

Third Division units took the razed villages of Piti and Asan and pushed northeast to within two miles of Agana, shell-leveled capital of Guam. The Japanese attempted night infiltrations several times but were repulsed.

South of Port Apra, Marines of the First Provisional Brigade, supported by soldiers of the Seventy-Seventh Infantry Division, took Agat village, extended their perimeter to Bangi Point, thrust inland to capture Mt. Alifan overlooking the harbor, then turned north to cut off Orote peninsula and try for a juncture with the Third Division. A Japanese attack against the southern beachhead early Friday was repulsed.

Writing from the flagship of the American invasion fleet off Guam, Percy Finch, a correspondent representing the combined American press, said the Americans had trapped an undetermined number of Japanese on Orote peninsula, whose line of retreat toward the main body of Japanese troops in the central section of the island was interdicted by American artillery fire.

FOUNDRY REPORTS MORE CHIPPERS ARE BACK ON JOB

Chipping operations at the American Steel Foundries in Granite City, where 300 chippers began a wildcat strike two weeks ago, were "considerably improved" today as 66 chippers reported for the first shift, Chester Walcher, works manager, informed a Post-Dispatch reporter.

The chipping department of the plant, which produces steel for armaments, operates on four shifts daily, with approximately 75 chippers assigned to each shift. Walcher said he could not predict how many men would appear for work on later shifts today, but declared, "The situation appears much better."

However, Samuel Porch, chairman of the chippers' Adjustment Committee, told a reporter today that "never more than 10 chippers" at a time had returned to work since the strike began. He said the men sought management agreement to a wage increase to hasten action on their demands, which have been before the WLB as a dispute for nine months. The chippers are members of the CIO United Steel Workers, Local 1063.

G. O. P. LEADERS OPPOSE RENOMINATION OF EIGEL

George Eigel, a Republican member of the State House of Representatives from the Second District, who handled various important bills passed for the city at the last legislative session, is being opposed for renomination by members of the Republican City Committee in his district. A former chairman of the Election Board, Eigel is remaining in the contest and making active efforts to win despite this opposition. There are eight men running for three nominations in the district.

Eigel told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Justice of the Peace George W. Johnson, one of the three principal committee members in the district, had said he was against Eigel because Eigel had sponsored a proposal of the St. Louis Bar Association to require that justices of the peace elected hereafter be lawyers. Johnson is a lawyer. Of the other principal committeemen, Eugene M. Guise had promised to support another candidate before Eigel moved into Guise's ward and, Eigel said, Harry M. Lohmann had not explained his opposition.

It is Eigel's understanding that the principal organization support in the district will go to Austin C. Knetzger, an incumbent in the House; Ernest H. Sides and Edward C. Schneider. There is some backing for Clifford C. Bauman and Anthony A. Mikes. Other candidates are John Lazier Jr. and Curtis H. Leach.

10-DAY RALSTON-PURINA TIEUP ENDED, 5 UNIONS RECOGNIZED

A 10-day strike by 170 production and maintenance workers at the Ralston-Purina Co., 835 South Eighth street, ended today after the company agreed to recognize five AFL unions as bargaining agents for the employes.

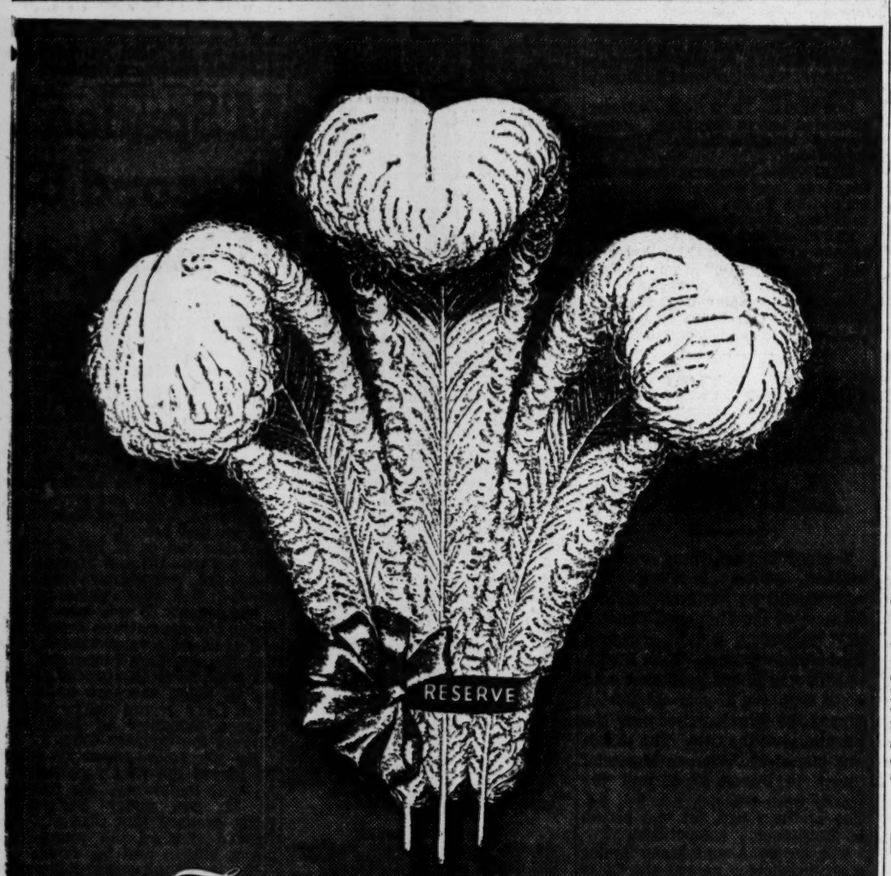

The unions—Firemen and Oilers, Local 6; International Longshoremen's Union, Local 1642; Electrical Workers, Local 1; Sheet Metal Workers' Association and Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners—had been certified by the National Labor Relations Board, but the company had refused to negotiate a contract until the NLRB clarified disputed points in the certification.

Donald Danforth, president of the company, said the company had agreed on a joint contract with the unions barring strikes and lockouts and had joined the unions in applying to the War Labor Board for wage increases.

Marion Gets Three Doubles, Hopp a Homer in Cards' Game in Boston

Tobin Removed After Yielding 9 Safeties; Ted Wilks Is Victor

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BOSTON, July 24.—The league-leading Cardinals again defeated the Boston Braves here this afternoon to win the series, three games to one. It was the Redbirds' seventh victory in eight contests on their current trip.

The score was 7 to 1.

Ted Wilks pitched for the Cardinals and started the Redbirds to victory by driving in the first run off Jim Tobin with a double in the third inning.

Marion opened the frame with a double to left and after Verban popped out, Wilks doubled to left-center, scoring Marion. Bergamo singled in the same inning, but Wilks was out at the plate.

The Cardinals scored four more in the fifth when Marion started a rally with his second double. Verban singled, scoring Marion, took second on the throw in, third on Wilk's sacrifice and scored when Etchison missed Bergamo's grounder. Hopp then hit over the screen in right-center, scoring behind Bergamo.

Marion made his third two-bagger in the sixth inning, driving in another tally and knocking Tobin out of the box.

The Braves didn't score against Wilks until the seventh.

The game attracted about 1500 cash customers.

Goetz, Jorda and Reardon were the umpires.

Bud Byerly, righthanded pitcher recently recalled from Rochester, will report to Manager Southworth at Philadelphia tomorrow with a bruised leg. Ken Penner, manager of the International League farm club, informed Billy by telephone this morning. If the leg, injured while Byerly was chasing flies in the outfield, does not respond to treatment, he will be sent to St. Louis to be under the care of Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club surgeon.

The Cardinal schedule at Philadelphia calls for three straight night games, with a twilight contest thrown in as part of a double header Thursday. The Wednesday night game will be for the benefit of the war relief funds.

In the first game of the series tomorrow night, Al Jurisich probably will pitch against Dick Barrett or Al Gerheuser.

The game:

FIRST INNING—CARDINALS—Bergamo struck out but had to be thrown out by Masi. Hopp fouled to Huston. Phillips threw out Musial.

BRAVES—Ryan struck out. Etchison flied to Bergamo. Wilks threw out Holmes.

SECOND—CARDINALS—Huston threw out Cooper. Sanders was thrown out by Phillips. Huston threw out Kurowski.

BRAVES—Nieman fouled to Kurowski. Workman flied to Hopp. Masi popped to Verban.

BRAVES — Phillips popped to Sanders. Huston flied to Hopp. Bergamo made a leaping glove-hand catch of Tobin's fly against the left field wall.

FOURTH — CARDINALS—Ryan threw out Musial. W. Cooper doubled to right. Tobin threw out Sanders, Cooper taking third. Phillips threw out Kurowski!

BRAVES—Ryan singled to center. Etchison popped to Verban. Holmes flied to Musial. Nieman popped to Sanders.

FIFTH—CARDINALS — Marion doubled to left. Verban singled to center, scoring Marion, and Verban went to second on the throw-in. Wilks sacrificed, Tobin to Ryan. Bergamo was safe on Etchison's fumble, Verban scoring. Hopp hit a home run over the right-center field wall and scored behind Bergamo. It was his third of the season. Musial struck out. W. Cooper flied to Workman. FOUR RUNS.

BRAVES—Verban threw out Workman. Masi singled to right. Phillips singled to left, Masi stopping at second. Houston fouled to Kurowski. Tobin struck out.

SIXTH—CARDINALS—Sanders singled to center. Kurowski forced Sanders, Huston to Ryan. Marion doubled to left, scoring Kurowski. Klopp replaced Tobin on the hill for the Braves. Phillips threw out Verban, Marion holding second. Klopp threw out Wilks. ONE RUN.

BRAVES—Ryan was called out on strikes. Verban threw out Etchison. Holmes flied to Musial.

SEVENTH—CARDINALS—Bergamo walked. Hopp flied to Workman. Musial lined to Holmes. W. Cooper was safe at first when Phillips let his grounder go through him for an error, Bergamo reaching third. Sanders lined to Nieman.

BRAVES — Nieman walked. Workman bounced out to Sanders. Masi flied to Musial. Phillips singled to left scoring Nieman. Huston popped to Kurowski. ONE RUN.

BRAVES — Macon batted for Klopp and was thrown out by Marion. Kurowski threw out Ryan. Etchison flied to Musial.

NINTH—CARDINALS Hickey pitched for Boston. Hopp walked. Musial flied to Nieman. W. Cooper bounced into a double play, Phillips to Ryan to Etchison.

Schmidt, Cooper Are Winners

By J. Roy Stockton

BOSTON, July 24. — Fred Schmidt and Mort Cooper were the winning pitchers in the Cardinals' double victory over the Braves here yesterday. Schmidt relieved Southpaw Max Lanier after seven innings of the opener and won a game that Nate Andrews richly deserved. Nate should have emerged victor, 2 to 1, but instead he lost, 3 to 2.

Max Macon was the Boston villain, muffing an easy pop fly and a simple throw at first base to make two of three St. Louis tallies unearned.

Southworth had planned to pitch Schmidt in the second game, but Mort Cooper asked for the assignment. Mort had one bad inning, the fourth, in which the Braves bunched four of their eight hits, but the two runs thus produced were all they could fashion off the delivery of the big righthander, so Mort won, 5 to 2. Emil Verban drove in two runs with a double in the second inning and scored on Bergamo's single, and Emil knocked in another with a single in the sixth and scored on Mort Cooper's double.

The double victory proved, at least, that the Cardinals could win without Musial doing any hitting. Musial went hitless his last two trips to the plate in the final game at New York and had gone to bat 14 times without a safety before he finally beat out an infield hit in the ninth inning of the second Sunday game.

The doubleheader attracted 17,086 persons, including 15,456 cash customers.

The defeat in the first game, perhaps the toughest of all tough games Andrews has lost this year, was his eighth, against 10 victories.

Macon was benched after fumbling away the opener, and Etchison played first base in the nightcap.

John Manion and Norsworthy Lead In P. G. A. Test

Johnny Manion, Westborough, and Clarence Norsworthy, unattached, led after 18 holes in the 36-hole qualifying play in the Eastern Missouri Professional Golfers Association tournament at Normandie this morning. Manion carded 72 and Norsworthy 73.

The final round will be played this afternoon.

Only six golfers entered and two will qualify for the National P. G. A. tournament, to be held at Spokane, Wash., Aug. 14 to 20. This is the first time in two years the P. G. A. will be held.

The scores:

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Browns Are Reversing the Field.

LOOKING over the week end semi-official averages you'll note that our St. Louis American League team is seventh in team hitting, sixth in team fielding and away below par in other departments of play. . . . In fact the Browns are first in only one respect—they're first in the American League! . . . Worry over that one, Ripley.

And according to this our Browns are reversing the field, as compared to their situation some 25 or more years ago. . . . Old Timers will remember that their plight then provoked this from a disgruntled critic: "St. Louis—first in shoes, first in booze and last in the American League."

ARNE ANDERSSON and Gunder Haegg, of neutral Sweden (where the Germans' ball-bearings come from) are engaged in a bitter duel to determine which will first produce a four-minute mile. . . . What have they got when they get it? . . . A three-minute egg would better satisfy most of us.

MARTY McMANUS — remember Marty from Phil Ball's Brownie days?—is now in the American Girls Professional Ball League. . . . He manages the Kenosha Comets—and how. . . . He manages so well that he managed to get his laundry work done by the girl players of his team, when the hotel washery suffered a man-power breakdown.

MR. PHIL WRIGLEY and his queer break to the left—his adventure in promoting the American Girls softball enterprise—have not ceased to mystify the world. . . . Aided by a press service, he has furnished the girl's organization with all the trappings of a big league baseball show. . . . And don't get the idea that the affair is a financial flop. . . . The girls' games draw as high as 5000 fans each.

THE GIRLS ARE CHAPERONED by grandmas. . . . Max Carey is in charge of the Milwaukee Schnitts—as manager, not chaperone. . . . And—you'll remember him—Bubber Jonnard is managing the Minneapolis chapter of the softball group. . . . Mike Kelley, famous for 50 years in baseball, is offering a war bond to each girl who hits a homer in Nicollet Park.

Remember Him?

MARTY McMANUS, former standout infielder for the Browns when Phil Ball owned the club, who is now managing the Kenosha Comets of the American Girls Softball League, one of the promotional hobbies of Phil Wrigley, owner of the Cubs.

ONLY ONE ST. LOUIS GIRL is in the pro league. . . . She is Audrey Kissell, who plays in pigtails for the Minneapolis club. . . . Audrey isn't any Babe Ruth at bat. . . . But can she take it! . . . She was spiked in a recent game. . . . Her wounds required nine stitches. . . . But she asked Manager Jonnard for permission to play next day.

We don't hear much about this organization down here. . . . But the league is now playing its second year's schedule and the bottom of the bank roll is not yet in sight, even with the chewing gum business somewhat in eclipse.

Father Time Is Just a Pushover.

JIMMY LONDOS, now deep in the forties, is still wrestling, we learn from a Pacific Coast exchange. . . . Jimmy is one of a score of mat title claimants still active. It is now more than 20 years since Londos began to put himself over in St. Louis. . . . Before that he had been wrestling for several years on the West Coast. . . . James, it would appear, has been competing for some 25 years. . . . Father Time appears to be a pushover for the wrestlers.

Londos has made a fortune approaching seven figures during his wrestling career. . . . He maintained a fairly reasonable claim to the title from 1930 to 1935, during which time he defended his "championship" more than 100 times a year. . . . In other words, he wrestled about one night in every four.

In some of his shows he attracted big money. . . . On one New York occasion he drew close to $65,000. . . . Wrestling on percentage, he probably averaged close to $2000 a show. . . . During his peak years his bit must have been more than half a million. . . . Total lifetime earnings on the mat of $1,000,000 probably would be an understatement.

He probably has most of it. . . . Associates say it has been much easier to take a fall out of Jimmy than out of his bankroll.

GEORGE ZAHARIAS, celebrated mat villain, whose "ferocity" in matches here sometimes had people believing he meant it, is still making them fall for him. . . . This time it's in the clothing business. . . . George is in the tailoring line. . . . His custom-made suits are the despair of Beverly Hills, Cal., except for those with movie incomes.

In George's place you begin talking prices at $150 the suit. . . . From there it's only a short distance to the stratosphere. . . . John Carmichael of the Daily News, Chicago, extracted from Zaharias information that Charlie Chaplin paid George $350 for a sport coat. . . . No pants, no vest. . . . You either supplied your own or got arrested under similar circumstances.

So, George has quit wrestling. . . . He can take a $350 fall out of a customer. . . . But he'd be thrown for a loss on the mat, age and adipose tissue considered.

Home Runs Give Browns Even Break in Twin Bill

There were many fans at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon who were ready to throw up the sponge after the Browns dropped the first game of a twin bill by the terrific score of 12 to 1, but Luke Sewell's league leaders came back to win the second contest, 9 to 3, from the challenging Boston Red Sox.

To Al Zarilla, a member of the "scrabeenies," as the Browns' reserves call themselves, goes a large share of the credit for the blood transfusion in the closing contest.

Al is an outfielder and a pretty good one, but he hasn't been consistent in his hitting, thus he has been on the bench most of the season. To make up for his lack of active participation in the games, Al has pitched in batting practice to help save the regular members of the staff, he has worked at third base before games just to be ready in case of necessity and has been used as pinch-hitter.

In the latter role, incidentally, he has hit a double, a single and got a base on balls on his three most recent trips to the plate.

He replaced Moore in right field in the opener after it was hopelessly lost and singled twice in two tries so Sewell put him in left field in the second game. It proved to be a happy choice as he hit his second home run of the season, had a double and a single and drove in three runs to spark the club in its comeback.

Bobby Doerr, who hit his eleventh homer of the season in the first game, came back with his twelfth in the second inning of the closing contest to give his team a lead and bring more moans to the fans. But in the home half of the same inning, Moore walked and Zarilla smacked his circuit wallop to the roof of the right field pavilion to put the Browns in front for the first time during the day.

That started the fireworks. They picked up two more runs in the second and in the fourth Junior Stephens supplied the real punch of the day when he lined his tenth homer of the season into the left field seats with the bases full.

So, on 12 safeties the Browns gave Jack Jakucki a rather easy time to gain his eighth victory of the year against five losses. One of the other Red Sox runs was a homer by Pete Fox, his first of the campaign.

Tex Hughson toyed with the Browns in the first game, holding them to six hits and coasting to an easy triumph after the Red Sox had blasted Bob Muncrief for seven runs on five hits, two hit batsmen and a base on balls. It was Muncrief's sixth loss of the season. He has won nine, while Hughson, who, in the morning, had been notified of the birth of a baby to his wife in Kyle, Tex., gained his fifteenth triumph, as against four losses.

Weldon West replaced Muncrief in the third and pitched fairly well the rest of the way, although the Red Sox, off the two Brownie pitchers, totaled 16 safeties.

Attendance was 14,947, including 13,759 paid. The Browns have played to 70,713 paying customers since they returned home, bringing their home season's paid attendance to well over 200,000 so far. It seems quite likely they will have the best year at the "gate" here since 1929, when they attracted 280,000 paying customers.

Bill Nicholson Ties Two National League Records In Home Run Hitting

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cubs' greatest slugging outfielder since Hack Wilson, may become the first player in National League history to lead the circuit in home runs and runs batted in for two successive years.

The husky former Washington College (Maryland) football star hit four home runs and drove in seven runs to take over or share in the leadership in both departments, as the Cubs and the New York Giants divided a double header yesterday, the Cubs winning the opener 7-4 and the Giants the nightcap, 12-10.

Nicholson's four homers in a twin-bill tied a Major League record and placed him in a tie with Mel Ott of the Giants for the league lead with 21 each. It also gave Nick six homers in four games, tying another National League mark, held by four players.

Big Bill's seven R.B.I.'s gives him a total of 64, tops in the majors. He led the senior circuit last year with 29 home runs and 128 runs batted in. Only Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals in 1922 and '25, and Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1931 and '33, ever led the loop in homers and runs-batted-in for two years, though neither led for successive years.

Just Over. .300.

In addition, Nicholson made six hits and scored six runs to climb above the .300 mark for the first time this season.

Each club tied a loop record when both the Giants and the Cubs used seven pitchers in the wild and woolly second game. The total of 14 hurlers is a new Major League record, displacing the old one of 12 set by the Cubs and Cincinnati in an 18-inning game during 1942.

Zarilla Hits Another 4-Bagger, Galehouse Pitches for Browns

By W. J. McGoogan

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, July 24.—Mike Kreevich tripled to score Don Gutteridge, who had walked, in the first inning here this afternoon and, after McQuinn got a base on balls, Stephens sent a long fly to Bob Johnson, Kreevich scoring after the catch to put the Browns off in front in the series final with the Boston Red Sox.

Al Zarilla, who is on a hitting streak, added another run in the second when he hit to the roof of the right field pavilion for his third homer of the season.

Bobby Doerr continued his great hitting for Boston, too, with his thirteenth homer of the season. His blow also went to the roof of the pavilion.

Denny Galehouse pitched for the Browns and Emmett O'Neill for the Red Sox. It was announced that no inning would be started after 5:05 o'clock, as Boston must catch a train for Detroit, where the Red Sox play tomorrow afternoon.

Tom Hafey, Brownie reserve outfielder, was notified to appear at Jefferson Barracks Aug. 1 for his examination for military service.

About 2500 persons attended.

Jones, Hubbard and Berry umpired.

The game:

FIRST INNING — RED SOX— Finney flied to Kreevich, Metkovich flied to Moore. Fox singled to right. Johnson forced Fox, Stephens to Gutteridge.

BROWNS — Gutteridge walked. Kreevich tripled to right-center, scoring Gutteridge. McQuinn walked. Stephens flied to Johnson, Kreevich scoring. Moore was called out on strikes and McQuinn was doubled trying to steal second, Wagner to Newsome. TWO RUNS.

SECOND—RED SOX—Doerr hit to the roof of the right field pavilion for his thirteenth home run of the season. Tabor walked. Gutteridge made a great stop of Wagner's grounder and threw to Stephens, forcing Tabor. Newsome singled to left, Wagner stopping at second. O'Neill was called out on strikes. Finney flied to Kreevich. ONE RUN.

BROWNS — Zarilla hit to the roof of the right field pavilion for his third home run of the season. Christman popped to Doerr. Mancuso flied to Metkovich. Galehouse was called out on strikes. ONE RUN.

THIRD—RED SOX—Metkovich struck out. Fox flied to Moore. Johnson struck out.

BROWNS — Gutteridge singled to center but was out trying to stretch it into a double, Metkovich to Doerr. Kreevich lined to Doerr. McQuinn struck out.

FOURTH — RED SOX — Doerr grounded out to Stephens. Tabor popped to Christman. Wagner struck out.

BROWNS—Newsome threw out Stephens from deep short. Moore popped to Tabor. Zarilla tripled to center. Christman flied to Fox.

FIFTH—RED SOX — Newsome popped to McQuinn. O'Neill struck out. Finney grounded out to Gutteridge.

BROWNS — Mancuso flied to Metkovich. Galehouse struck out. Gutteridge grounded out to Tabor.

Brother Bill Is Tennis Champ of Ziervogel Clan

Bobby Ziervogel, younger of the brilliant tennis brothers, had match point on his racket in the fifth set of the Municipal Class A final yesterday, but he smashed the ball into the net. Then Brother Bill, who is one year older and wiser than the 17-year-old Bobby, slipped the winning shot over the net and took the title. The match was played at Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park and the scores were 3-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6. The brothers had not met before in tournament competition.

The Triple A and Muny junior girls' titleholder gained the Class A women's singles title by defeating Mrs. Rita Broderick, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. Mrs. Ucille Kick, former softball player, teamed with Mrs. Clara Reiser to defeat Ruth Moehlenkamp and Mrs. Marcella Kranzberg, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5, in the women's doubles final. The losing team reached match point twice in the final set.

Lee Harding and Herman (Ham) Mueller won the men's doubles laurels, beating Earl Klein and Dr. E. O. Menzel, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. The latter team won an uncompleted semifinal match earlier from Bob Ziervogel and Elmer Hirth, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1. The match was stopped Saturday after three sets were played.

M'Spaden's Record 63 Wins Open

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 24 (AP).—Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia is the 1944 Open champion and he owes it—in his own words—to a putter that he handled with a "mother's kiss."

McSpaden shot a record-shattering third-round 63 yesterday on the 6575-yard par 72 Fort Douglas course, rated the toughest in Utah.

The Jug won the $2500 tournament with a 271, two strokes under Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., and another record.

At the end of 36 holes, Nelson had a 67-65—132 and McSpaden a 69-67—136. But Nelson's lead melted when McSpaden's putter ignited.

McSpaden's 63 was two strokes under the competitive course record of 65 set several years ago by Tee Branca, then home pro. His 271 total, 17 strokes under par for the 72 holes, was two under the Utah Open record set in 1936 by George Schneiter of Salt Lake City at the Country Club.

On his record-smashing round, he toured the first nine holes in 31, four under par. He returned in 32, five under. Fifteen-foot putts dropped like flies and McSpaden finished the round with seven birdies and an eagle.

The last round was anticlimactic. McSpaden faded to a 72, his worst of the meet, but it was good enough to head off Nelson's 69. McSpaden won $750, Nelson $450.

HULL HINTS POLICY ON ARGENTINA HAS BEEN AGREED ON

Attitude Settled Upon by Republics, He Indicates, but Gives No Details.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull indicated today that the American republics had reached general agreement on their attitude toward the Government of Argentina, but he declined to discuss its details.

At a press conference, Hull recalled that conferences had been going on for some time. Recently, some of the conferring Ministers had sought to clarify the situation because of confusion created, Hull said, by sinister and subversive elements. He did not define those elements or say in what way they had been sinister and subversive.

The aim of the policy clarification which Hull indicated had been circulated in a memorandum among all the American republics was to make clear the policy of the American nations supporting the Allied cause and the policy of the American nations supporting what Hull called another cause. He did not define the other cause.

Not Prepared to Elaborate.

He added that because of the need for keeping in closest touch with the other American governments he was not prepared now to elaborate on what the policy is.

A reporter, telling Hull that it appeared Germans were still killing Germans, asked whether Hull knew what was happening in Hitler's Reich.

"I wish I did," the Secretary replied.

Money Parley Hailed.

The recently concluded United Nations monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., was hailed by Hull as another demonstration that peace-loving nations "are working together every day and every hour." He issued the following statement:

"The successful completion of the important work of the Bretton Woods conference is another step toward the goal of the United Nations and nations associated with them in the war for a peaceful, secure and happy world in which all peace-loving nations will co-operate for their mutual benefit.

"Once again these nations have met and discussed in a most friendly spirit problems vital to the economic security of each and every one of us. The faith expressed in my address to Congress on the Moscow conference has never diminished. I was therefore not surprised by the splendid co-operation of the U. S. S. R. and all the other countries in the work of the conference and by their willingness to contribute to its success.

"The results of the Bretton Woods conference are another demonstration of the fact that the nations which love peace are working together every day and every hour without fanfare or drums to provide opportunities and create facilities for the attainment by all of an increasing measure of security and prosperity."

Kutis Wins, 1 to 0, From Arizona Girls

The Denton Queens girl softball team of Phoenix, Ariz., was stopped last night at the St. Louis Softball Park as the Kutis Undertakers eked out a 1-0 victory behind the three-hit pitching of Catherine (Cacky) Blankemeier.

The visitors had won the first two games with local clubs here by the score of 2-1, over the Weicks and Hi Clays.

of Maltot and captured a woods 500 yards south of Etavaux.

The Germans resisted stiffly and counterattacked with tanks. At last report fighting was continuing in the area.

With the mop-up of Maltot and Etavaux, British and Canadian troops tightened their hold on both sides of the Orne River south of Caen.

The British executed a raid on Le Bon Repos, German-held crossroads village northwest of Esquay, capturing 15 Germans and killing many more.

To the west the Germans continued to fall back toward a line between St. Germain, Decot and Noyers.

Emieville, five miles east of Caen, was wrested from the Germans yesterday. The Nazis had been directing heavy fire from this town against Allied tanks thrusting down the road toward Paris.

In its morning summation of the situation, supreme headquarters said it was "a relatively quiet day on the whole front" and added that there was "no improvement over last night."

From the front came a further indication of the "Hitlerization" of German field forces. Gen. Josef Dietrich, a Nazi political general, was identified as the commander of an SS Panzer corps.

Without notable military ability, Dietrich worked his way up from the enlisted ranks in the first World War by political maneuvering. He participated in underground resistance to Versailles treaty arrangements and was in Hitler's Munich beer hall putsch. He is a veteran of the Balkan campaign. The Russians have charged him with committing outrages at Kharkov and have listed him as a "war criminal."

The Normandy weather improved somewhat today over yesterday when Allied planes flew only 1600 sorties, all in direct support of the battle front.

Most of the 400 Germans captured in the cleanup of Maltot Saturday were from the newly identified 271st German Infantry Division, which supreme headquarters disclosed had reached Normandy with the 272nd division from the French Mediterranean coast a few days ago.

This was the first definite indication that the German army group holding Southern France, where the Germans have given numerous indications of concern over the possibility of further Allied landings, has been tapped to bolster the northern front.

Prisoners reported German forces had been "bled white" in desperate attempts to check the Allied onslaught. One prisoner said his company had been reduced to a single officer with no ranks to command. Another said his company had been reduced to 32 officers and men, of which 26 were captured.

Boy Playing Cowboy Shot in Eye.

Eugene Bizer, 7 years old, was shot and seriously wounded while playing cowboy with two neighbor boys Saturday night at his home, 615 Canal street, Brooklyn, Ill. He was taken to Christian Welfare Hospital in East St. Louis, where the bullet was found lodged in his right eye. His father, Pvt. John Bizer, is in Texas and the boy is living with his stepmother.

HEAD OF JAPAN'S TOTALITARIANIST PARTY REPLACED

Gen. Abe Takes Korean Post New Premier Held —More Changes Announced by Tokyo.

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—The Tokyo radio announced today that Gen. Nobuyuki Abe had been named Governor-General of Korea to succeed Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, who left that post last week to become Japanese Premier.

The broadcast, recorded by United States Government monitors, also said that Ryusaki Endo, former Secretary of the Treasury and a member of the House of Peers, had been named chief civil administrator for Korea.

Yesterday Tokyo announced the resignation of Abe as president of the Imperial Rule Assistance Political Society, parliamentary wing of the Imperial Rule Assistance Association, Japan's totalitarian party.

Abe resigned the society presidency because of "unavoidable circumstances," said a broadcast. Tsuneo Kamemitsu will act as head of the society until a permanent chief is named.

FUGITIVE SOLDIER CAPTURED

Pvt. Harry C. File, of the Army Corps of Engineers at Fort Leonard Wood, was arrested by Missouri State Highway Patrol officers yesterday at Robertsville, Mo., after he had escaped from a military policeman by leaping from a Frisco Railroad train at St. Clair, Mo.

File, who had left Fort Wood without leave, was being returned to that base from Jefferson Barracks. He had been arrested in Texas. Highway patrolmen said he surrendered without a struggle and had suffered only minor scratches in his leap from the train, which reportedly was traveling 50 miles an hour.

Two Democrats Seek Nomination For Unexpired Term as Mayor; Kaufmann Unopposed in G.O.P.

Facts about the two candidates for the Democratic nomination for Mayor are published today in the Post-Dispatch Voters' Guide. Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann is unopposed on the Republican ticket. The nomination is for the unexpired term, running only from next November to next April, when a Mayor will be elected for a regular four-year term. Mayor Kaufmann, who had been President of the Board of Aldermen, automatically became Mayor upon the death of Mayor William Dee Becker in the glider crash last Aug. 1.

Patrick Joseph Burke Jr.

A BUSINESS agent and trustee of Local No. 603, AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' and Inside Dairy Workers' Union. Democratic committeeman of the old Twenty-second Ward and unopposed for re-election, in the primary, from the new Twentieth.

Born near Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue July 18, 1898, the son of Patrick J. Burke, postoffice maintenance worker, now retired. Attended St. Ann's Parochial School, Kenrick High School and spent two years at the Jesuit college at St. Mary's, Kan. Started work in the automotive service department of Wagner Electric Corporation, traveled two years opening service stations and was manager of the department when he quit in 1922 to make more money as a salesman for the Highland Dairy Co.

Then he became a route driver for Highland in the vicinity of Euclid and McPherson avenues, until elected a business representative of the drivers' union in 1935. He is obviously paid a substantial salary by the union, which also furnishes him with an automobile. He has no outside business interests. His union duties he describes as that of conciliator between workers and employers and he points out that the only strike of importance during his time in office was one of a few days in 1942. As a member of the union executive board he participates in disbursing funds, subject to approval by the membership, and as one of the three trustees he audits the books. His brother, Justice of the Peace James A. Burke, whom he succeeded as Democratic committeeman, is virtual boss of the union, as secretary-treasurer and executive board member.

Membership comprises 1250 drivers and 950 inside workers in 46 dairies of the metropolitan area, the union claiming complete coverage except for about three independent routes in the suburbs. The members work around the clock and Burke's bedside telephone often rings at night, to get his help in solving their personal as well as working troubles. There are three other business agents. The union shares air-conditioned offices with six other locals of the Teamsters' International Union at 4111 Forest Park avenue.

Deputy Sheriff for a Time.

Appointed a Deputy Sheriff in 1937, with the duty of serving papers in a district of the city, Burke resigned in 1939, after it was made known that he was also employed by the union. He served under Sheriff James J. Fitzsimmons.

In the World War Burke was classified in the draft for limited military service, because of defective vision, but was about to be called for duty when the war ended.

When he reached voting age he took a liking to some candidate whose name he forgets and thus became a Democratic precinct worker. His political activity increased after his brother became a committeeman in 1936. Patrick Burke went on the committee in 1940 and he was runner-up for chairman in March 1942 to succeed Robert E. Hannegan, now national chairman.

Burke never sought public office before. He says that numerous persons—business men, manufacturers and some dairy men—urged him to run for Mayor after an article suggesting him as a candidate appeared in the St. Louis Labor Tribune early this year. His campaign organization includes Harry C. Barker, a lawyer, chairman; Edward Kerber, officer of the South St. Louis Business Men's Association and commander of an American Legion Post; John J. Houlihan of the St. Louis Dairy Co., a candidate for Congress in the past, who is handling campaign finances, and several physicians.

Burke's Platform.

In his platform Burke advocates: planning to assure work and decent living conditions for returning war veterans; promotion of public health; prevention of juvenile delinquency; vigorous enforcement of the smoke law; expert study to obtain the best airport sites; expansion of the city limits; encouragement of private capital in redeveloping blighted areas; daily collection of rubbish and garbage; modernized transit; support of the milk ordinance; repeal of the city cigarette tax; encouragement of business enterprise; representation of all the people, not of any special interest.

Forceful but suave in manner and positive and fluent in speech, Burke is typical of the modern sort of union executive. He likes milk but does not drink liquor; says he saw too much drinking among others as a youth. He likes to do favors and welcomes the friendships thus created.

He owns his home, a six-room bungalow at 4646 Bessie avenue. He is married and has three children.

Joseph Miltenberger Darst

A REAL ESTATE dealer, from 1933 to 1941 Director of Public Welfare under Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann. Twenty-fifth Ward Democratic committeeman from 1940 until he resigned on becoming a candidate, recommending his successor, Emmet Canty.

He was unopposed last year for the Democratic nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen, but Aloys P. Kaufmann, Republican, who later became Mayor, defeated him, 55,086 to 42,046.

Born here March 18, 1889, the son of Annie Miltenberger Darst and the late Joseph C. Darst, he lived as a child at 4157 Maryland avenue and as a young man at 4531 West Pine boulevard. His great-grandfather got the contract to build the Old Cathedral in 1831. He attended Barat Hall, the Sacred Heart boys' school at Taylor and Maryland avenues; the high school of St. Louis University; Christian Brothers' College and the St. Louis U. pre-medical course for a year, but he was more interested in sports than medicine and quit to become a real estate salesman for Franciscus & Kunz.

In 1917, a month after America entered the World War, he went to the First Officers' Training Camp at Fort Riley, Kan., then got his first taste of flying at a school of aerial observation at Fort Sill, Ok. In June, 1918, as a second lieutenant, he went with the 139th Infantry to the Vosges sector of France. Sent back, a first lieutenant, to be an instructor for another unit, he reached St. Louis on Armistice day and was mustered out the next month.

Becoming vice president of his father's real estate company, he succeeded the latter as president, after the elder Darst died in 1930. The company did a general realty business and also developed such subdivisions as Arbor Terrace, now a suburban municipality; Westmoor Park, Clayton Road Terrace, Darstmoor and Darstdale. With sales knocked out in the depression, the company was wound up when Darst went to City Hall in 1933. Eight years later he went into the real estate business again, under his own name, and his office now is in the International Building. He deals chiefly in West End residential property but also does much appraisal work, mostly by appointment of Judges and other officials.

Picked Welfare Post.

Offered a choice of jobs under Mayor Dickmann, he selected that of Director of Public Welfare, at $8000 a year, with 3600 employes in the hospitals and other institutions, the parks, the jail and workhouse and the airport. This was the greatest single field of patronage in the turnover from the Republican administration, but there were relatively few flurries over its handling. Addressing the League of Women Voters in 1936, Darst said that political parties could survive without patronage and denied that he and the Mayor had played politics at the expense of the public service. More than 100 union attendants at City Sanitarium, who went on strike in 1938 for an eight-hour day, were fired summarily by Darst.

Darst was chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission at the time, before the war, when the Curtiss-Wright airplane factory at Lambert-St. Louis Field was expanded. Some questions were raised then about encroachment on the landing and takeoff area. While in city office Darst was first vice president of the Municipal Theater Association.

Darst became a Democratic election judge at a Whittier and Olive streets poll when he was 21. He worked in William L. Igoe's campaign for Mayor in 1925, in Al Smith's race for President in 1928, in President Roosevelt's first campaign in 1932, and organized groups of business and professional men, war veterans and others in Mayor Dickmann's first race in 1933. Out of one of these groups grew a medical advisory committee that helped select physicians for the Department of Public Welfare.

About 11 years ago he was chairman of the Twenty-fifth Ward Democratic Organization. He organized the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce about 18 years ago because of his subdivision interests.

Samuel H. Liberman, former president of the St. Louis Bar Association and former Police Board member, is general chairman of Darst's campaign. Others on the executive committee include Ralph W. Coale, treasurer; Russell L. Dearmont, Jacob M. Lashly, Frank Lee, George T. Priest and former Smoke Com-

Candidates of Major Parties For Circuit Attorney, Sheriff

Facts concerning the three Republicans and five Democrats seeking the nomination for Circuit Attorney and five Republicans and two Democrats contesting for the nomination for Sheriff are presented herewith for the guidance of voters in the Aug. 1 primary.

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY

Republican.

CARL M. DUBINSKY—4402 McPherson avenue, law partner of Jerome F. Duggan, Wainwright Building; 52 years old, married, three children. Born here; attended public schools and Benton College of Law. Proposes to have trial assistants whose convictions of criminals would stand up on appeal; to oppose "gambling and other rackets;" to promote rehabilitation of ex-convicts.

WILLIAM THOMAS O'CONNELL HART—Hamilton Hotel, 956 Hamilton boulevard, partner in law firm of Hart & Hart, 509 Olive street; 51, widower, one child. Born at Maloy, Ia.; attended Christian Brothers' College and Benton College of Law. He has been Twenty-eighth Ward Republican committeeman since 1936. Filed for Collector of Revenue in 1942 but withdrew. His brothers are Luke E. Hart, former Alderman; Michael J. Hart, a former Republican committeeman; Herbert M. Hart, now a Navy Lieutenant Commander, and Richard C. Hart, who ran for Circuit Judge in 1934.

CHARLES J. RILEY—4319 McPherson avenue; secretary to Mayor A. P. Kaufmann and previously to the late Mayor William Dee Becker; 52, married, two children. Born in Pike County, Illinois; attended Western Illinois Academy and Notre Dame and St. Louis universities. He was United States Attorney for the Panama Canal Zone, 1928-30, and a special assistant to the United States Attorney General prosecuting criminal cases, 1930-33. In 1940 he ran for Eleventh District Congressman. He is a director of the Consumers' Coal Co., which he organized in 1941 to provide smokeless coal at cost for the poor. Last year he was an organizer of a credit union to make loans at low interest to city employes. He has been a member of the Social Planning Council and active in bar, veterans and civic work. In the World War he served in France with the Rainbow Division as an infantry captain, was wounded twice and was cited for bravery.

Democratic.

JAMES W. GRIFFIN—4349 Gibson avenue, an assistant Circuit Attorney, now in charge of grand jury work and previously as warrant issuing officer; 61, married, one child. Born here; attended public schools, Jones Commercial College and Benton College of Law. He was a city inspector of weights and measures, 1913-17; an Assistant Circuit Attorney under Lawrence McDaniel, 1918-21, and under Franklin Miller, 1929-34, and a Judge of Court of Criminal Correction, by election, for two terms, 1934-42. In general, Court of Criminal Correction has jurisdiction over misdemeanors. Formerly Griffin was Twenty-fifth Ward Democratic committeeman.

EDWARD E. HIEBY—Melbourne Hotel, lawyer, with office at 706 Chestnut street; 39, married. Born at Sioux City, Ia.; attended St. Louis University. Proposes: To establish an independent investigating department in Circuit Attorney's office, in order not to rely on police reports; to appoint assistants without antagonistic interests; avoidance of any understandings with other governmental agencies compromising administration of justice; to give grand juries full information, without suggestions or importunities; aggressive checkup of any unfinished cases; no "whitewashing" of offenders; full observance of constitutional rights.

IVAN HUBER LIGHT—5465 Cabanne avenue, lawyer, with office at 208 North Broadway; 38 Born at Bloomington, Ill.; attended Illinois Wesleyan University, Harvard College and Harvard Law School. After practicing law at Bloomington for two years he came here in 1932 and for the next eight years was with the firm of Thompson, Mitchell, Thompson & Young. As a special counsel for the Frisco Railway trustees, 1935-41, appointed by Federal court in New York litigation, he was one of five lawyers awarded fees aggregating $130,000.

He has had experience in various criminal cases in the last three years and was retained by the Civil Liberties Committee to defend Andrew Brinkley, central figure in the notorious case of Edward Melendes, who was beaten to death in police custody. Light advocates: "Honest, just, intelligent and humane enforcement of the laws"; keeping Circuit Attorney's office clear of politics and political influences; review of the Melendes case "by a Circuit Attorney who will hew to the line regardless of where the chips may fall"; equal protection of the law, without race distinction. Light has deliberately refrained from seeking ward organization support. He opposes a fourth term "for any President."

FRANK P. MOTHERWAY—205 South Euclid avenue, now First Assistant Circuit Attorney under Thomas C. Hennings Jr.; 40, married, two children. Born at Litchfield, Ill.; attended St. Mary's (Kan.) College and St. Louis University law school. He was an Assistant City Counselor in the Dickmann administration, 1933-37, and became an Assistant Circuit Attorney in 1938 under Franklin Miller, being promoted to first assistant last Feb. 1. Advocates: Reform in law for severances in criminal trials; right of state to take depositions in criminal cases, and notices of special defenses.

HERMAN D. OLIAN—5804 Cates avenue, lawyer, with office in Shell Building; 39, married, two children. Attended Central High School, Washington University, City College of Law, Boston University and Boston College of Law. For six years, 1934-39, he was an Assistant Circuit Attorney under Franklin Miller and later for two years he was an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney under James P. Finnegan. Frequently he has been called in to sit as a Provisional Judge of Court of Criminal Correction. He ran for Circuit Judge in the 1940 primary.

SHERIFF

Republican.

WILLIAM H. NOLTE—3149 Pennsylvania avenue, employed in yeast department of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.; 39, married, three children. Born here; attended Humboldt School and McKinley High School. Says he would devote himself to any postwar policy for general public welfare.

ANTON SCHULER—3879 Holly Hills avenue, now Clerk of Circuit Court for Criminal Causes; 58, married, three daughters. Born here; attended St. Mary's School, Old Cathedral School and, after studying under a private tutor four years, St. Louis University. He has long been a leading Republican politician, with a record of office holding and office seeking for many years. He was a chief figure in the old Courthouse Ring a quarter of a century ago.

He was a Deputy City Marshal, 1907-20; City Marshal, 1920-24; Sheriff, 1925-28; Public Administrator, 1928-32, and clerk of the criminal courts since 1943. In 1920 he ran for Recorder of Deeds; he failed of re-election as Public Administrator in 1932 and as Sheriff in 1936 and 1940. Some time ago he was Sixth Ward Republican committeeman for 12 years. When he was Sheriff he supported the state law which changed that office from the lucrative fee basis to a salary basis, after having voluntarily limited himself to $10,000 a year in fees.

In 1936 Schuler refunded $7140 that he had charged against 81 estates, as Public Administrator, for premiums on his fidelity bond and miscellaneous items. Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold had ruled, when it was shown that Schuler's successor was making charges for bond premiums, that the Public Administrator must pay for his

Anti-Hitler Plot Linked to East Front Disaster

Generals Knew Line Couldn't Hold, Apparently Planned Peace Move.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1944.

LONDON, July 24.

THE sensational Russian successes all along the eastern front, from newly captured Pskov in the north to Lublin and Przemysl, in Central Poland, dwarf in importance anything else happening in Europe today.

By their smashing advance over the week end, which achieved the momentum of a military tidal wave, the Reds came within striking range or battled their way into several important cities on a front stretching from the Baltic sector to Southern Poland. This forward surge is properly described by Britain's most competent military correspondent as "the most amazing advance of the war," and unless and until it is checked it will make such affairs as a plot against Adolf Hitler look insignificent by comparison.

Contrast to Allied Gains.

The Soviet advance comes at a propitious moment and the only regretable feature of it, from the Allied viewpoint, is that something similar is not happening in Western Europe.

The immediate effect of the German defeat in the East must be the intensification of the moral rot which forced certain German generals to try to kill Hitler last Thursday, and which no amount of purging can completely cauterize. It is now as clear as anything can be in connection with the attempt on Hitler that the generals who staged it intended to sue for peace and that the reason they had decided to sue for peace was their conviction that the Eastern Front could not hold.

It is of the utmost significance that a general from the Eastern Front has not yet been produced before the microphone to profess his loyalty to Hitler.

Situation in West.

In the West at the moment the German troops are commanded by generals who are strictly loyal to Hitler: Gunther Von Kluge, Erwin Rommel and such people as Col. Gen. Josef Dietrich, veteran of the Munich beer hall putsch and organizer of the "Liebstandart Adolf Hitler" who now commands the SS Panzer Corps in France.

Their troops, furthermore, have been heartened by the slowness with which we have developed our beachhead and they are constantly encouraged by the story that, granted continued and successful resistance on their part, the "V-2", the 10-ton German rocket bomb, will shortly intervene to change the whole course of war in the west.

It is in the east that leaders

Captive Nazis Say Coup Means Reich Can Wage Real Total War

Even Non-Party Members Agree Hitler's Forces Will Fight With Increased Fury, but Feel Mistakes Will Shorten Conflict.

By RICHARD L. STOKES

NORMANDY, July 24 (By Wireless.)

STATEMENTS volunteered by Germans taken prisoner in the last few days indicate that Adolf Hitler has engineered the supreme political coup of his bloody and fantastic career and that the war, instead of being almost over, will be fought from now on with unheard of intensity and with the bitterness of desperation.

"Now we can fight," exulted captive members of Hitler's SS elite guard who had been scattered through the German line in order to terrorize slave troops into manning the hedgerows against the Americans. "At last we shall have total war," they gloated.

Situation Summarized.

Among anti-Nazi soldiers from Austria and Bavaria, the feeling appeared to be that they were "glad to be out of it" since in the future "Gestapo commissars will see to it that the Germans fight to the last ditch and will try to make us as fanatical as the Japanese."

The universal belief among the prisoners of both views is that Hitler, by inventing or utilizing the attempt against his life, has finally struck down the lordly, historic caste of military aristocrats which has swayed the destinies of the German people since the days of Frederick the Great and boasts of lineal descent from the Teutonic knights of the Middle Ages.

These convictions are based on Berlin broadcasts with which the German armies in France have been deluged day and night and on reports of Hitler's latest radio speech which are largely at variance with the summaries made public in Britain and the United States. The main outlines of the situation as beheld on the other side of the battle line follow:

Heinrich Himmler, the ferocious Gestapo chief, becomes supreme military commander as well as minister of the Reich. Himmler's chief of staff is Gen. Heinz Guderian, the tank expert, a dyed-in-the-wool Nazi of the Munich beer hall days and not a German, but an Armenian. This means that the Gestapo, already in control of the home front, now will move in on the army. The Junkers generals may continue in command, but each will have at his elbow a Gestapo spy and superior. Obedience and loyalty probably will be assured by the Gestapo holding relatives of the Junkers as hostages.

Hitler himself announced that reorganization of the Army is in progress "along National Socialist lines." According to Hitler, the disaffection of the German officer clique showed its head not only in the Reich, but in Italy.

The development was welcomed with rejoicing by the typical young Nazi prisoners who accept the gospel of the Fuehrer's claim that his escape from assassination is proof of his "divine mission."

Afraid to Use Gas.

In predicting total war, the Nazi prisoners hasten to explain that this does not mean that poison gas will be used. They deny that in this they are motivated by humane considerations, but by the fact that with superior air power the Allies could inflict reprisals many times more devastating.

The anti-Nazi captives also are pleased at the prospect of Gestapo control of the Army. They believe that in the long run the fanatical young hotheads will prove less successful as commanders than the professional soldiers and that their mistakes may shorten the war.

The American comment in Normandy is that Hitler would not have taken the radical step of discrediting his own commanders except as a last resort and that in this act National Socialism has taken its last possible stand.

(Don Whitehead, Associated Press correspondent with the American Army in France, said one observer, noting growing indications that the German general staff regards the war as lost, asserted that fear of what Russia might do to Germany was heightening the crisis among German officers. The observer said, Whitehead reported, that the Junkers and the aristocracy of the German Army are deathly afraid the Russians not only will dismember Germany, but that the upper classes from which the Army's officers traditionally have been drawn, will be wiped out.)

Interpreting The War News

HIMMLER THE REAL POWER IN PURGE

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

(Copyright, 1944.)

YESTERDAY I discussed some of the background of the struggle between the Nazi party and the old-line Generals of the German Army for control of military policy. In this fight, the blackshirted SS (Elite Guard) forces have been the Nazi's chief instrument. It should not, however, be thought that all army officers are anti-Nazi or anti-Hitler. Some of the younger Generals, and the less experienced staff officers of junior grades, are devoted to Hitler. There are nowhere any clear-cut lines of demarcation; there are deep cleavages within the army itself, even within the general staff.

Veryfew officers of the army, however, are devoted to Heinrich Himmler; it was the rise of Himmler toward supreme military as well as civil power that appears to have precipitated the present crisis. Hitler, having lost the confidence of his best Generals by his "hold everything" policy, was apparently compelled to turn to Himmler, to yield to Himmler's demands for authority over the army in order to remain in power.

The instrument which holds the German people firmly in line and preserves the authority of Hitler and the Nazi party is Himmler's Gestapo, backed by the weapons of the internal SS units. Now it begins to appear that the military arm of the Elite Guard, the Waffen SS, may be the instrument by which Hitler will seek to continue his authority over the army.

In the immediate background of the present crisis apparently is the five-day convention in May of this year, at which Hitler, Himmler, Goering, Keitel and 150 German Generals and Admirals were present. This convention was described for us by Lt. Gen. Edmund Hoffmeister, former commander of the Forty-first Armored Division, who was there, and is now a prisoner of war in Russia following the destruction of his corps at Bobruisk in June. Hitler, he said, made a 90-minute speech about past achievements, winding up with a statement about the necessity for "holding on until a complete victory would come. To hold on, he recommended to us Generals that we study National Socialism." There was the hint of coming party control of the army — the entering wedge for

THE EVOLUTION OF A BANK

One of our representatives was flabbergasted.

He was explaining Industrial's commercial banking service to a St. Louis business executive and received the following reply: "Why, I didn't know you offered this service. I thought Industrial was a place for the individual to go when he needed a hundred dollars — or wanted to save a little."

There was such a time, many years ago, but this local executive had overlooked the evolution of a local bank. Of course, we were partly at fault, for not giving it more publicity.

Industrial started in 1913 as a loan and savings institution. Its customers grew, and the bank had to keep pace. They asked for checking account service, and got it. They became business executives, and asked for commercial banking service — and got it.

Today the forty million dollar bank gives complete service, but the evolution of the customer must continue. Therefore, personal loans are still a part of the service, and savings deposits are still accepted—for those business executives of tomorrow who are starting on the upward way

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Conscientious Objectors' Service

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Post-Dispatch is to be commended for its editorial describing the work of the conscientious objectors.

Among these men are the forest fire paratroopers in the West. They have been invaluable in helping to prevent devastating fires dreaded by forest conservationists, ranchers and lumbermen who fear sabotage.

Some of their other humane services include work and experimental projects on dairy farms, in hospitals and insane asylums, public health and food research, reforestation and road building, reclamation of arid land, fish and wildlife conservation, and many medical research experiments.

In explaining the position of the conscientious objector, Arthur Morgan wrote: "He believes that while war has long been a human habit, in the course of social evolution it must be replaced by reliance on good will as the only sound basis for society, and that men will respond to good will that has become plainly evident to them . . . that the example of many individuals persistently acting in good will for a long period will be necessary before nations will be ready to rely on good will as a national policy."

To spread good will among nations is an avowed American policy. It seems important, therefore, in the democracies to respect and protect a minority who are putting into practice not only this principle, but one of the oldest of our four proud freedoms: liberty of conscience.

THELMA WILES THALINGER.

Relic for St. Louis

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

On the streets of San Francisco rests the original Hellcat plane in which "Butch" O'Hare, our St. Louis hero, shot down six Jap planes in about six seconds. For this feat he was given the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Why can't St. Louisans preserve this plane instead of its being slowly stripped bit by bit for souvenirs by San Franciscans? Let's get this plane for St. Louis.

J. ROBERT MILLER.

Background of Donnelly

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

On the list of Kansas City supporters of Phil M. Donnelly for the Democratic nomination for Governor, as printed in the Kansas City Star of July 2, there are many names of those who have been affiliated with the corrupt and defunct Pendergast machine. Apparently the fragments of this wrecked machine are being patched together in an effort to gain control of State affairs again by capturing the governorship.

The behind-the-scenes leader of this movement is said to be Jimmy Pendergast, the messenger boy for his ex-convict uncle, Tom. They should bear this in mind when they go to the polls on Aug. 1, and vote against candidates tarred with the brush of Pendergastism.

INDEPENDENT VOTER.

Goose-Drownder: Hell-Splasher

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Chicago Tribune copies an editorial from your newspaper concerning our agrarian forebears' terms for a much-needed big rain.

A Leaning Is Swayed

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I listened to the Democratic convention, as several weeks ago I listened to the Republican.

I am an independent voter, but leaned strongly toward voting again for Mr. Roosevelt. Since hearing the Democrats, I am not so sure.

It was a disappointment that the Democrats chose such a sad and critical time to begin mud-slinging. I had hoped that this campaign would be mercifully minus such bad taste.

Although I disagreed with much the Republicans had to say, I think they at least kept their criticisms of the administration on a constructive basis.

I didn't like the odor of Gov. Kerr's keynote speech. It seemed to me he was trying to sell a line of goods which does not need selling. The accomplishments of the administration stand on their own feet.

INDEPENDENT VOTER.

A Glamourized Camp

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The romanticisms and perversions from moviedom are justifiable as "literature" or as entertainment; but the falsifications about the army camp in "Christmas Holiday" have reached a new high in ridiculousness.

That camp is actually situated in a desolate, treeless swamp; it's one our news commentators have repeatedly dubbed a "concentration camp."

Yet how does Hollywood portray this place? As one characterized by gala, West Pointian ceremony, brick buildings and—shade trees!

EDNA WAHLERT McCOURT.

Forward, St. Louis!

If St. Louis is to continue its progress and development after the war as a major American city—

If St. Louis is to provide adequate postwar employment for demobilized service men and for the present employes of war plants—

Then approval of the $43,527,000 bond issue by two-thirds of the voters on Aug. 1 is absolutely vital.

The program has been planned in accordance with the soundest principles for public works. Every one of the 11 items is a matter of necessity to the health of the city or its safety, to communication with the country at large or within St. Louis, to the recreation and education of the people.

Each of the 11 items, and all the projects they include, represent creation of permanent St. Louis assets. One of them, the $7,500,000 Waterworks program, will be self-liquidating. The others will be paid off gradually on a schedule so arranged that Comptroller Nolte, the city's financial watchdog, says the bond issue "will not increase taxes in any substantial degree, if at all."

The public's general agreement on the necessity for all these undertakings is shown by the fact that there is no open opposition to the bond issue. In other years when bond issues were proposed, property owners have sometimes organized to fight what they considered unnecessary spending. This time, not a word of that kind is heard. Instead, organizations of all varieties—civic, commercial, labor, political, official and unofficial, more than 150 in all—have indorsed the bond issue. This universal approval is readily understandable.

Everyone knows that many needed projects have been postponed because of the war. Everyone knows that St. Louis must launch a major job of airport construction if it is to hold its deserved position in the world of aviation after the war; hence the $9,897,000 item in the bond issue, to which will be added funds remaining from the 1942 bond issue, to make up a $14,000,000 construction program.

Everybody knows, too, the need for far-reaching improvements in the city's street system, its sewer system, its bridges and viaducts, to keep up with the needs of increasing use and to provide new facilities; hence the bond issue items totaling $17,555,000.

Everybody knows that hospital facilities are inadequate, and their upkeep has been neglected; hence the $950,000 proposal, to which will be added funds now on hand to make a total of $3,350,000.

Everybody knows that the city's fire-protection facilities are inadequate, and that its fire-police telephone and telegraph system needs extensive modernization; hence the two items totaling $3,000,000.

The intangibles of city life are important, too. St. Louis needs more and better park facilities. Its celebrated Zoo needs means for expansion and improvement. Its outstanding Art Museum needs modernization of its 40-year-old building. Hence the three bond issue items that supply the remaining $4,625,000 of the civic program.

Here is a great opportunity for St. Louisans to get their city prepared for postwar progress. It is an opportunity to provide a large amount of postwar employment, since 60 per cent of the whole program will be devoted to wages.

It is, in short, a program that deserves the active support and the Yes vote of every citizen when he goes to the polls a week from Tuesday.

Take a Telegram

Who decides whether a congratulatory telegram shall be sent? FCC barred all telegrams of congratulation, to ease the congestion of telegraph business. When Mr. Willkie tried to send a congratulatory telegram to Gov. Dewey upon the latter's nomination, Western Union refused it.

But—and here is the mystery—when President Roosevelt sent a congratulatory telegram to his running-mate, Senator Truman, Western Union accepted it. Still more mysteriously, Western Union accepted a congratulatory telegram from Vice President Wallace to Senator Truman, though they were both in the same city and, very likely, in the same building.

It is understandable that a telegram from the President to the monetary conference at Bretton Woods was accepted, for Mr. Roosevelt was acting in his official capacity. His telegram to Mr. Truman, however, was sent in the capacity of a political candidate—as was Mr. Wallace's to Mr. Truman—and as was Mr. Willkie's rejected telegram to Gov. Dewey.

If any thread of consistency runs through these incidents, it is not apparent. Western Union deserves a telegram of its own for its inconsistency, and the message should be acceptable, for it is not congratulatory:

WESTERN UNION:
NO CONGRATULATIONS.

When the Tokyo radio announces that a great victory impends in the Pacific, it neglects only one detail. It doesn't say whose.

A Fraud Against Free Elections

Dirty work in politics is not confined to the national scene. Politicking for minor offices can give off its bad odors, too.

Take, for instance, one Fred J. Koenig of St. Louis. It is somewhat startling to note that he can run for the State Senate even though his own power to vote has been removed by the Federal Court which heard him plead guilty to the black-marketing of liquor. But that anomaly is the least of it.

If Koenig should be nominated, a post-dated resignation he has given the Republican City Committee will take effect. Why, then, did he not withdraw before the primary? And why did the committee accept such an arrangement? Because, apparently, the committee hopes that he can beat Victor B. Harris, his only opponent.

Harris, as it happens, is attorney for the St. Louis Civil Liberties Committee, an organization which has been known to make things a bit uncomfortable for the professionals. He is, in short, outside the charmed circle.

Called by whatever name one will, this is a fraud against the voters of the Thirty-third District. Not a legal fraud, perhaps. But certainly a gross fraud against the very spirit of free and open elections. If it is lawful, some patching of the law is in order. Meanwhile, Republican voters in the district can reassert electoral decency by marking their ballots for Harris.

Clark and the Politicoes

Because of the nomination of Senator Truman for Vice President, Senator Clark's chances of renomination are brightened. This is a strictly professional matter. Before Chicago, Truman was for Clark, even going so far as to say that the President wants him back in the Senate, though just why the President should want a potential Jim Reed is hard to understand.

Truman as vice-presidential candidate is still for Clark and his support now has greatly added influence. Bob Hannegan naturally is for Clark, because Clark took him out of private life after the governorship steal and made him Collector of Internal Revenue, from which he graduated to the job of Commissioner of Internal Revenue in Washington; thence to chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

Linked so closely to two top men in the Democratic party, Clark can beckon more effectively to the party leaders of Missouri. These leaders are interested in victory and in jobs, rather than in principles and issues. If they are on the wrong side of the Clark-McKittrick fight, their chances of patronage go begging. And—BIG IF—if Truman should succeed to the presidency, with immense patronage at his disposal, then the McKittrick leaders, in event of McKittrick's defeat, would indeed be covered with sackcloth and ashes.

So it is expected that deals will be made, that McKittrick leaders will become lukewarm and slip, obtrusively or otherwise, to the Clark camp.

This intricate and devious political setup is all the more reason for the independent-minded citizen to look sharply at the Clark-McKittrick race and to do something about it, namely, go to the polls. The reason Clark's star was definitely on the decline before the Chicago convention is that his anti-administration record in the Senate, both in foreign and domestic affairs, had cost him heavily in public esteem. That record stands today just as it stood before Chicago. Clark's hypocrisy, in praising Mr. Roosevelt glowingly when he wants to be renominated and re-elected, only to turn on the New Deal when he gets back into office, stands just the same as it did before Chicago.

All the reasons for defeating Clark are just as they were, with the added reason now that his improved chances represent merely the party leaders' desire for patronage. The party leaders will play their own game. The public should play its game, which is not a game at all, but a question of good government.

Does Missouri want in the Senate a man of Clark's record and of his potential capacity for doing evil so far as wrecking a decent postwar settlement is concerned? We believe the question answers itself.

Mr. Churchill's Caution

Winston Churchill has seen the frustration of too many high hopes to give way, except on rare occasions, to outbursts of optimism. Now, with Nazis and old-line militarists busy bombing and liquidating one another, and thus signaling to the world the internal crumbling of Germany, Churchill naturally rejoices at this boost for the Allies, but his comment is carefully guarded.

He does not say, as less responsible spokesmen assert, that the feud means Germany will quit the war in a few weeks. His measured opinion is that "the war might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say."

It may be that the outbreak in Germany does mean an early finish to the war.

On the other hand, a dispatch by Richard L. Stokes today says that Nazi prisoners in France declare the war will be fought with greater fury from now on. It would be folly to expect quick victory, or for either soldiers or civilians to relax at their weapons or at their machines of production. The best policy is to hope with Churchill for quick victory, and to go on with all our efforts just as if Hitler were still Fuehrer of all Germany in fact as well as in name.

The President Pronounces

Mr. Roosevelt put—to quote a popular song—the ac-CENT upon the wrong syl-LAB-le in his acceptance speech when he referred to something as being ap-PLIC-able. If the President had REferred to Webster's dic-tion-EER-y, he would have learned that the proper pronunciation is AP-plic-able.

Along with presidential English, there must be an ideal of presidential pronunciation to-WARD which the Am-mur-ric-an people like their chief ex-e-CUTE-ives to aspire. President ROOSEYvelt should bear this in mind when next he speaks on what one of his many former friends—a Mr. Smith who did not go to Washington—called the RADDY-o.

A Whitewash for the Wehrmacht

Hitler is responsible for the German defeats and the huge losses of men and equipment in Russia, says Gen. Edmund Hofmeister, captured Tank Corps commander, in a statement published by Moscow newspapers. There is probably a great deal of truth in this, but there is also a plain attempt to save the face of the Wehrmacht and the older military leaders. And this may be dangerous to the hopes of future peace.

After the last war, Germans were told that their army had not been defeated in battle; it had been betrayed by a "stab in the back" from the home front. Millions at last were convinced by Hitler that Germany could win "next time" if the home front held firm.

If the theory gains ground among Germans after this war that they would have won had it not been for Hitler's mistakes, the officer group's prestige will be unimpaired, and the stage will be set for a new rise of militarism.

The only way to convince the German people that war does not pay is for the Allies to inflict such an all-out defeat upon them as to remove all doubt that, Hitler or no Hitler, their armed forces were overwhelmed by superior strength and skill. And the only way to prevent the military caste from plotting World War III is to see that its poisonous influence is permanently removed from the German scene.

As Nazi Desperation Grows

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Faced with a defeat which for them can mean only death, the Nazis are apparently determined to make good their threat to take Europe down in blood and destruction with them; writer urges protest, whether it is hopeless or not, against their murder of Jews.

Anne O'Hare McCormick in the New York Times

The unforeseen and the unbelievable has happened to Germany. Disasters like Stalingrad, the collapse of Italy, the terrible bombing of German cities, the invasion of France, have filled the land with ever-deepening gloom and foreboding. But nothing in the course of the war has had anything like the impact of the arrival of the Russians at the doors of the Reich itself.

This is the "outrage" that evokes the note of hysterical panic never heard before in broadcasts from Berlin.

The people long ago gave up hope of victory. They accepted the idea steadily dinned into their ears by Dr. Goebbels that the only alternative to extermination was to hold out to the death. But this last stand was always to be made outside the gates of the Fatherland. They never expected "the holy German land" to be invaded.

In the consternation and terror they now express, it is evident that they thought to the last either that the Russians would stop at their strategic frontiers or that the Western powers would do something to prevent the Red armies from reaching Berlin.

Twilight of the Nazi Gods

It has frequently been predicted that in the finale of his Goetterdaemmerung, Hitler would try to play the role of Samson and bring down all of Europe with him.

If the prophets were correct, the finale is at hand, for this is exactly what the Nazis openly threaten to do. To keep the "Russian flood" from their "loved ones at home," says an official spokesman, they are ready to "turn this Continent into a maelstrom of destruction where only one cry is heard—the cry of blood."

It is hard to imagine that the Nazis in their desperation, would wreak more death and destruction—in the lands outside Germany, of course—than they have already wrought.

Millions of human beings have perished at their will, not in battle alone but before firing squads, in prison camps, in hundreds of murdered villages like Lidice, Distono and Oradour-sur-Glane, in the ghettos, box cars and slaughter-houses where the Jews were hunted to death. Even the ruin of German cities is on their head.

What worse can they do? In the Nazi hierarchy and the Gestapo, we are dealing with reckless and cornered men, aware that they are doomed. For them military defeat is not just unconditional surrender; it is death.

The thought that they can do worse, and that nothing can move them, causes a kind of paralysis in the humane impulse. The conviction that only a complete victory in the field can put an end to the Nazi terror makes all efforts to save their victims seem futile and hopeless. Yet now more than ever we must do our utmost to save what we can. Every new atrocity lays a new burden on the heart and conscience of the world.

Hopeless or not, humanity has to assert itself for its own sake. The worst thing the Germans could do is to dehumanize other people and silence the voices that protest against cruelty and injustice. If they stifle moral indignation, they destroy more than cities or nations; they win their war against the spirit of man.

Threat of Extermination

Hopeless or not, the world has to cry out against the awful fate that threatens the Jews in Hungary, for instance. And it is not hopeless. It must count in the score of Hungary that, until the Germans took control, it was the last refuge in Central Europe for the Jews able to escape from Germany, Austria, Poland and Romania.

Now these hapless people are exposed to the same ruthless policy of deportation and extermination that was carried out in Poland.

But as long as they exercised any authority in their own house, the Hungarians tried to protect the Jews. Pius XII now addresses an urgent appeal to Adm. Horthy and instructs Cardinal Seredi of Budapest to intervene in behalf of the Jews of Hungary.

It is not hopeless, because we can still count on forces of Christianity and humanity inside Europe to resist Nazi fury. Now Turkey seems to be edging into the war, thus opening a way out for the satellite states. Now the Russians are driving westward, German power is no longer supreme.

To give up these fellow creatures who are in the power of the enemy is to accept a form of defeat. Not only to save them from death and give courage to the people who defy the Nazis, but to save ourselves from ignominy, we have to raise our voices for the persecuted and keep on trying by all means to rescue them.

Autos Are Ammunition, Too

Passenger cars aren't pleasure cars any more. They're transportation, a national asset.

And they are disappearing fast. When auto production stopped in February two years ago, slightly more than 27,000,000 passenger cars were in use. The number is down now to about 23,000,000. It is estimated that 2,000,000 more will go to the scrap-pile by early 1945.

But we're not taking care of the cars we have.

The American Automobile Association has announced the result of a survey. The AAA found a general disregard of the Federal 35-mile-an-hour speed limit by all classes of vehicles.

It found war workers guilty of the most flagrant disregard of speed regulations and car conservation, charging: "They are accorded top priority in cars, tires and gasoline, and apparently proceed on the assumption that they have a divine right to replacement if a car is demolished or a tire destroyed."

No American has the right to waste a national wartime asset. That goes for war workers, too.

How Fascism Won in Argentina Is Related in Reporter's Diary

"Argentine Diary," by Ray Josephs. (Random House, New York.)

After reading this book, one must conclude that Col. Peron's recent statement about arming Argentina for the future was not just idle talk.

Argentina's Government and its relation to inter-American co-operation pose many questions which vitally affect this country. Is Argentina really Fascist? Does the military clique have actual control, or is it merely the facade for a power behind the throne? Ray Josephs, a reporter for PM, Variety and the Chicago Sun, gives the answers to these and other important questions in his day-by-day account of political events in Argentina from January, 1943, to February, 1944.

In a brief background, which does not, however, emphasize sufficiently that Argentina was one of the few countries in Latin America where democracy really had a chance, the author describes the overthrow of President Irigoyen in 1930 and the factors which made possible the coming of the present regime.

The "Colonels' Clique," that small group of army officers, rose to power because it had a plan and was ready for concerted action when the opportunities presented themselves. When Josephs arrived in Argentina, the Colonels were in the process of entrenching themselves. They did this by dismissing outstanding pro-democratic university professors, closing Congress, suppressing political parties and playing up anti-Semitism. The last project was carried out under the direction of Hugo Wast, well-known Argentine novelist.

Col. Peron early claimed for himself one of the most strategic positions in the Government, that of the Minister of Labor, and brought the workers under his control. His gang of thugs saw to it that no public meetings took place without his approval.

The question of a final break with the Axis was, of course, of paramount importance. When President Ramirez, pulled by arguments pro and con, ultimately made the decision to stand with the other American republics, the Colonels were powerful enough to force his resignation and place Farrell, their figurehead, in power.

During all this time, pro-Nazi newspapers were allowed complete freedom (Senator Butler will be happy to learn that this press was able to use his distorted report on Latin America for its own purpose), while the pro-democratic press was effectively supervised.

The Army today is in complete control of prosperous Argentina. It gained power by making use of the typical weapons of Fascism, and because armies have traditionally played a large part in Latin American politics.

Here, then, along with Allan Chase's "Falange" and articles by Betty Kirk and Heinz Eulau, is a primer on Fascism in this hemisphere. It is to be hoped that Americans, North and South, read the book.

History of the War's Fourth Year

"The War: Fourth Year" (Oxford) is a considerably larger volume than its three predecessors in this valuable series. Covering the period from October, 1942, to September, 1943, it has better news to report than any of the others. The author, Edgar McInnis of the University of Toronto, carries his serial story forward, from the invasion of North Africa to the surrender of Italy, in lucid and lively style. There is a well-written introduction by Viscount Wavell. The series' usefulness grows with each volume, and its importance to any war reference shelf is obvious.

WALTER LIPPMANN

The Coming German Civil War.

THE broadcasts by Hitler, Goering and Doenitz make it clear that for some time a struggle has been waged under cover between powerful elements of the army and the Nazi leaders. The attempt on Hitler's life was manifestly not the act of a small band of assassins. It was a big inside job.

Hitler himself described it as similar to the coup which overthrew Mussolini. It is evident from his reference "to usurpers," and from the orders issued by Goering to the German Air Force, that this was, perhaps still is, an attempt to set up a new government.

The authors of the attempt must have been powerful and numerous. For only important members of the German Army could have got through to the kind of meeting where the attack was launched.

On the other hand, it is a reasonable inference that this is not a clear-cut struggle between the Army and the Nazi hierarchy. For if it were, if the Army were united, the Nazis would easily have been arrested or killed.

A Split in the Army.

The lines of conflict run through the Army, which is itself partly but not completely Nazified. If this is a correct inference, it is very important. For it does not foreshadow the elimination of a few Nazis, and then the appearance of a German Badoglio, some German General expecting to be treated as the representative of a purged and regenerated Germany.

Hitler's support within the German Army and the German nation is much deeper than Mussolini's ever was in Italy, and it is reasonably certain that we are seeing now the beginning of a German civil war.

There are powerful forces on both sides. The Nazis are not just a clique that can be ousted without a fierce struggle; neither are the instigators of the revolt the "extremely small clique" which Hitler said they were.

His own admissions go far to prove that they are a formidable force. By appointing Himmler and Guderian "we will now at last" deal with those who "constantly attempt to sabotage." Why "at last"? Why did he not appoint Himmler sooner? Evidently because the opposition in the Army to Himmler's domination has for long been strong enough to prevent it.

Some Pointed Questions.

"This time we will settle accounts in such a manner as we National Socialists are wont." Why "this time"? Why not sooner? Could "a very small clique of criminal elements" have prevented the Nazis from acting sooner? They must, on the contrary, be very powerful persons to have been tolerated by Hitler and to have held off Himmler for so long.

They are clearly a formidable movement within the Army. Otherwise, how could they be "trying", as Goering said, "to spread confusion among the troops by issuing false orders—as a new government of the Reich or as usurpers"?

What must be the condition of the German Air Force when Goering has to place all formations inside the Reich under his own personal orders and that of his new appointee, Col. Gen. Stumpf, when he has to announce that "dispatch flights", which presumably mean carrying messages to the commands, "can be carried out only with my or his permission"?

And how does it happen that while Goering is issuing such orders to the Air Force and Adm. Doenitz similar orders to the Navy, the Chief of the General Staff of the Army has had to be replaced?

To Stave Off Disaster.

It has long been highly probable that when Germany was confronted with military disaster, the old Army would attempt to save itself and Germany by throwing overboard Hitler and the Nazis. But the old Army is no longer the old Army; it sold itself to Hitler, hoping to use him and to profit by his acts.

Hitler, who is a cunning villain, has, however, intrenched himself within the Army. The outcome, which now seems to be preparing, is that these two elements, enmeshed with one another, will go down together in a bloody, envenomed death struggle. Goering has already given orders for German soldiers to shoot one another virtually on sight.

This is the way the monstrous Reich should end, in an implacable struggle among those who made it the terror of mankind. Their victims can never be as ruthless with them as they themselves, habituated in horror, will in desperation be with one another.

The Allies have not the slightest reason to shorten or mitigate this internal German struggle. For here are the makings of the only kind of defeat which can destroy not only the power but, what is even more important in the long run, the traditions of German militarism.

Problem Before the Allies.

For the Allies, there can be no central German Government which they could recognize as capable of surrendering for the whole Reich. The Nazi soldiers and their fanatical leaders cannot be surrendered by nominally non-Nazi Generals. They will take to the woods and the hills and the cellars and fight on.

As Germany breaks up, the rule of unconditional surrender will have to be interpreted as applying to regimental, divisional, corps commanders who can in fact deliver into our hands as prisoners of war specific formations of German troops. Separately, in bits and pieces, we can offer them an end to battle and then the treatment stipulated in international law.

Let us consider nothing as surrendered which is not physically in our hands.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Forces at the Convention.

CHICAGO.

THE towering events taking place at the east and west of this convention city, across the oceans, made the show here look small indeed. The signs, and you hardly dare believe them, point to the crack-up of the Axis.

What is beginning to happen in Germany is breath-taking, terrifying—the end of a monstrous thing that has defiled the whole earth, and hurt and maimed and destroyed human beings everywhere. In Japan, on the other side of the world, the first split has appeared.

The Republicans complained a month ago that the war news was blanketing their rally. Some stalwarts hinted darkly that Roosevelt had planned it that way. They blamed him for the torrid weather, too.

A Grassroots Sentiment.

But what if they had had this kind of competition? Revolt in Germany. . . . Tojo out. I guess the President must have planned this, too, so people wouldn't notice the family quarrel brewed up in the course of picking a vice-presidential candidate.

It's difficult when you're so close to a story to tell what impact it is making beyond the immediate radius of the shouting and the confusion. However, I feel that part of this story somehow has got through.

Looking at the grassroots support for Henry Wallace, you could see a parallel, curiously enough, with a strong force that ran through the Republican convention, too. It was the resentment of the states between the Appalachians and the Rockies toward the two seaboards, and particularly toward the East. But the familiar combination of the bossed cities and the Old South were strong enough to defeat Wallace in the face of the support from labor and the marginal states. That is the real meaning of Senator Truman's nomination.

Areas of Wallace Support.

The fervor for Wallace came from the less prosperous states, the states where forests have been cut down and soils exhausted. From the same marginal areas came the submerged hostility toward the nomination of Gov. Dewey: A whispering you could hear in lobbies and corridors that the choice had been dictated by powerful interests quite outside the influence of the common people in the great middle band of states.

Similarly, the delegates to the Democratic convention from the hinterland flared out at bossism. They were not deceived by the clumsy behind-the-scenes wire-pulling.

The real laugh of the convention came after Mayor Kelly's speech nominating Senator Scott Lucas for Vice President. Hardly had the Mayor stopped speaking when a procession filed in from the back of the hall. They were the boys from the wards back of the tracks, who were lined up with Lucas banners for what was laughingly called a demonstration.

What made it so funny was that they looked completely and absolutely the part. They had all the high enthusiasm, the fine ardor, of those spear-carriers who are hired to walk on stage in "Aida" and similar operas For realism, Hollywood couldn't have touched it. Having filed sheepishly around the hall, they marched out again.

A Synthetic Demonstration.

No one over the age of 5 could possibly have been deceived. It stood, this stirring "demonstration," as a kind of symbol of the boss technique. Mayor Kelly didn't like the reception he got. He isn't accustomed to being laughed at and shouted down in his own Chicago.

Of course, there was organization behind the Wallace enthusiasm, plenty of it. Those Wallace signs didn't blossom out in the gallery without a lot of work on the part of the CIO Political Action Committee and other groups trying to renominate the Vice President.

But something more than organization was behind the Wallace drive. It was the steam of real emotion and genuine feeling for a man who stands for something, whether you like that something or not. That steam comes out of the little towns, the lonely farms, the cut-over country.

From these same areas come a very high proportion of the men who are fighting the great battles in the East and the West, and these plain people know it. If they don't make themselves heard in this campaign, they'll be heard from later, and you can mark that down as a sure thing.

FOUR KILLED IN ACTION; TWO FLYERS MISSING

ARCHBISHOP GLENNON SAYS MOST ITALIANS OPPOSED WAR

The Italian people "wanted no part of the war," Archbishop John J. Glennon said yesterday at the quarterly communion mass and meetings of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, held at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, Ninth and Barry streets.

The archbishop, speaking of his visit to Rome in 1940, declared that "it is well to remember that rarely a whole nation is guilty. The Italians wanted nothing more than the quiet of their homes and the opportunity to pursue in peace the arts and sciences. But their leader would not suffer it. That is what an individual leader can do.

"Such leaders must be removed, either to insane asylums or to places where they will be unable to drive humanity along the road to destruction and death."

ARTIST M'CLELLAND BARCLAY NOW PRESUMED TO BE DEAD

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. McClelland Barclay, nationally known artist listed as missing in action a year ago, now is presumed to be dead, the Navy today advised his brother, Robert H. Barclay.

Barclay, whose paintings and sketches were to be part of a permanent historical record of the war, was a passenger on the U. S. S. LST-342 when it was torpedoed in the Solomons Sea July 18, 1943, the Navy said.

He designed covers for the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and Pictorial Review and drew many recruiting posters in the last war.

Barclay was the son of the late Dr. Robert Barclay and a nephew of the late Shepard Barclay, both of St. Louis. He was a native of St. Louis.

GRANITE CITY AIRMAN DIES IN PLANE CRASH IN GEORGIA

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24 (AP).—Staff Sgt. Willard C. Johnston of Granite City was one of 10 men killed yesterday when a B-24 bomber crashed 10 miles northwest of Chatham Field Air Base here while on a training flight, the field public relations office reported. His wife, Mrs. Georgia A. Johnston, lives at 2868 Ralph street, Granite City.

Another victim was Cpl. Lewis Masters, Southwest City, Mo.

'MAYTIME' THIS WEEK AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

First Revival at Park Since 1930 Features Dorothy Sarnoff and Edward Roecker.

"Maytime" a Sigmund Romberg operetta, will be staged by the Municipal Opera tonight at 8:30 o'clock for the first time since its initial Forest Park presentation in 1930. Dorothy Sarnoff, star of "The Open Road," and Edward Roecker will sing the leading roles.

Litigation over copyright ownership has prevented earlier revival of this musical play, which includes the famous "Will You Remember" number, more commonly known as "Sweethearts." Other familiar songs are "Jump, Jim Crow," "The Road to Paradise," "In Our Little Home, Sweet Home," "It's a Windy Day on the Battery," and "Dancing Will Keep You Young."

Besides those of Miss Sarnoff and Roecker, principal roles will be played by William Lynn, Zamah Cunningham, Mary Stevenson, Jess Walter, Earle MacVeigh, LeRoi Operti, Trudy Brooks, Philip Kinsman and John Brooks McCormack, all current summer favorites; Ruth Clayton and Al Downing, of former seasons, and newcomer Carolyn Glynn. Dance routines will feature Nitza, Spanish dancer, as soloist in her first Municipal Opera engagement.

The plot of "Maytime" covers the time from 1870 through the present day and follows a story of three generations, in which grandchildren of two families realize happiness which a shattered romance denied their grandparents.

B. C. HYDE, FORMER STATE INSURANCE SUPERVISOR, DIES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24 (AP).—Benjamin C. Hyde, Missouri Superintendent of Insurance from 1921 to 1929, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 69 years old.

He was appointed to the post by his brother, Arthur M. Hyde, then Governor and later United States Secretary of Agriculture. In December, 1921, Benjamin Hyde ordered a 10 per cent reduction in insurance rates which has been the subject of litigation involving several million dollars in impounded funds.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jessie Ballew Hyde; a daughter and a son; two other brothers, State Supreme Court Judge Laurance M. Hyde, Jefferson City, and Ira B. Hyde Jr., Princeton, editor of the Princeton Telegraph, and a sister, Mrs. Frances Hyde Glenn, Columbia. Funeral services will be tomorrow at Princeton.

Francis Bolton in England.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Republican Rep. Francis Bolton of Cleveland, Ohio's first Congresswoman, arrived in the United Kingdom today by air and is expected to reach London tonight. Mrs. Bolton, sponsor of nursing legislation in Congress, expects to visit hospitals and troop centers.

ASSERTS PUBLIC POWER COULD HALVE RATES

Hunger Striker Lake Discusses Missouri Valley Authority Possibilities.

A reduction of 45 to 50 per cent in electric rates for industrial consumers in St. Louis would result if development of a Missouri Valley Authority made public power available here, Chester Lake contends in a book he is writing while he continues his hunger strike against "political interference" with rural electrification.

The book is to be entitled "Thirty Years of Trouble-Shooting for Democracy," and will review Lake's fight for public power, both as a private citizen and as a former executive of the Rural Electrification Administration.

In a chapter on the Missouri Valley, Lake advocates development of an MVA modeled closely after the Tennessee Valley Authority. He charges that private utilities are influencing chambers of commerce and other organizations to oppose public power developments on the ground that free enterprise must be protected, and asserts, "The free enterprise argument is being used to protect what is neither free nor enterprise."

Lake, who has eaten no solid food since June 28, has lost 22 of his 200 pounds, but reports he feels fine on a diet of three glasses of fruit juice a day and a glass of water an hour. He spends much of his time working on his autobiography at his home, 5533 Cates avenue, but takes daily walks, and went to a baseball game Saturday.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH SALE TO NEGROES APPROVED

Sale of the building of First Christian Church, located at Fountain and Aubert avenues, to Centennial Church, Negro affiliate of the denomination, now located at 4400 Aldine avenue, for $25,000 was approved yesterday morning at a meeting of the congregation.

First Christian Church will continue to occupy the building until a new site has been acquired. The Rev. R. A. Harmon, pastor of the church, stated that the sale had been made because recent property transfers indicated that the building would soon be in a Negro neighborhood.

THIS IS E WEEK IN DRIVE TO REACH E BOND SALE GOAL

This week has been designated "E Week" by the St. Louis War Finance Committee in an effort to spur sales of E bonds and enable St. Louis and St. Louis County to reach the $32,154,150 quota before the Fifth War Loan drive ends next Monday.

I. A. Long, campaign chairman, today expressed the hope that civic pride would bring a rush of sales so that St. Louis would not be placed in the position of having fallen short of its goal.

Sale of E bonds totaled $21,557,587, or 67 per cent of the quota, when the latest report was tabulated. In sales of all types of war bonds, St. Louis has exceeded its quota by more than 25 per cent through purchases totaling $227,859,054.

missioner Raymond R. Tucker.

Darst has been consulting technical specialists in city planning as part of his idea of "improving our city and bringing back its glory." Last March he proposed a proposal for large-scale conversion of central blighted areas into attractive residential districts under auspices of the city but with new construction financed by private capital. His platform advocates: Slum clearance and urban rehabilitation; construction of adequate airports; smoke elimination without favoritism; provision of smokeless fuel at a price all can afford.

He was married in 1930 to Miss Lucille Rose of St. Louis, and they have lived ever since at the Chester Apartments, 4943 Lindell boulevard. They have no children.

Interpreting The War News

Himmler. "The elder and more experienced Generals," Hoffmeister continued, "took a very skeptical attitude." The breach between these Generals and Hitler apparently widened as a result of this conference. It must have been possible for Himmler to produce the most convincing evidence that Hitler must give him power over the army or lose power over it himself.

The disasters in Italy and White Russia and the breaching of the Atlantic wall should, however, have convinced even Hitler that the "hold everything" policy was unsound and would be fatal if continued. But his reaction was to blame the Generals. He removed Von Mackensen, commanding the Fourteenth Army in Italy, and now is said to have arrested the commander in chief, Kesselring; Busch, who commanded the central front in Russia has simply disappeared and Von Rundstedt and Von Falkenhausen have been removed in the west.

By July 18, two days before the bomb incident, the Himmler affair was apparently coming to a head. On that day, six German officers were killed in a pistol fight in Athens, at a conference called to consider "matters of high policy." What these matters were becomes clear in the light of reports from usually reliable neutral sources that Hitler had already decided to give Himmler authority to appoint and remove military commanders of all grades, and that a conference was in progress at which Reichsmarshal Goerring was attempting to persuade representatives of the high command to accept this decision.

On July 19, the Hoffmeister story was published in all the Russian newspapers. In this statement Hoffmeister not only gave the full details of the military convention in May, but laid the blame for the disasters in White Russia flatly at Hitler's door, and quoted his former superior, Busch, commander of the army group of the center on the Russian front, as saying that he did not have the authority to correct the weak and faulty dispositions on his front because Hitler had prohibited any withdrawal and had ordered him to "defend each meter of ground."

After that there could be no concealment and no postponement. The bomb incident, Berlin says, took place on July 20. It may have been a Nazi frame-up to give immediate excuse for Himmler's elevation to military authority. It may have been a desperate attempt on the part of a cliqûe of army officers to prevent that elevation. But its result was the appointment of Himmler, not to complete authority over the army, but to the command of all armed forces within Germany itself. At least, so the matter is reported for the time being.

Himmler does not yet—apparently—have control of the troops at the front. But he is a man greedy for power, and able to make the most of Hitler's necessities; if he commands the home troops today, we may be sure he will find excellent reasons why he must be given control over the front-line armies tomorrow.

That will necessitate a purge, of course. There can be no SS control of the Army without getting rid of the Generals and general staff officers who will not co-operate, and who have no trust in Hitler or SS leadership—with sound and sufficient reason. The purge has in all probability already begun. The ability of the German Army to go on fighting depends on the extent to which its really capable officers now fall in line with the new regime. The possibility of discord and disruption are endless, and it may be some little time before any sound opinion as to the outcome may be formed.

Two points, however, should be kept carefully in mind. The first is the fact that the shake-up may undermine the confidence of the men in their officers. There is no judge of battle leadership like the private in the ranks; and if the rank and file get the idea that they are being sacrificed by incompetent leaders, there will be trouble. It is clear from prisoners' stories that the German soldiers already know all about the fight between Hitler and the Generals and are disturbed by it. Hitler's appeal to the soldiers to go on fighting indicates that he is anxious on this score.

The second point to remember is that the dissident Generals cannot, in all probability, stage a military revolt in Germany itself, for the excellent reason that there are no fighting formations of the army inside Germany except in East Prussia, which is now part of an active front. The fighting troops of the army are to be found distributed around the vast perimeter of "Festung Europa." Scattered among them are the divisions of the Waffen SS.

In Germany there are, of course, a few depot and training formations, but no field troops. However, there are in Germany perhaps 300,000 or 400,000 SS troops of various categories, not field divisions for the most part, but units trained in street fighting, quelling riots, and such duties. Therefore Himmler is master in Germany, and cannot be upset by the Generals. The only way any General at the front can influence the situation in Germany is by surrendering to the Allies. Should such surrenders begin on the part of either senior or subordinate commanders, that might be the sign of the beginning of the end.

and men alike are most shaky in their devotion to the Nazi regime and, as far as one can see today, it is from there the German armies will first go reeling back into Germany. Thus, being denied temporarily the spectacle of British and American troops plowing their way across France and into Germany, Americans and British alike must regard the Russian advance as the very best thing that could happen.

Reasons for our failure to advance faster in the west are now the subject of urgent discussion and most certainly they were thoroughly examined by Prime Minister Churchill during his recent three-day visit to France. Bad weather has certainly been one of the reasons. Some people like to think that another of the reasons has been Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's "play safe" mentality, it being indisputable that he has withdrawn or halted his units time and again in order to avoid any possible trap by Rommel and heavy losses.

SHOOK CANDIDACY INDORSED BY WALSH PRECINCT GROUP

Thomas V. Walsh, a candidate for First Ward Democratic Committeeman, has announced that his precinct organization has indorsed the candidacy of Edgar Shook for Governor, on the ground that Shook would give efficient government, resulting in lowered taxes.

Walsh, an AFL steamfitter and former Alderman of the ward, said that others on the slate of his group included: Roy McKittrick for Senator, Patrick J. Burke for Mayor, Dan D. Porter for Lieutenant Governor, Wilson Bell for Secretary of State, R. W. Winn for State Treasurer and Raymond J. Lahey for State Representative.

Thomas R. Tuhill, candidate for Seventeenth Ward Republican Committeeman, has announced a slate including Howard V. Stephens for Senator, Jean Paul Bradshaw for Governor, Louis E. Miller for Congressman, Jasper R. Vettori for Court of Criminal Correction, W. T. O. Hart for Circuit Attorney, Anton Schuler for Sheriff, John J. Hurley for Coroner and Francis M. O'Brien for Public Administrator.

TWO AIRMEN ON FURLOUGH TELL OF ROBOT BOMBS

Two veteran airmen and holders of the Distinguished Flying Cross, home on furlough after completing at least 25 combat missions with the Eighth Air Force in England, told today of personal experiences with the Nazis' "Vengeance Weapon No. 1," the robot bomb.

"As long as you can hear its engine you're okay, but when you hear it stop, duck—because it's on its way down," declared Staff Sgt. Robert N. Engelage, brother of Mrs. Juanita Schowengerdt, 2845 Wyoming street. One bomb struck a hotel used by Americans and blew off the upper two floors, he related, while another blew off the roof of a cab but without injuring its occupants.

Staff Sgt. Lionel M. Simington of Attica, Ark., said, "They don't have the penetrating force of a bomb, but they do have a terrific concussion and level everything in the block they hit." Simington was employed at the Busch Sulzer Brothers Diesel Engine Co. before his induction.

LT. WALTER J. GOEHAUSEN BAGS FIFTH ENEMY PLANE

First Lt. Walter J. Goehausen, fighter pilot stationed at an Italian base, shot down his fifth enemy aircraft on a bomber escort mission over Ploesti, Romania, June 24, it was announced today in a dispatch from his base in Italy.

Lt. Goehausen, who holds the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, shot down three German planes over an airdrome in Southern France June 15. Previously he had destroyed a plane on a raid on Milan, Italy.

His aunt, Miss Mathilda C. Funck, 3726A Connecticut street, said he wrote that he had shot down one and a half enemy planes since June 24, bringing his total to six and a half planes. Lt. Goehausen, 23 years old, is the husband of Mrs. Mariam Goehausen, 160 South Elm avenue, Webster Groves.

JAKE SELLERS — 3830 Park avenue; now Sixteenth Ward Alderman and traffic manager of the Pevely Dairy Co.; 34, married. Born in Crawford County, Missouri, and attended public school there. He was nominee for Alderman of his ward in 1939 and was elected in 1943, after having been Republican committeeman of the ward a year and a half. He is chairman of the aldermanic special Airport Committee, which made a report opposing the Columbia Bottoms major airport site. Sellers was among members of the committee who had preferred the Tesson Ferry site.

JOHN H. STEPHENSMEIER—4521 Clarence avenue, retired, a former policeman; 67, married, one daughter, a native of St. Louis. He became a patrolman in 1899, a sergeant in 1911, and was dismissed by the Police Board, July 3, 1936, on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer. He has not worked since, except for a time as a guard at the St. Louis Ordnance Plant.

THOMAS C. TURNER — 4142 Maryland avenue, now Seventeenth Ward Alderman, and a salesman for Academy Awning Co., 2333 Olive street; 57, married. Born at Spencer, Ind., and attended school there. Formerly in real estate subdivision business. He ran for Seventh Ward Alderman in 1929 and for Justice of the Peace later and was elected from the Seventeenth Ward in 1941. A supporter of the smoke ordinance, he is on a special aldermanic committee to investigate smokeless coal processes and smoke elimination, and late in 1941 he proposed an inquiry to determine feasibility of building a city plant to process soft coal so it could be sold to persons of small income. Last year he introduced a measure for a 10 per cent pay increase for city employes; it was found this conflicted with the merit system, but Turner feels the bill played a part in bringing about pay increases.

MILD STOCK REBOUND STALLS; CLOSE MIXED

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—The stock market looked as though it might be ready for a comeback in today's early proceedings but demand for rail and industrial leaders soon wavered and fractional advances were trimmed substantially or converted into minus signs near the close.

The continued good war news and Prime Minister Churchill's intimations of a likely Nazi blow-up in the wake of the recently reported revolt against Hitler provided much cheer for the financial sector. Persistent caution regarding stocks, however, was another matter and was based mainly on fears of serious reconversion problems for business and industry. Some nibbling at the start was due to the thought the list may have been oversold.

Dealings slowed appreciably after a fairly lively first hour and final trends were cloudy.

Smallest Trade in Month.

Transfers were 1,005,030 shares, one of the smallest turnovers for a full session since July 9, and compared with 1,430,770 shares last Friday.

Of the 907 issues traded in today, 380 were higher, 312 lower and 215 unchanged. Fourteen made new 1944 highs and 3 new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed at 54.4, up .1 of a point.

Ahead at intervals—some failed to hold—were Southern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Can, International Telephone, American Telephone and Western Union "A." On the offside were du Pont, J. C. Penney, Douglas Aircraft, Caterpillar Tractor, Kennecott and Allied Chemical.

Trend on the Curb.

In the Curb, Alleghany-Ludlum Steel preferred jumped more than 12 points on a 10-share transaction. Intermittent support was accorded Cities Service, Raytheon and Glen Alden Coal.

From the standpoint of statisticians and chart followers, the big board seemed to be in a much healthier shape as a result of the reaction of the past two weeks. It was seen that the Associated Press industrial average had dropped nearly a third of its rise from the early April low to a six-year peak. This, technically, was in line with expectations if the bullish move was to be resumed.

A bit mystifying to Wall street was the fact that, while stocks have taken the downward path in New York as victory signs developed on all fronts, the London market has bulged. The same thing happened last year. When shares were being dumped in the American mart, buyers ruled in the British exchange.

Trend on the Curb.

Holders of oil securities noted the announcement that the Petroleum Administration had authroized operation of wells in the nation's producing states at a record output rate of 4,945,400 barrels daily during August.

Day's Fifteen Leaders.

MO. PACIFIC BONDS IN GROUP SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—Bonds were held in irregular price territory today by a continuation of last week's selling.

Loans of the Missouri Pacific were prominent among the improved corporate group, while various issues of New Haven, Northern Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande and Illinois Central were moderately lower near the final hour.

Certain low yield bonds which attracted higher bids in the early trading yielded their advantage later.

Trends were uneven in the foreign list with price changes small as a rule. United States Governments were steady.

Closing prices were mixed. Gainers included American Telephone 3¼s, up ⅜, and Alton 3s, up ⅝. Rock Island 4s of '88 were down 1⅜ and American & Foreign Power 5s lost 1.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP).—A New York Stock Exchange application to strike from listing and registration four series of refunding general mortgage sinking fund gold bonds issued by Wabah Railway Co., St. Louis, Mo., was granted today by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Effective July 31, Wabash Railway's 5½ per cent series "A" bonds due 1975; 5 per cent series "D" due 1980, will no longer be traded on the Exchange.

Wabash Railway has been succeeded by Wabash Railroad Company.

COTTON PRICES REBOUND MORE THAN $1 A BALE

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—The cotton future market rallied more than $1.00 a bale on New Orleans and commission house buying today, attracted by last week's sharp sell-off.

The advance was aided by a scarcity of offerings. Traders watched the war news closely and the rise largely was ascribed to technical considerations.

Late afternoon prices were 60 to 70 cents a bale higher, Oct. $21.25, Dec. $21.01, and Mch. $20.79.

STEEL MARKET REVIEW

CLEVELAND, July 24 (AP).—Instead of being able to allot substantial steel tonnage to civilian production, the War Production Board is hard-pressed to obtain sufficient steel for war needs, the Magazine Steel said today.

So that urgently needed materials may be obtained first, the publication asserted, the WPB is revising its apportionment.

"Sheet and plate deliveries are further extended and range from December to January, with some bookings beyond," said Steel. "Bar deliveries are falling behind, though not yet as badly as flat-rolled steel. Part of this is due to diversion of semi-finished steel."

National steel-making operations last week rose a half point to 97 per cent of capacity.

GRAINS TURN LOWER IN LATE SESSION

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP).—Grain futures eased off in late trading today, rye leading the decline.

Selling in the wheat pit was for cash interests hedging against continued large receipts at Southwestern markets and liquidation encouraged by indications the war in Europe may be shortened.

The weakness of wheat and limited demand for the cash grain caused the break in rye prices. Expecting industrial alcohol production to drop sharply when peace comes, traders anticipate further difficulty in disposing of large rye stocks now in storage in terminal elevators.

Increased offerings of rye found that shorts had quit buying and prices sank to the lowest levels in more than a month.

At the close wheat was ½ to ⅞c lower than Saturday's close, oats were off ½ to ⅞c, rye was off 1¼ to 2⅛c, barley was down 1¼ to 1½c.

Liquidation of July contracts Saturday, the last day of trading in that future, was so extensive that the open interest probably will be cleaned up by deliveries this week, market sources said. With this uncertainty removed, they added, the trade will be more influenced by long range supply and demand conditions.

Bookings of corn from the country slumped last week and the Commodity Credit Corporation instructed designated purchasers to buy in amounts necessary to fill their needs through Oct. 28.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, July 24.—'In the cash grain market today wheat was ½@1c lower on the sale of 49 cars.

LOWER STEEL RATE FORECAST

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP).—The nation's steel mills will operate at 95.9 per cent of capacity this week to produce 1,717,800 tons of steel, compared with 97.2 per cent a week earlier for 1,741,800 tons, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported.

A month ago operations were at the rate of 95.7 per cent, for 1,714,300 net tons, and a year ago the percentage was 97.4 and tonnage 1,697,000.

The Institute said this week's decline resulted directly from a strike at the Ashland (Ky.) plant of the American Rolling Mill Co.

Change in Subsidy to Canners.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—The War Food Administration's 1944 equalization payment program on canned vegetables will be based on processed products instead of the raw products used last year. Payments designed to maintain prices for certain canned vegetables at approximately 1943 averages will be made only to certified canners on the basis of sales made from March 1, 1944, to April 30, 1945. Payments will be on canned tomatoes, canned tomato juice, canned green peas, canned snap beans and canned sweet corn.

The WFA said provision had been made for inclusion of pea soup and tomato soup, but payments for them will compensate canners only for the increase in raw material cost.

St. Louis Clearings.

Local bank clearings for July 24 were $40,200,000. Debits to individual accounts for July 22 were $20,000,000.

More Movie Stars Turn to Producing

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD.

WHEN Jimmy Cagney broke away from Warner Bros. two years ago to start his own producing company, he instigated an exodus of star talent from the studios that is vexing tycoons more than any problem they face today. Cagney made a mint of money out of a simple little movie called "Johnny Comes Lately," enough, anyway, to inspire nearly two dozen big names to start out on their own. Gary Cooper, Charles Boyer, Bing Crosby, Don Ameche, Bette Davis, Errol Flynn, Abbott and Costello and Pat O'Brien are only a few to organize their own units, thus throwing a fearful scare into the already sorely-depleted talent ranks of major studios.

SEEMS UNDER CURRENT tax regulations a star can pile up a lot more money by getting off studio payrolls and going out on his own. By preparing tax returns on capital gain rather than on straight income basis, the star can retain a much larger sum of money.

Next time you see a story about one of these stars invading the producing field only because he's interested in getting better stories and for "the great art of the motion picture," don't you believe it. Even among hams, the clink of a dollar still means more than a lasting portrait.

TO DATE, THE few star-guided movies to reach the market have failed to set the world on fire. In normal times, they would have been dismal box office flops. When the war is ended and fans again start shopping cautiously for their movies, watch for the explosions. A star is only as good as his latest movie. Certainly, none (excepting Charlie Chaplin) has ever established a reputation for story-picking—to say nothing of showing the slightest aptitude for managing the affairs of a company.

CLOSE-UPS: After 21 months in the Army, Junior Laemmle, son of the famous Carl, who pioneered Universal Films, has returned to production. . . . Greatest feather in Junior's cap was "All Quiet on the Western Front," which he made under the guidance of his Dad. . . . Columbia is getting the old Broadway success, "Kiss and Tell," ready as a vehicle for Rita Hayworth, surrounded by an all-star cast. . . . Czar Will Hays is in Hollywood on his twenty-third annual visit and expects to remain long enough to install Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as his associate. . . . "John Dillinger—Killer" is coming up at Monogram, and the search is on for an "unknown" to play the lead. . . . Paramount expects Eddie Bracken to be the new crooning sensation when "Out of This World" is released. Eddie plays a singing messenger boy—and Bing Crosby has agreed to supply the singing sound track.

NOW THAT HE'S finished "Laura," Vincent Price is down at Santa Monica daily putting the finishing touches to his one-room beach house. He is building it by one-man power—Vincent Price—and it is going up out of secondhand lumber. The tiny home is surrounded by six acres and features outdoor plumbing.

CUTTING-ROOM GOSSIP says that a new star was born at the preview of "Wing and a Prayer." The new star prospect, created as a result of only four scenes in the film, is Glenn Langan, six-foot-four ex-Colorado football player, who once did a stretch as doorman at Grauman's Chinese Theater, home of the footprints. Kept out of service because of a football knee, Langan is now headed for big things at Twentieth Century-Fox.

LAUGH OF THE WEEK was the suit filed by John Loder and Hedy Lamaar against the producer of John's latest picture, for some terrific sum, because he permitted a still picture to be printed that showed Hedy glaring at John, who held two husky actors, dressed as women, on his lap.

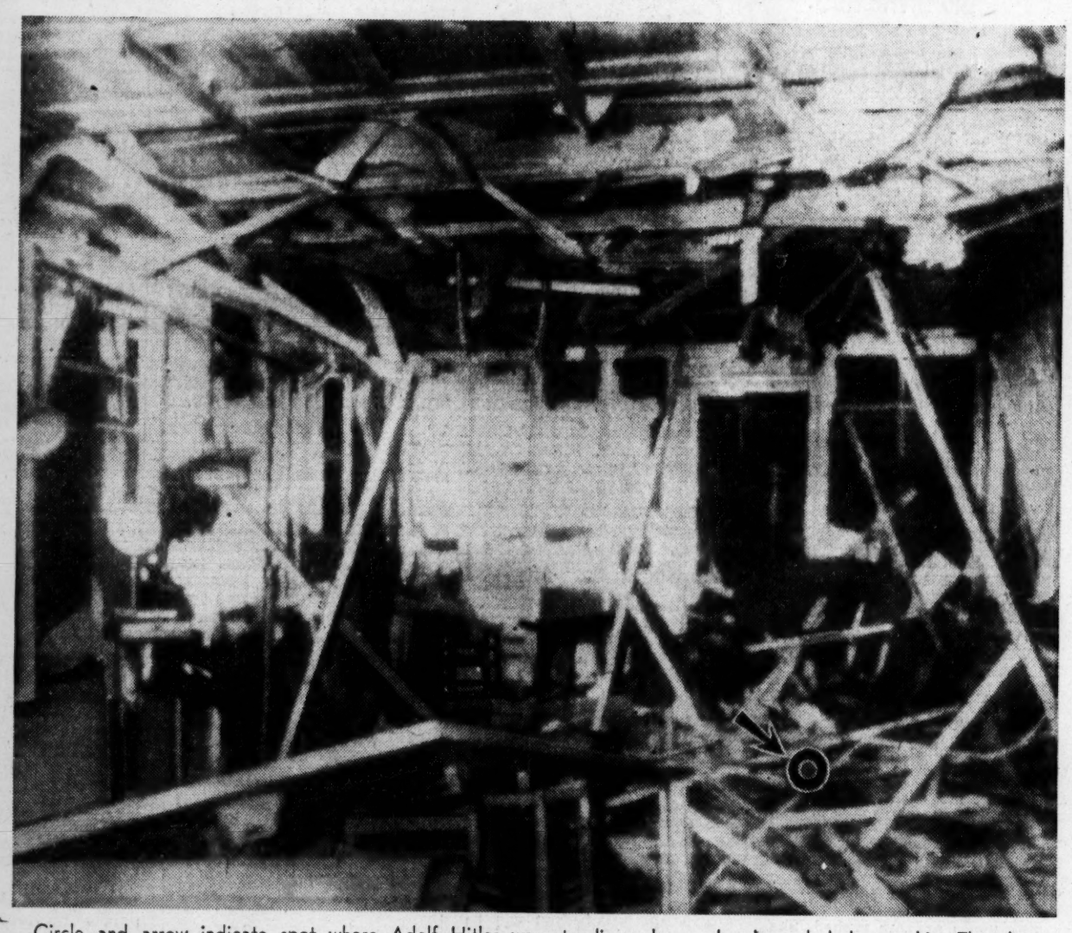

Not since Reginald Denny "disappeared" off the coast of Lower California has a publicity agent reached so far for a story.

Where Hitler Escaped Death

Circle and arrow indicate spot where Adolf Hitler was standing when a bomb exploded near him Thursday, wrecking the headquarters room in which he was surrounded by members of the high command, according to the caption of this German photo, supplied by the Swedish picture agency Pressens Bild. Hitler was only slightly injured but two officers and a political collaborator were fatally injured in the assassination attempt, according to Berlin announcement.

TWINS FLY TO NEW HOME

Shown at the start of an air trip that brought them from their birthplace in Long Beach, Cal., to St. Louis, where they arrived early today, are Stephen Loyd Bair and his twin sister, Sharon Loy, 3 weeks old. Holding the babies are their aunts, Mrs. Robert McGowan (left, with Stephen), and Mrs. Gladys Loy Stewart (with Sharon), sisters of their mother, who died soon after their birth. Kitty Zukas, airline hostess, holds formula bottles. The babies will live with relatives at Elkhart, Ill.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

WHEN is a Commander in Chief not a Commander in Chief? . . . If he was the C-in-C when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor (for which he was blamed) why isn't he the C-in-C in the Battle of Normandy? . . .Or would you rather the subject be dropped? . . . Life mag overpowers those who persist in belitting Russian help in this war—with this lethal push in the face: "Russia is about the only major power against whom Americans, in Colonial times, have never fought." . . . A maid and a porter (working all night) helping to extricate victims of the Santa Fe wreck recently were refused food at all the nearby cafes in Williams, Ariz. They had to walk miles out of town until they located a place owned by Negroes before they got food. . . . One headline shrieked: "F. D. R. to Quit After Six Months, If Elected!" . . . Then what are they worrying about?

CONSIDERING ALL the head-shaking about Democrats staying in power for 12 years, you'd think it was the first time in American history that one party dominated the presidency that long. But at one time the country didn't have a Democratic President for 16 years—from 1897 to 1913. . . . Wonder what's become of the chumps who squeaked that F. D. R. would postpone D-day until the opening of the Republican convention in order to deprive them of a few headlines? . . . Someone rates a medal for this: A Detroit radio station has banned commercial plugs which interrupt newscasts in the middle of programs. . . . Too many of us are indifferent to the threat from Argentina. Read Ray Joseph's "Argentine Diary" and shiver.

BEFORE CONGRESS went on a 30-day furlough Congressman Herman P. Eberharter (a member of the Dies Committee) seared the hide off the Diesman who seized long-distance telephone records to the White House—and gave them to a pro-Dies colyumist. . . . Dies is still attempting to vilify the White House—when taxpayers gave him money to protect the White House from subversive vilifiers. . . . Congressman Eberharter stated that he (and two other members of the committee) didn't know anything about the seizure. . . . He wanted it known that he "had no knowledge of this nauseating procedure." . . . The news of this action on the part of the telephone company (the Congressman pointed out) "will come as a shock to its millions and millions of subscribers," and he added: "Is the privacy of an occupant of the White House to be violated at the whim of an individual, whether he is a member of the House or otherwise? Can any citizen, be he obscure or renowned, feel secure in the face of such practices?" Congressman Eberharter then challenegd any member of the House to defend the practice.

P. S.: No one rose to defend it.

NEXT TO MOSQUITOES, America's commys are the nation's biggest nuisances. Every election they buzz around one political party or the other, claiming to give it the burden of their "support." . . . Only rabid reactionaries who live on a diet of red herring will attempt to use that to splash one party with a coat of red. . . . The latest ridiculous twist of the commy party line shows you what their support means: Recently, the local commy rag came to the defense of Wall Streeters. Does that make Wall Street a hot-bed of Communism?

GRACIE ALLEN, one presumes, doesn't listen to or read the jokes of Bob Hope. . . . In her convention colyum the other day Miss Allen noted Dewey had his eye on the Presidential chair—"but look what Roosevelt has on it!" . . . Very funny. . . . It was just as funny a few months ago when Hope told it at the White House correspondents' dinner. . . . And which the news wire services reported from coast to coast. . . . It was also funny when it was pinned on Willkie in 1940 and when this colyum first cribbed it in 1924.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE D-207: Edward J., aged 35, reads this column in his local paper. He sent me an editorial from the newspaper that dealt with the failure of women to volunteer in sufficient numbers to meet the WAC quotas. Incidentally, some official in Ohio wrote me a letter last year asking for suggestions for pepping up enlistments by women, and I mislaid the letter, so I hereby make public apology and shall devote this column today to methods for increasing enlistments in the WACS, WAVES and other patriotic women's organizations. "I have heard many appeals over the radio by one of the topnotch women officials of the WAC," Edward explained, "and I wonder if a man's voice would not register more strongly with young women hereabouts.

"USING MYSELF as a test case, and realizing that I may possibly be biased since I am a male, I nevertheless feel a distinct negative reacttion to this woman's voice and her manner of delivery. Perhaps a young woman would feel even more negatively as regards enlistment, after hearing this type of radio appeal. Dr. Crane, if all the officers in the WAC above the grade of sergeant or lieutenant were men, don't you think the enlisted personnel would feel happier and register less complaints? I have noticed, for example, that women will work for men with less complaint than when they are working for their own sex. Aside from a few intense feminists, the majority of women seem to prefer male superiors, whether in business or politics, education or the professions. Maybe our women's patriotic organizations would have been far better patronized by volunteers, if men headed such groups and held the superior offices. What do you think of my ideas, Dr. Crane?"

PERHAPS IT WOULD be more profitable if I turned Edward's question to you women, since you are the folks to whom the WAC organization is making its appeals? If a woman physician and a male physician of equal training and skill were to open offices in your town, would you women readers prefer the female doctor or the male doctor? In much the same fashion, do you patronize women dentists and lawyers as readily as you do male dentists and attorneys? Do you prefer to have a woman in the pulpit of your churches, or a man there? In the factories and offices, do you women workers prefer to have a female supervisor or boss, or would you rather work for a man? Even in the realm of newspaper columnists where male and female writers deal with child psychology, as well as love and marriage problems, do you prefer a male columnist to a female columnist? Your answers to these questions would probably be very helpful to the leaders of our women's military organizations.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

AN egg casserole, such as we describe in the recipe below, is well adapted to either children or adults, between the ages of one and ninety. It's full of vitamins, proteins and minerals and should be very easily digested if care is taken in the cooking of the eggs. For tender, very easily digested hard-cooked eggs it is most important to cook the eggs below the boiling point. Cooking at simmering for 20 minutes is necessary to obtain an egg cooked to the point where it will cut in half neatly.

Egg Casserole.

Four tablespoons margarine, one cup diced celery, two tablespoons minced onion, one tablespoon green pepper, three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups milk, two tablespoons chopped parsley, six hard-cooked eggs, two tablespoons melted margarine, one slice bread, cubed. Melt margarine in saucepan; add celery, onion and green pepper and saute for five minutes. Add the flour and salt and blend well. Gradually add the milk. Bring to a simmer over low heat and cook for two minutes, stirring constantly. Add the parsley and pour sauce over the eggs which have been cut in half crosswise and placed in the bottom of a buttered five-cup casserole. Toss the bread cubes in the melted margarine. Sprinkle on top of casserole. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Four servings.

MENUS FOR TUESDAY

Breakfast.

Sliced oranges, six chilled; crisp ready to eat cereal, four generous servings; whole wheat cinnamon toast, eight slices; hot cocoa, three tablespoons cocoa, two tablespoons sugar, three-fourths cup boiling water, three cups scalded milk, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla, dash of salt.

Luncheon.

Egg casserole, see recipe above; carrot sticks, six carrots; rye wafers, one package bought; honeydew melon, chill and serve with a wedge of lemon.

Dinner.

Veal loaf, one and one-fourth pound ground veal, one-fourth pound ground fresh fat pork, one-third cup fine, dry bread crumbs, one egg, beaten; two tablespoons milk, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, one and one-half teaspoons salt. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour; escalloped potatoes, slice one and one-half pounds potatoes; bring to a boil in milk to cover. Add seasonings and margarine to taste. Turn into a buttered casserole and bake until done, about 30 minutes; buttered Swiss chard, two pounds; cabbage salad, three cups shredded cabbage, one tablespoon green pepper, four radishes, sliced thin, four tablespoons boiled salad dressing, mixed with four tablespoons mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste; bread, eight slices French bread; blackberry pudding, sift together one and one-half cups sifted flour and three teaspoons baking powder. Cream one-fourth cup shortening and one-half cup sugar. Add one-third teaspoon salt, one egg; beat well. Add one-half cup milk alternately with the sifted flour mixture. Place one pint blackberries in the bottom of a greased, eight by eight by two-inch pan and pour batter over them. Serve with lemon sauce. Butter or fortified margarine used on all breads. Include in today's menus, milk to drink: Four cups for children; two cups for adults.

For Vacation Wear

Rayon jersey packs so easily and wrinkles so little that dresses, gowns and pajamas, and even play clothes of jersey are perfect for vacation wardrobes. An attractive double-duty play suit of jersey has blouse and shorts of a yellow and green floral print, with a wrap-around skirt of yellow.

Vanilla Cookies

One-half cup shortening; one-third cup sugar, two-thirds cup flour, one egg, thoroughly beaten; one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and gradually add sugar, egg, flour and vanilla to shortening. Drop mixture one tablespoon at a time on a greased cooky sheet. Dip flat knife in cold water and spread cookies with it until they are quite flat. Bake at 375 degrees until the cookies are light brown around the edges.

'Fresh as a Daisy'

By Patricia Lindsay

TO keep fresh looking, sweet smelling and attractive during truly hot weather is not a simple task so when you see a girl who looks as if she just stepped out of a band-box, crisp and lovely, you can make your bet that she is meticulous about her beauty.

She has taken every precaution to protect her daintiness. A slow shower or bath in fragrant waters, a gentle application of cologne or after bath fragrance, the use of a perspiration check, and careful application of a foundation to keep her make-up faultless for hours.

She never appears rushed. She is calm. To keep calm she plans her day's routine in advance, allows plenty of time to get where she is going; she prizes her beauty enough to preserve it. She values poise for she knows that it pays big dividends.

Instead of gossiping or spending her time in equally worthless endeavor she checks over her wardrobe regularly. Her clothes are always ready to wear—they are never hung or put away unless they are in perfect order.

She likes lovely things. Lovely underwear, sheer hose, fragrant cosmetics, pretty house gowns and clothes. She cares for them when she acquires them.

This fresh-as-a-daisy beauty would never be guilty of carrying a soiled powder puff, a smeared lipstick case, a messy handbag. Nor would her hair look as if it needed care. Her regular routine of grooming protects her beauty; no hasty last minute jobs for her.

Is she popular? You bet she is! Women envy her and admire her. Men woo her. For she is the essence of daintiness; truly feminine; proud of her birthright.

She is the beauty you can be with a little planning!

Once you make a habit of being meticulous you will never again lapse into carelessness!

The Clinging Child

By Angelo Patri

MOTHER bathed the two little girls and helped them into their night clothes, heard their prayers and tucked them into bed.

"Now I'm going to run around to Grandma's to see how she is. I'll be back for supper with Daddy but you will be fast asleep by that time, I hope."

Caroline smiled and said goodnight. Ruth looked distressed and puckered her face. Mother went to her room to put on her hat and as she turned from the mirror, there stood Ruth.

"Now, Ruth, why did you get out of bed?"

"I don't feel well. My heart hurts me," pressing her hand to the place most dramatically. "And my eyes feel so funny."

"Ruth, the doctor has told you that there is nothing the matter with your heart, or your eyes, or with any part of you. You are trying to make me stay with you, that's all. It is very naughty of you. Go back to bed and stay there."

The child began to scream hysterically. She clung to her mother and would not let her go. By the time she was quieted it was time for supper. Daddy arrived and mother had to have supper with him. Ruth lay quietly in bed, wide awake and listening."

"Nursie, is my mother downstairs?"

"Yes, she is, thanks to your badness. You ought to be ashamed of yourself to worry her the way you do."

"Tell her if she goes out, I will cry again."

"That's all right. You go ahead and cry. I'm here now and your mother's going out to see Grandmother. I have a good supply of cold water waiting for you if you feel you need it. Otherwise you'd better go to sleep."

"I don't want to go to sleep. I'll lie awake until mother comes."

"Very well, my dear. That will be tomorrow morning. I am going to sit in my own room now for awhile before I go to bed. Goodnight."

Ruth considered for a time. Then she let out a yell, long and loud and shrill. She rested. Another yell, quite the equal to the first. She rested again, waiting for rescue. None came. The house remained as quiet as a church. She heard the nurse turn on the water in the bathroom and raised her voice in protest. Still nobody went to her. She gulped a few times, murmured to herself and turned over to sleep.

Mothers have to have freedom of movement. Don't let even ailing children become clinging children. It is bad for them and for everybody else.

Fried Rice

Two tablespoons cooking oil; one medium onion, thinly sliced; one green pepper, cut in inch-square pieces; two tablespoons soy sauce, if available; two cups cooked rice.

Heat oil in skillet over medium flame. Fry onion in this until golden brown. Add green pepper and cook two minutes longer.

Now add rice and cook, stirring constantly, until rice is thoroughly heated through. Add soy sauce and mix well. Serve with Chinese shrimp (above) poured over all.

THREE BITTEN BY RABID DOG ORDERED TO TAKE TREATMENT

Three persons were ordered to report today for Pasteur treatment at the Municipal Clinic after they were bitten Saturday night by a rabid fox terrier that ran madly through the vicinity of Shirley and Dryden places.

Those bitten were Robert Hurley, 4625 Shirley place; Miss Betty Taylor, a war worker, of 4542 Arnold place, and Mary Ann Whalen, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whalen, 4542 Arnold place.

Agents of the Missouri Humane Society captured the dog after a chase of about an hour and determined that it had rabies. The owner of the animal was not known.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

WHAT are you going to do about a husband who tells you he loves you and the baby more than anything in the world and there is no one else, but he wants a divorce? When I ask him for an explanation, he says I could do better by marrying someone else. He's been overseas a year now and I know he gets awfully discouraged and lonesome. I have kept on writing cheerful letters although he stopped writing some time ago. I'm trying to keep a stiff upper lip and pretend there isn't anything wrong but I'm finding it awfully hard to do. We are not just kids but are both in our late twenties. Please advise me. SAILOR'S WIFE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

It sounds to me as if your husband has a bad case of loneliness and needs reassurance of your love and affection more than anything else. Very likely he feels that the fact that he is so far away, that perhaps his income is not very big, tend to make you dissatisfied with your marriage. It is up to you to assure him that you love him as much as ever, do not want anyone else, and are waiting for the day when you can be reunited. Refuse to consider any talk of divorce while he is overseas. When he returns he will have an entirely different, much less gloomy outlook on things. Meanwhile keep writing those cheerful letters. If you have not heard from him for some time and are worried about his safety you might contact the Red Cross.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL 15 years old and like a boy, 16. He liked me last summer. I didn't care much for him, but now I like him very much, and think he still likes me. How can I find out if he does without making a fool of myself, for we only say hello to one another and that's as far as it goes. Will you please send me a popularity leaflet. J. D.

How to find out the state of man's affections without committing herself, has been woman's problem since time immemorial. However, in view of your tender age, I think you might safely shelve the romance angle for a few years, and concentrate on being friends with the boy. Try putting an extra bright smile behind that "hello," and if you go around with a crowd of young people—as you should—see to it that someone else in the crowd includes him in one of the parties or picnics. Other than that let the situation take care of itself. If he still likes you, he'll get past the formal stage some day.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IT HAS BEEN six months since I heard from a friend of mine who used to write often. In his last letter he said he was ill but was expecting to be sent overseas soon. Will you tell me how I can learn his present address? E. D. T.

You might try writing to him at the last address you have, in hopes that the letter will be forwarded. Otherwise your only recourse would be to write to his family, if you know where they live, or to some mutual friend and find out where he is. If this boy knows your address and had always been a faithful correspondent, you can readily conclude that he's too busy where he is now for letter writing, but that you may hear from him eventually.

IN ANSWER TO "Leading a Sorry Life": The best solution for you, honey, is to make a friend of your sister. I am sure that she will do all she can to take a mother's place if you will just give her the chance. Once upon a time not too long ago she was 13, too, and had just the problems you are encountering. Talk to her about you spending the time at the "Y" this summer, learning useful things, swimming, being with congenial girls your own age. And how about a nice teen-age crowd in the neighborhood? You are the right age for that, too. Don't allow yourself to brood, to feel unloved and misunderstood, that isn't healthy. Get outdoors these summer days, do your home chores, show you can be trusted, give Dad and Big Sister lots of affection and you will get it in return.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

ORDINARILY it is considered just as impertinent to ask someone how much this or that costs, as it is to ask a grown person her age. However, from the description of circumstances, in the following letter, this seems to have been an exceptional case: "I'm not a decorator but nevertheless a friend and I have been discussing new pieces for her house. This has been going on for some months and the question of prices has come up many times. She has been entirely frank with me until this one day when I dropped in and noticed a new piece. It was lovely and I immediately went into ecstasies and without thinking anything wrong, asked her where she found it and how much it had cost? She evaded my questions so pointedly that I felt very much embarrassed."

As already said, the circumstances leading to your question made your asking it so obviously natural, I can't understand why the door should suddenly have been slammed in your face. I don't know any answer further than that it perhaps only goes to prove the "safety" of conventional rules. In this particular instance I think the loss is hers. At least it does not seem to me likely that you will care very much about helping her further.

DEAR MRS. POST: One of the items served when I was a guest of friends lately, was peas. My hostess served them in small round individual dishes, and she and her husband ate them from these dishes with a spoon. Is it correct to serve peas and other vegetables in this manner, and is it ever correct to eat vegetables with a spoon?

Answer: According to good table manners, both are incorrect. On the other hand, they may certainly do what they please in their own house.

DEAR MRS. POST: What is required of me with respect to my son's fiancee's parents? The girl is working near here and we know her well and see her often. But her parents live far away and I wondered whether I am supposed to write her mother a note?

Answer: Although your welcoming of the girl is the only definite requirement of etiquette, her mother would undoubtedly be very happy to have you write her something appreciative about Mary as well as to have you express a wish to meet all of her family soon. In fact, it is the naturally courteous thing to do.

The Doctor On Pattern Of Growth

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE normal unfolding, growth and development of the child's body, from birth to adolescence, follows an average standard pattern. The plans, the specifications of this pattern are remarkably rigid for the normal average individual.

It may seem to vary widely from person to person. There are those who are destined to be short people and those who are destined to be tall, fat, medium and lean. But granted that you can't lay down any mathematical rules for those types, all of them maintain quite exact body proportions and rate of growth.

One fellow may be four feet, eight and another six feet two, but in both of them if the arms are stretched out, and measurements made from finger tip to finger tip it will be exactly the same as the height, and the measurement of the length of the legs, from heel to the symphysis, the bone in the center of the body in front, is the same as from symphysis to the top of the head. In other words, no matter what the size of the person the proportions are kept the same. And, tall or short, the rate of growth of bone, the age at which the bones are laid down is the same.

THIS PHENOMENON of basic growth is controlled largely by two of the ductless glands—the thyroid and pituitary. Their influence is exerted on the bones and can be seen and adjudged by the Xray.

Parents who know a little smattering of this by having read some of the popular accounts of the ductless glands in current literature are always fussing and wondering whether to give one or the other of their children some gland extracts to make it grow or to stop it growing, or to make it thin or fat, as the case may be.

There is just a grain or two of reason in these ideas, enough to make them worth consideration in some cases, but such treatment should be given or withheld in accordance with a full knowledge of the subject and common sense.

In the first place, slight deviations from the rigid pattern which I have laid down are not of consequence and should not be interfered with by artificial feeding of gland extracts. One boy may shoot up and seem to be all legs. Undoubtedly there is for a time in his body an over-secretion of the pituitary, but before long Nature gets control and slows the pituitary down and he winds up a normal, average pattern. Or this other one is definitely short and doesn't grow rapidly in the growth time period of adolescence. Very likely the thyroid has slowed up. But then old Mother Nature wakes up and given the thyroid a jog and the little fellow suddenly within a year catches up with all his companions of the same age. These experiences are so common that you can see examples of them around you every day.

JUST WHEN, or at what point, these allowable divergences go over into the definitely pathologic where treatment by gland extracts is indicated is a matter of judgment. One test if any parent is puzzled is to take an Xray of the wrist and see the bone age as shown by ossification of the carpal bones. These little bones begin to ossify at very definite dates on the normal, average and the real age of the child (not the time age) is shown here best.

If the bone age is behind the time age and if the child is stunted in growth the use of thyroid extract does wonders.

Lessened thyroid secretion takes many different forms in childhood and does not show up as the classical cretinoid individual in any but a few instances. If a child seems backward mentally, or gains weight at the expense of height anywhere from the ages of three to eight, it is good sense to determine its bony development by the Xray and if this indicates the necessity, to exhibit thyroid extract. It should be spotted in childhood because later is too late.

General Tendencies—This is a changeable time, beginning well and ending well, but with a disturbing or delaying element present during midday. Plan your affairs in the early morning, take things slowly in the early afternoon, and then look forward to real diversion all through the evening. Any changes suggested to you will probably turn out well, but let them come from other people. Do not initiate them yourself.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

You may feel at times, during your next year, that there is a good deal going on which you do not understand or which seems unnecessary and vague to you. Do not allow this to trouble you, because affairs are working to your advantage, even when they seem covered with dark clouds. If you can turn your mind to study through 1944 and 1945, you will advance very quickly. Your best month seems due in August.

Tomorrow's Watchword.

People have peculiar ideas upon the subject of finances. Sometimes they write their convictions in to me, although astrology deals less with man's actual possessions than with his attitude toward them. I can always quote Pope Leo XIII, however, for a clear statement on economics. "Every man has by nature the right to possess property as his own . . . but it is one thing to have a right to the possession of money and another to have a right to use that money exactly as one pleases."

Tailored With Softening Details

Ruffles Are Added to Shirt Waist Model, Peplums to Narrow Silhouette

A RUFFLE OF SELF FABRIC ACCENTS THE NECKLINE AND WRAP-AROUND FRONT CLOSING OF THIS DRESS IN DEEP GREEN.

IT'S a feminine mood that guides fashion's hand this season. Nowhere is it more apparent than in California where the designers have taken the classic fashions for which they are so well known and have given them a new softness.

California is one of the country's outstanding centers for creating sportswear and therefore, as California goes, so goes the country. One of the popular fashions introduced there this season is the lumberjacket silhouette, a new version of the two-piece mode, tailored with deep armholes, squared into a shoulder yoke and tie belt that snugs the waistline.

The weskit fashion is another tailored style that California endorses. Two-piece costumes that include skirt and vest, with colorful shirt-blouse—an ensemble that will go to many campuses this fall and which will be popular with young career women.

Blazer jackets belong in this group, too. "Little boy" blazers worn now with bright tweed skirts and over dark wool dresses to become colorful all-purpose costumes suited to every daytime need.

The favorite shirtwaist dress now takes on a side closing and outlines it in a ruffle from neckline to hem, set off with jewel buttons. This is a young dress for the woman who wants something comfortable and not too tailored.

The peplum and the tunic are California favorites, used to give width and drama to the narrow silhouette. There is a tendency, too, to pull the skirt backward and to pose bows and ribbons on the back to give interest to the back of the costume. This is another trend introduced last season which has survived to become an important fashion for the coming winter. Waistlines are moving downward. The real or simulated lower waistline is one which gives a middy look to California fashions.

It is not so much the originality of design that makes this season different but rather the wide acceptance of certain details by all designers from the West coast to the East which combine to give freshness to these new fashions and a basic similarity.

California, which has always liked slacks, creates costumes that top them with long jackets and vests that give smoothness to the hipline and hide unwanted "bulges."

Evening fashions are glamorously conceived. The long dress is revived in a manner that leaves no doubt as to its popularity. Low necklines, slim skirts slashed to the knee are among the more familiar details.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Sunday.

I KNOW that many people must have felt, as I did, a great interest and pride in Vice President Wallace's achievements during his journeys to the Far East and in his reports on his return. There are not many men whom we could send from this country who would be welcomed in both Russia and China by the people as he was. It is known everywhere that he has consistently proved himself a friend of the average man and woman in his own country.

To those who know Mr. Henry Wallace's background and ancestry, it is no surprise that he has inherited both idealism and ability to fight for the things in which he believes. His grandfather had that same ability. There is no question in my mind but that Henry Wallace would rather be defeated in a fight which he had undertaken than trim his sails or disavow a belief which he held. There is integrity and pride in all the Wallaces back of him, and history will record no lack of these qualities in the present day Wallace because of the years which he has spent in Washington.

Men of the weaker fibre might be changed by contacts with so many people who are ever ready to point out the things that are expedient and the reasons why it is so much easier to make friends with certain types of people than it is to fight them. The fundamental qualities which were in Henry Wallace when he came to Washington as Secretary of Agriculture, are as strong as ever. He believes in the rights of people—all the people, not just a few. He is an economist and he has a practical mind. At times, to meet existing circumstances, he has to accept certain modifications of his own objectives, but never has he changed his goal.

Mr. Wallace has made far more of the office of vice president than most men have been able to make in the past. When he has thought things were worth doing, he has done them, no matter how much it cost him personally. I don't remember hearing that our former vice president, while in office, learned two new languages, and yet Henry Wallace learned Spanish just to talk to the people of Central and South America in their own language. He made a greater contribution to our good neighbor policy by doing this. When he reached Siberia, he was able to speak in Russian. Anyone who travels in foreign countries knows what it means to the people of a country to hear a stranger speak their language, and they know also how much more quickly one can learn about a new country if one can speak to people in their own tongue.

For this latest trip and the friendship which he developed for us among the people of Russia and China, we, the people of the United States, owe him our deepest gratitude. As he has told us, some of our greatest opportunities in the future lie in these countries, and Henry Wallace has made it easier for us to build enduring friendships.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Conspiracy of Silence."

Nowadays a "conspiracy of silence" usually concerns adverse happenings in the war, and is on the ground of avoiding aid to the enemy. That is not, however, how it started.

The power of newspaper and radio publicity is well known. Nobody questions that a man or woman whose name is a household word would soon be unthought of if the press engaged in a "conspiracy of silence" against them.

It was just such a premeditated ignoring, in England, that created the phrase.

In 1885 the Pall Mall Gazette published a series of sensational disclosures on a distasteful subject. The matter was so objectionable that the rest of the press avoided any reference to it. Soon the Pall Mall Gazette took the tip and dropped the subject, and before long the whole incident was forgotten—except the phrase "conspiracy of silence" which had been applied to it.

So we have an apt expression to describe a tacit or deliberate agreement not to mention a subject—and something to remind us of the innate integrity, on the whole, of the fourth estate.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

DUPLICATE players often marvel that on a certain board one declarer has managed to take two or three tricks more than the rest of the field. Well, here is one sound explanation:

South, dealer.
East-West, vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ KQ105 ♥ A43 ♦ 832 ♣ K73 | |
| ♠ 73 ♥ KJ97 ♦ Q6 ♣ QJ1094 | NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH | ♠ 62 ♥ Q108 ♦ 10754 ♣ A862 |
| | ♠ AJ984 ♥ 652 ♦ AKJ9 ♣ 5 | |

At all eight tables South became declarer at a four spade contract, usually via the simple bidding: one spade by South, three spades by North, four spades by South.

In every case West opened the club queen and East captured the king. The club return was ruffed, the outstanding trumps were drawn in two leads, and seven declarers then finessed against the queen of diamonds. Sometimes this proved fatal to the contract; in other cases 10 tricks still were made because these particular South players then took another finesse against the diamond 10 instead of trying to drop that card in straight leads.

The eighth declarer, like the others, saw that if the diamond queen lay exactly twice guarded in East's hand (he already had played the ace and the 10 had not appeared), it would be easy to run the entire suit, discarding a heart from dummy, but he further saw that this precise position of diamonds was extremely unlikely. Therefore, he decided to use a safety play for the contract itself. He continued with the diamond king after the ace, intending, if the queen did not fall, to enter dummy and lead toward the jack. He was rewarded lavishly when the queen fell from West, since he then could enter dummy, finesse freely for the diamond 10, and discard a heart from dummy without giving up a diamond trick.
